

CONCEPT OF WORKING CAPITAL

Working capital differs from fixed capital in terms of time required to recover the investment in a given asset. In case of fixed capital or long-term asset (such as land, building and equipment, a firm usually needs several year or more to recover the initial, investment in contrast, working capital is turned over or circulated at a relatively repaid rate.

There are two concept of working capital gross and net working capital.

Generally the working capital has its significance in two perspectives. There are gross working capital and net working capital are called “Balance sheet Approach” of working capital.

GROSS WORKING CAPITAL

The terms ‘gross working capital’ refers to the firm’s investment in current asset. According to this concept working capital refers to firm’s investment in current asset. The amount of current liabilities is not deducted from total of current asset.

NET WORKING CAPITAL

The term ‘net working capital’ refers to the excess of current assets over current liabilities. It refers to the difference between current assets and current liabilities the net working capital is qualitative concept which indicates the liquidity position of a firm and the extent to which working capital needs may be financed by permanent source of fund.

The ‘positive net working ’represents the excess of current assets over current liabilities.

The networking capitals turn to be negative when current liabilities are exceeding the current asset. The negative ‘working capital’ position will adversely affect the operation of the firm and its profitability.

Working capital is also divided into permanent and temporary working capital.
