The Story of N Hugh S. Gorman, 2013-01-24 In The Story of N Hugh S. Gorman analyzes the notion of sustainability from a fresh perspective the integration of human activities with the biogeochemical cycling of nitrogen and provides a supportive alternative to studying sustainability through the lens of climate change and the cycling of carbon It is the first book to examine the social processes by which industrial societies learned to bypass a fundamental ecological limit and later began addressing the resulting concerns by establishing limits of their own. The book is organized into three parts: Part I, The Knowledge of Nature, explores the emergence of the nitrogen cycle before humans arrived on the scene and the changes that occurred as stationary agricultural societies took root; Part II, Learning to Bypass an Ecological Limit, examines the role of science and market capitalism in accelerating the pace of innovation, eventually allowing humans to bypass the activity of nitrogen-fixing bacteria; Part III, Learning to Establish Human Defined Limits, covers the twentieth-century response to the nitrogen-related concerns that emerged as more nitrogenous compounds flowed into the environment. A concluding chapter, The Challenge of Sustainability, places the entire story in the context of constructing an ecological economy in which innovations that contribute to sustainable practices are rewarded.

Soil Fertility Decline in the Tropics Alfred E. Hartemink, 2003. Wide coverage of soils and perennial cropping systems in the tropics. Synthesis of decades of research. Challenges assumptions on the benefits of plantations for soil fertility. It is generally assumed that soil fertility decline is widespread in the tropics and that this is largely associated with annual cropping and subsistence farming. In contrast, perennial plant cover as in plantation agriculture provides better protection for the soil. This book reviews these concepts focusing on soil chemical changes under different land use systems in the tropics. These include perennial crops, annual crops, and forest plantations. Two case studies on sisal plantations in Tanzania and sugar cane in Papua New Guinea are presented for detailed analysis. The author demonstrates that soil fertility decline is also a problem on plantations.

Unredeemed Land Erin Stewart Mauldin, 2021. Unredeemed Land examines the ways the Civil War and the emancipation of the slaves reconfigured the South's natural landscape, revealing the environmental constraints that shaped the rural South's transition to capitalism during the late nineteenth century.

A Guide for Desert and Dryland Restoration David A. Bainbridge, 2012-09-26. Dryland degradation and desertification now affect almost a billion people around the world. Tragically, the biological resources and productivity of millions of acres of land are lost to desertification each year because people remain unaware of strategies and techniques that could improve yields, reduce risk, and begin healing the world's deserts. A Guide for Desert and Dryland Restoration is the first book to offer practical, field-tested solutions to this critical problem. Author David Bainbridge has spent more than 25 years actively involved in restoring lands across the American Southwest. A Guide for Desert and Dryland Restoration presents the results of his years of fieldwork as well as research and experience from scientists and practitioners around the globe. The book discusses the ecology of desert plants, explores the causes of desertification and land abuse, and outlines the processes and procedures needed to evaluate, plan, implement, and monitor desert restoration projects. It sets forth economical and practical, field-tested solutions for understanding site characteristics, selecting and growing plants, and ensuring that they survive with a minimal amount of water and care. Each chapter represents a guide to a critical topic for environmental restoration. Extensive photographs, diagrams, and drawings give detailed information for immediate application.

and additional resources are included in appendixes A Guide for Desert and Dryland Restoration is the first comprehensive book focused on restoring arid regions and clearly demonstrates that arid lands can be successfully rehabilitated In addition to restorationists the book will be an invaluable resource for anyone working in arid lands including farmers ranchers gardeners landscapers outdoor recreation professionals and activists

Long-Term Response of a Forest Watershed Ecosystem Wayne T. Swank, Jackson R. Webster, 2014-02-03 Our North American forests are no longer the wild areas of past centuries they are an economic and ecological resource undergoing changes from both natural and management disturbances A watershed scale and long term perspective of forest ecosystem responses is requisite to understanding and predicting cause and effect relationships This book synthesizes interdisciplinary studies conducted over thirty years to evaluate responses of a clear cut cable logged watershed at the Coweeta Hydrologic Laboratory in the Nantahala Mountain Range of western North Carolina This research was the result of collaboration among Forest Service and university researchers on the most studied watershed in the Lab s 78 year history During the experiment a variety of natural disturbances occurred two record floods two record droughts a major hurricane a blizzard of the century major forest diseases and insect infestations These disturbances provided a unique opportunity to study how they altered the recovery of the forest ecosystem This book also shows that some long term forest trends cannot be forecast from short term findings which could lead to incorrect conclusions of cause and effect relationships and natural resource management decisions

Geomorphology Robert S. Anderson, Suzanne P. Anderson, 2010-06-17 A modern quantitative process oriented approach to geomorphology and the role of Earth surface processes in shaping landforms starting from basic principles
