Sensing the Sacred in Medieval and Early Modern Culture Robin Macdonald, Emilie Murphy, Elizabeth L. Swann, 2018-05-20 This volume traces transformations in attitudes toward ideas about and experiences of religion and the senses in the medieval and early modern period Broad in temporal and geographical scope it challenges traditional notions of periodisation highlighting continuities as well as change Rather than focusing on individual senses the volume's organisation emphasises the multisensoriality and

Reading between the lines - Leo Strauss and the history of early modern philosophy Winfried Schröder, 2015-11-13 Since its publication in 1952 Leo Strauss's Persecution and the Art of Writing has stirred considerable controversy particularly among historians concerned with early modern philosophy On the one hand several scholars share his view that it would be inadequate to generally take at face value the explicit message of texts which were composed in an era in which severe sanctions were imposed on those who entertained deviating views Reading between the lines therefore seems to be the appropriate hermeneutical approach On the other hand the risks of such an interpretative maxim are more than obvious as it might come up to an unlimited license to ascribe heterodox doctrines to early modern philosophers whose manifest teachings were in harmony with the orthodox positions of their time The contributions to this volume both address these methodological issues and discuss paradigmatic cases of authors who might indeed be candidates for a Straussian reading between the lines Hobbes Spinoza and Bayle

Echoes of Coinherence W. Ross Hastings, 2017-07-28 This book re imagines the universe and the scientific study of it through the lens of a triune Creator three persons of irreducible identity in a perichoretic or coinherent communion It modestly proposes that Trinitarian theology and especially the coinherent natures of the Son in the incarnation provides the metaphysic or theory of everything that manifests itself in the subject matter of science The presence of the image of the triune God in humanity and of traces of this God in the non human creation are discussed highlighting ontological resonances between God and creation resonances between the being of God and his creation such as goodness immensity yet particularity intelligibility agency relationality and beauty This Trinitarian reality suggests there should be a similarity also with respect to how we know in theology and science critical realism something reflected in the history of ideas in each These resonances lead to the conclusion that the disciplines of theology and science are in fact coinherent not conflicted This involves recognition of both the mutuality of these vocations and also importantly their particularity Science its own distinct guild yet finds its place ensconced within an encyclopedic theology and subject to first order credal theology
