Wasp Women Airforce Service Pilots:

Clipped Wings Molly Merryman,1998 Members of the Women s Airforce Service Pilot program WASPs flew fighter planes and bombers test piloted experimental models and worked in the development of weapons systems yet the WASPs were the only women s auxiliary within the armed services of WWII that was not militarized remaining instead a civilian group whose members were not granted veterans status Draws on declassified documents and interviews with former WASPs to trace their history examining social pressures that culminated in disbandment in 1944 and their eventual success in gaining veterans benefits Their story sheds light on women s participation in the military and the ways in which war affects the social construction of gender Includes bandw photos Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR The U.S. WASP Lisa M. Simons,2017-08-01 More than 1 100 women volunteered to be a U S WASP Women s Air Service Pilot to contribute to World War II Read about the courageous women who put their lives on the line to do their part in the nation s war effort A Wasp Among Eagles Ann Carl,2013-06-04 Before World War II most Americans did not believe that the average woman could fly professionally but during the war more than a thousand women pilots proved them wrong These were the Women Airforce Service Pilots WASPs who served as military flyers on the home front In March 1944 one of them Ann Baumgartner was assigned to the Fighter Flight Test Branch at Wright Field in Dayton Ohio There she would make history as the only woman to test fly experimental planes during the war and the first woman to fly a jet A WASP among Eagles is the first person story of how Baumgartner learned to fly trained as a WASP and became one of the earliest jet age pioneers Flying such planes as the Curtiss A 25 Helldiver the Lockheed P 38 and the B 29 Superfortress she was the first woman to participate in a host of experiments including in air refueling and flying the first fighter equipped with a pressurized cockpit But in evaluating the long awaited turbojet powered Bell YP 59A she set a first record that would remain unchallenged for ten years Women Airforce Service Pilots (WASP). ,2008 This digital collection includes oral histories images and listings of separate collections of manuscripts clothing and textiles and artifacts Letters Home 1944-1945 Bernice Falk Haydu,2008 The Women with Silver Wings Katherine Sharp Landdeck,2020 The thrilling true story of the daring female aviators who helped the United States win World War II only to be forgotten by the country they served When Japanese planes executed a sneak attack on Pearl Harbor in December 1941 Cornelia Fort was already in the air At twenty two Cornelia had escaped Nashville s debutante scene for a fresh start as a flight instructor in Hawaii She and her student were in the middle of their lesson when the bombs began to fall and they barely made it back to ground that morning Still when the U S Army Air Forces put out a call for women pilots to aid the war effort Cornelia was one of the first to respond She became one of just over 1 100 women from across the nation to make it through the Army s rigorous selection process and earn her silver wings In The Women with Silver Wings historian Katherine Sharp Landdeck introduces us to these young women as they meet even tempered methodical Nancy Love and demanding visionary Jacqueline Cochran the trailblazing pilots who first envisioned sending American women into the air and whose rivalry would define the Women Airforce Service Pilots. For women like Cornelia it was a chance to serve their country and to prove that women aviators were just as skilled and able as men. While not authorized to serve in combat, the WASP helped train male pilots for service abroad and ferried bombers and pursuits across the country. Thirty-eight of them would not survive the war. But even taking into account these tragic losses, Love and Cochran's social experiment seemed to be a resounding success until, with the tides of war turning and fewer male pilots needed in Europe, Congress clipped the women's wings. The program was disbanded, the women sent home. But the bonds they'd forged never failed, and over the next few decades they came together to fight for recognition as the military veterans they were and for their place in history.

The WASP J. David Dameron, 2005-01-01 Here at last is a comprehensive book that examines WASP history. This fascinating true life story of American women in action during World War II is interlaced with an abundance of pertinent photographs and class rosters, all combined in a single easily referenced volume. Nancy Love and the WASP Ferry Pilots of World War II Sarah Byrn Rickman, 2008 When the United States entered World War II, the Army needed pilots to transport or ferry its combat-bound aircraft across the United States for overseas deployment and its trainer airplanes to flight training bases. Male pilots were in short supply, so into this vacuum stepped Nancy Love and her Women's Auxiliary Ferrying Squadron (WAFS). Initially, the Army implemented both the WAFS program and Jacqueline Cochran's more ambitious plan to train women to do many of the military's flight-related jobs stateside. By 1943, General Hap Arnold decided to combine the women's programs and formed the Women Airforce Service Pilots (WASP) with Cochran as the Director of Women Pilots. Love was named the Executive for WASP.

We Love to Fly Nancy Robison, Beverly Beesemyer, 2013-07-26 WASP Women Airforce Service Pilots flew an estimated 60 million miles and flew 78 different kinds of aircraft from factories to bases and around the country. Not only did they deliver the planes, but they gave instruction on how to fly to male cadets and towed targets for gunnery practice using live ammunition. Not recognized as military until 2010, they went forward to help their country because they loved to fly.

WASP Letters, 1943-1944 Caro Bayley Bosca, 1994 In letters home, a WASP from Springfield, Ohio describes training at Avenger Field, Sweetwater, Texas; later, B-52 training at Mather Field, Sacramento, California; and experiences in Operational Duty at Biggs Field, El Paso, Texas.
