Weaving Work And Motherhood Weaving Work And Motherhood:

Weaving Work and Motherhood Anita Ilta Garey, 1999 In American culture the image of balancing work and family life is often represented in the glossy shot of the executive track woman balancing cell phone laptop and baby In Weaving Work and Motherhood Anita Ilta Garey focuses not on the corporate executives so frequently represented in American ads and magazines but rather on the women in jobs that typify the vast majority of women's employment in the United States A sociologist and work and family expert Garey situates her research in the health service industry Interviewing a racially and ethnically diverse group of women hospital workers clerical workers janitorial workers nurses and nurse's aids Garey analyzes what it means to be at once a mother who is employed and a worker with children Within the limits of the resources available to them women integrate their identities as workers and their identities as mothers by valuing their relation to work while simultaneously preserving cultural norms about what it means to be a good mother Some of these women work non day shifts in order to have the right blocks of time at home including for example a registered nurse who explains how working the night shift enables her to see her children off to school greet them when they return and attend school events in the way she feels good mothers should even if she finds little time for sleep Moving beyond studies of women work and family in terms of structural incompatibilities Garey challenges images of the exclusively work oriented or exclusively family oriented mother As women talk about their lives Garey focuses on the meanings of motherhood and of work that underlie their strategies for integrating employment and motherhood She replaces notions of how women balance work and family with a better understanding of how women integrate negotiate and weave together their identities as both workers and mothers Breaking new ground in the study of work and family Weaving Work and Motherhood offers new insights for those interested in sociology gender and women's studies social policy child care social welfare and health care

Competing Devotions Mary Blair-Loy, 2009-07

The wrenching decision facing successful women who must choose between demanding careers and intensive family lives has been the subject of many articles and books most of which propose strategies for resolving the dilemma Competing Devotions focuses on broader social and cultural forces that create women's identities and shape their understanding of what makes life worth living Mary Blair Loy examines the career paths of women financial executives who have tried various approaches to balancing career and family These mavericks who face great resistance but are aided by new ideological and material resources that come with historical change may eventually redefine both the nuclear family and the capitalist firm in ways that reduce work family conflict

Table of Contents Introduction 1 The Devotion to Work Schema 2 The Devotion to Family Schema 3 Reinventing Schemas Creating Part Time Careers 4 Reinventing Schemas Family Life among Full Time Executive Women 5 Turning Points 6 Implications Appendix Methods and Data Notes References Acknowledgments Index

Many professional women intuit that male colleagues whose spouse handle for them the details of everyday life are favored in the workplace Blair Loy confirms this intuition and shows us how it happens She captures how the cultural schemas of family devotion and work devotion contribute to the reproduction of gender inequality and how meeting the demands of a husband's job and other people's needs push professional women to progressively abandon their work to take care of others Her analysis also gives us hope by comparing the fate of pre and post baby boomers This is both an important scholarly contribution and a book that will help readers think differently about their lives It should be required reading for professional women who aspire to maintain multidimensional lives

Michelle Lamont author of The Dignity of Working Men Morality and the Boundaries of Race Class and Immigration This is a fascinating book with an important message Blair Loy's findings are surprising She challenges conventional viewpoints She is on to something really new when she writes about not only the interplay between cultural norms and individual actions and institutional structures but on the cultural schemas that evoke deep emotional resonances

An outstanding book Cynthia Fuchs Epstein author of Deceptive Distinctions Sex Gender and the Social Order Mary Blair Loy's book transcends old debates about work and family by examining the women who have beaten the odds and risen to the top Her detailed examination of careers and strategies perfectly complements her subtle analysis of the schemas and visions these women have for their lives Blair Loy has given us not only a splendid view into a little known world but also a new way of understanding the dynamic interplay of work and family Looking beyond the static conflict we have studied so much she shows how creative women put traditional schemas of family and work into a mutual transformation to build for themselves a new and more livable world
