Writing Stories Michael Armstrong, 2006-03-16 Here is a worthy successor to Ted Hughes Poetry in the Making the book that enabled me to gain the confidence to begin to find my own voice as a story teller Children Writing Stories confirms that we all have a story to tell if we are enabled to develop enough self belief So much of our natural creativity is smothered during our school years Teachers and children feel hemmed in by the strictures of a curriculum which simply does not allow room for creativity to breathe Unlock the chains let the light in and this is the kind of writing that will flow this is the kind of intellectual and emotional growing that can transform young lives Michael Morpurgo Children s Laureate 2003 2005 What a splendid book Michael Armstrong pays attention thirty years of it to the stories that children write We get two for one the children s own delightful and intriguing work I want to rush off and write some Wally age 5 stories of my own and Michael Armstrong s intense interpretations Allan Ahlberg This is real learning at its best teaching by example through painstaking scrutiny of the art of young writers Absorbing moving enlightening inspiring Morag Styles University of Cambridge In Children Writing Stories Michael Armstrong reveals the creative force of children s narrative imagination and shows how this develops through childhood He provides a new and powerful understanding of the significance of narrative for children s intellectual growth and for learning and teaching The book explores a series of real stories written by children between the ages of five and fifteen and traces the growth of literary consciousness from the dawn of written narrative in the kindergarten through the early years of schooling and on into adolescence Each chapter opens with a story or stories which the author then goes on to examine in detail so that the book may be seen as both a select anthology of children s stories and as a critical account of children s narrative practice This original and provocative book will appeal to teachers parents students of education and readers with an interest in literacy children s writing or narrative theory Power Practice: Traits of Good Writing, Gr. 4-5, eBook June Hetzel, 2004-11-01 Offers exercises for brainstorming main ideas and details using descriptive words sequencing recognizing cause and effect and using correct punctuation Murder of the U.S. Attorney: Congressman Sickles' Crime of Passion in 1859 (A Historical True Crime Short) R. devouring audience but he is genuinely appreciated. He introduces the reader into the authentic and sometimes erratic nature of classroom lecture and discussion. His teaching subjects include technology, marketing, and law. His students' responses address more poignant issues including racism, home life, and their futures beyond schooling. The deeper exchanges are often conducted between classes or emerge amidst casual conversations and daily interactions. McCaffrey addresses timely issues over the success and shortcomings of contemporary education. He concludes that society comfortably maintains misplaced priorities and ignorance towards education and its practitioners. He takes issue with uninvolved parents who drop their children off like dirty laundry and expect a private institution to cleanse them of their bad habits while educating them. He maintains that Catholic education is distinct and different from public schools. His conclusion is based on expected behavioral accountability and reinforced discipline rather than superior personal facilities and educational techniques. A school's objective remains to stimulate a graduating class of lifelong learners. This lofty goal is tested daily by certain under-achieving, troubled, and unmotivated students, neurotic faculty members, and hamstrung by trifling, misdirected rules. McCaffrey notes that victories surface when his contemporaries enable students to navigate the tenuous labyrinth of adolescence and learning. His varied observations encompass teacher liability, absence policies, and career burnout, objective grading, classroom discipline, school fundraising, compensation, athletic programs, peer gossip, and pranks, equipment deficiencies, and dress codes. McCaffrey is SESI's acknowledged faculty satirist who zealously guards his private time, absent of extra-curricular supervisions. He is never a perennial candidate for Teacher of the Year honors. His cast of instructional intimates and foils include basketball coach and confidant Rich Ringer, siren Suzzi Issacs, milquetoast Dennis Greeley, incompetent Alex Orrigo, misdirected Tim Lovelace, mumbling Principal Brother Moody, and a colorful parade of diverse and eclectic personalities. A variety of candid and favorite students are introduced with the irrepressible Ralphie Houwser heading the list. McCaffrey feels trapped by his inability to move forward with his life. A year-ending interaction with one of his peers offers him hope. Will a Parisian rendezvous on Bastille Day become his ultimate liberation from professional and personal stagnation? Teaching with One Eye Shut addresses the fragile and volatile role of mentors and educators. McCaffrey's memoir offers a realistic and humorous view of the realities behind high school instructing, spiced by his periodic exaggerations.

Elizabeth Bowen Patricia Laurence, 2019-12-03 Elizabeth Bowen A Literary Life reinvents Bowen as a public intellectual, propagandist, spy, cultural ambassador, journalist, and essayist, as well as a writer of fiction. Patricia Laurence counters the popular image of Bowen as a mannered, reserved Anglo-Irish writer and presents her as a bold, independent woman who took risks and made her own rules in life and writing. This biography distinguishes itself from others in the depth of research into the life experiences that fueled Bowen's writing: her espionage for the British Ministry of Information in neutral Ireland, 1940-1941, and the devoted circle of friends, lovers, intellectuals, and writers whom she valued: Isaiah Berlin, William Plomer, Maurice Bowra, Stuart Hampshire, Charles Ritchie, Sean O'Faolain, Virginia Woolf, Rosamond

Lehmann and Eudora Welty among others The biography also demonstrates how her feelings of irresolution about national identity and gender roles were dispelled through her writing Her vivid fiction often about girls and women is laced with irony about smooth social surfaces rent by disruptive emotion the sadness of beleaguered adolescents the occurrence of cultural dislocation historical atmosphere as well as undercurrents of violence in small events and betrayal and disappointment in romance Her strong visual imagination so much a part of the texture of her writing traces places landscapes and objects that subliminally reveal hidden aspects of her characters Though her reputation faltered in the 1960s 1970s given her political and social conservatism now readers are discovering her passionate and poetic temperament and writing as well as the historical consciousness behind her worldly exterior and writing All We Have To Believe In Jeffrey J
