Wasted Years Charles Edward Scheidman:

300 Wasted Years Charles Edward Scheidman, 2015-12-18 This is Charles Edward Scheidman's fourth book all of which grew from his years in the RCMP and the experiences of a lifetime 300 Wasted Years is about the natives of Canada and to some extent North America Charles grew up on the Canadian prairie in close proximity to a large population of natives This gave him knowledge of these people far beyond the average person His experiences with natives were enhanced by his policing career which involved him with more than twenty reserve locations His career took his family to seven locations in British Columbia On retirement he moved to the Victoria area where he and his wife Patricia live today Charles learned a lot from the native tragedies he was involved in as a policeman over his twenty seven years on the force The most startling of the different attitudes and cultures among the majority of natives was the lesser value they placed on life itself He was also privy to their sense of humour The author's previous books are Policing the Fringe Tragedy on Jackass Mountain and When Grampa Was A Mountie The success of these encouraged him to write this book which departs from the format and subjects of the first three The main theme in this book focuses on the tragic existence these people have lived over the past 300 years

The Stolen Country Myth Charles Edward Scheidman, 2024-06-24 The Stolen Country Myth is Charles Edward Scheidman's fifth book All of his books originated from his years in the RCMP and a lifetime of experiences involving Natives and the general Canadian population His history book points out deceptions perpetrated on the general population school children and Natives pertaining to the myth about the good life of Natives before the explorers arrived as well as Native efforts to improve their lives The lies that have been told are more than just wrong This rewriting of four hundred years of history should be looked on as a criminal act Many of our modern well educated citizens are involved in avoiding the ugly truth and are trying to present information that tells history the way they wish things were or the way they would like it to be It appears the stone age is still with some of us Says the author The lies presented to the world have made the Native situation worse and this practice is unending The Native woman telling of the police pulling children from the arms of their screaming mothers and another telling of the school staff beating and whipping children until they lost consciousness This was presented to the world over television
