The New York City Subway System Ronald A. Reis, 2009 Teeming with a population of 3 5 million at the end of the 19th century the island of Manhattan couldn't meet the city's demand for rapid transit with its horse drawn trolleys and elevated train lines New York City needed a subway system After four years of digging and diverting miles of utilities and tunneling under the Harlem River the city's residents celebrated a new era in mass transit on October 27 1904 with the opening of a nine mile subway route In the century to come the New York subway would grow and expand to a system that runs 24 hours a day seven days a week with 6 400 cars 468 stations a daily ridership of 4 5 million and 842 miles of track longer than the distance from New York to Chicago Politics graffiti and unbelievable construction challenges combined to make the building and running of the New York subway system one of the America's greatest civic undertakings

New York City's Central Park Louise Chipley Slavicek, 2009 New York City's Central Park is the most visited urban park in the United States with more than 25 million visitors each year Designed in 1857 by the man who would become America's most famous landscape architect Frederick Law Olmsted and his partner Calvert Vaux Central Park was intended to provide New Yorkers with a serene and scenic rural refuge from the noise and bustle of city life Yet transforming the rocky swampy park site into the rolling meadows lush woodlands and pristine lakes would prove an extremely time consuming and labor intensive endeavor Thousands of workers drained marshes blasted away boulders and planted a quarter billion trees flowers and shrubs to create the 843 acre green oasis in the heart of Manhattan as envisioned by Olmsted and Vaux
