The Sun's Influence On Climate Princeton Primers In Climate:

The Sun's Influence on Climate Joanna D. Haigh, Peter Cargill, 2015-06-23 The Earth's climate system depends entirely on the Sun for its energy. Solar radiation warms the atmosphere and is fundamental to atmospheric composition while the distribution of solar heating across the planet produces global wind patterns and contributes to the formation of clouds, storms, and rainfall. The Sun's Influence on Climate provides an unparalleled introduction to this vitally important relationship. This accessible primer covers the basic properties of the Earth's climate system, the structure and behavior of the Sun, and the absorption of solar radiation in the atmosphere. It explains how solar activity varies and how these variations affect the Earth's environment from long-term paleoclimate effects to century timescales in the context of human-induced climate change and from signals of the 11-year sunspot cycle to the impacts of solar emissions on space weather in our planet's upper atmosphere. Written by two of the leading authorities on the subject, The Sun's Influence on Climate is an essential primer for students and nonspecialists alike.

The Anthropocene as a Geological Time Unit Jan Zalasiewicz, Colin N. Waters, Mark Williams, Colin P. Summerhayes, 2019-03-07 Reviews the evidence underpinning the Anthropocene as a geological epoch, written by the Anthropocene Working Group investigating it. The book discusses ongoing changes to the Earth system within the context of deep geological time, allowing a comparison between the global transition taking place today with major transitions in Earth history.

30-second Climate Joanna D. Haigh, 2019 30 Second Climate is an immediately accessible guide to the 50 key factors affecting Earth's climate past, present, and future, each explained in half a minute. From atmospheric circulation to zero carbon, this is the quickest way to know your planet.

Balancing Planet Ylia Callan, 2025-09-11 Balancing Planet takes readers on a sweeping journey through Earth's climate history from the fiery beginnings of the planet to the ice ages, from the rise of human civilisation to the unprecedented warming of today. Combining science, history, mythology, and philosophy, this book explores how climate has shaped life and how life, particularly humanity, now shapes climate. Through vivid storytelling, readers will explore The cataclysmic events that forged Earth's atmosphere and oceans Icebound continents and dramatic warming periods that prefigure today's climate challenges How humans first began altering the climate through agriculture deforestation and the Industrial Revolution The accelerating impact of fossil fuels urbanisation and global industry Modern climate science international agreements and the complex politics of global warming Cutting edge solutions renewable energy regenerative agriculture carbon capture rewilding and climate resilient technologies Ethical cultural and mythological perspectives on stewardship justice and humanity's role as a conscious force on the planet Balancing Planet is not only an authoritative guide to climate science but also a call to action It inspires hope while showing readers the real actionable steps that can lead to a thriving regenerative Earth This is a book for anyone who wants to understand the past navigate the present and shape a sustainable future

Design Primer for Hot Climates Allan Konya, 2013-10-22 Design Primer for Hot Climates offers a discussion of architecture and planning for hot climates The hot tropical and sub tropical regions contain most of the world's population and it is here that the majority of new buildings will be built For this reason this book concentrates on these regions but serves only as a broad outline of the climatic environmental and technological conditions The book begins with a discussion of climatic elements climatic zones and comfort This is followed by separate chapters on climatic design regional hazards e.g. condensation lightning storms earthquakes etc that must be considered during the design stage and factors such as site accessibility materials selection water and labor supply and building regulations and standards This book is meant not only for designers from temperate climatic areas but also for those who live in these regions in the hope that they will be stimulated to re-examine conditions which may have become over familiar to them

Dimming the Sun Thomas Ramge, 2025-03-04 A groundbreaking vital examination of a powerful and extremely controversial stopgap solution to looming climate catastrophe It would be great if humanity could forgo solar geoengineering and get climate change under control before the world goes off the rails But I no longer believe in this possibility Earth stands at a tipping point As we fail to curtail emissions fast enough our planet stares down a cascade of imminent catastrophic and irreversible disaster triggered by climate change Yet a potent technology already exists to buy us more time solar geoengineering Through methods such as atmospheric aerosols human generated cirrus clouds and solar sails we humans can at least in the short term slow the Earth's warming Should we Award winning science writer Thomas Ramge's Dimming the Sun is his provocative informative urgent and necessary exploration of this intriguing stopgap solution Ramge shows us how the science works what the risks are both geophysical and political and how the international community might come together to agree on and regulate a safe and effective plan for geoengineering And while he identifies the unknowns about the technology that remain he believes this very uncertainty demands our full attention With time to avert the worst of climate change rapidly running out he makes a forceful case that the most responsible course of action is to dramatically increase research on solar geoengineering now before it's too late
