The House of Service

David Tittensor, 2014-02-28 David Tittensor offers a groundbreaking new perspective on the G len movement a Turkish Muslim educational activist network that emerged in the 1960s and has grown into a global empire with an estimated worth of 25 billion Named after its leader Fethullah G len the movement has established more than 1 000 secular educational institutions in over 140 countries aiming to provide holistic education that incorporates both spirituality and the secular sciences Despite the movement's success little is known about how its schools are run or how Islam is operationalized Drawing on thirteen months of ethnographic fieldwork in Turkey Tittensor explores the movement's ideology and how it is practiced in the schools His interviews with both teachers and graduates from Africa Indonesia Central Asia and Turkey show that the movement is a missionary organization but of a singular kind its goal is not simply widespread religious conversion but a quest to recoup those Muslims who have apparently lost their way and to show non Muslims that Muslims can embrace modernity and integrate into the wider community Tittensor also examines the movement's operational side and shows how the schools represent an example of Mohammad Yunus's social business model a business with a social cause at its heart The House of Service is an insightful exploration of one of the world's largest transnational Muslim associations and will be invaluable for those seeking to understand how Islam

will be perceived and practiced in the future

Humanitarianism Tim Allen, Anna Macdonald, Henry Radice, 2018-06-27 The field of humanitarianism is characterised by profound uncertainty by a constant need to respond to the unpredictable and by concepts and practices that often defy simple or straightforward explanation Humanitarians often find themselves not just engaged in the pursuit of effective action but also in a quest for meaning That is the starting point for this book Humanitarian action has in recent years confronted geopolitical challenges that have upended much of its conventional modus operandi and presented threats to its foundational assumptions and legal frameworks The critical interrogation of the purpose practice and future of humanitarian action has yielded a rich new field of enquiry humanitarian studies and many thoughtful books articles and reports So the question arose as to the most useful way to provide a critical overview that might serve to bring some definitional clarity as well as analytical rigor to the waves of critique and shifting sands of humanitarian action Humanitarianism A Dictionary of Concepts provides an authoritative analysis that attempts to rethink rather than merely problematize or define the issues at stake in contemporary humanitarian debates It is an important moment to do so Just about every tenet of humanitarianism is currently open to question as never before

Counterterrorism in African Failed States: Challenges and Potential Solutions ,2006 Failed states offer attractive venues for terrorist groups seeking to evade counterterrorism efforts of the United States and its partners in the Global War on Terror GWOT State failure entails among its other features the disintegration and criminalization of public security forces the collapse of the state administrative structure responsible for overseeing those forces and the erosion of infrastructure that supports their effective operation These circumstances make identification of terrorist groups operating within failed states very difficult and action against such groups once identified problematic Terrorist groups that are the focus of the current GWOT display the characteristics of a network organization with two very different types of cells terrorist nodes and terrorist hubs Terrorist nodes are small closely knit local cells that actually commit terrorist acts in the areas in which they are active Terrorist hubs provide ideological guidance financial support and access to resources enabling node attacks An examination of three failed states in Sub Saharan Africa Liberia Sierra Leone and Somalia reveals the presence of both types of cells and furnishes a context for assessing the threat they pose to the national interests of the United States and its partners

Counterterrorism in African Failed States Thomas A. Dempsey,2006 Terrorist groups operating in Sub Saharan Africa failed states have demonstrated the ability to avoid the scrutiny of Western counterterrorism officials while supporting and facilitating terrorist attacks on the United States and its partners The potential acquisition of nuclear weapons by terrorists makes terrorist groups operating from failed states especially dangerous U S counterterrorism strategies largely have been unsuccessful in addressing this threat A new strategy is called for one that combines both military and law enforcement efforts in a fully integrated counterterrorism effort supported by a synthesis of foreign intelligence capabilities with intelligence led policing to identify locate and take into custody terrorists operating from failed states before they are able to launch potentially catastrophic attacks
