Understanding Older Homeless People Their Circumstances Problems And Needs Rethinking Ageing Series:

EBOOK: Older People And Community Care Beverly Hughes,1995-09-16 Older People and Community Care sets social and health care practice with older people firmly in the context of the new community care arrangements and the consequent organizational trends towards a market culture However it also questions the relative lack of attention given by professionals to issues of structural inequality in old age compared for example to race and gender Thus the book tackles a double agenda How can community care practice be suffused with anti ageist values and principles Addressing this question the book sets out the foundation knowledge and values which must underpin the development of anti discriminatory community care practice and examines the implications for practitioners in terms of the essential skills and inherent dilemmas which arise Older People and Community Care is essential reading for all those working with and managing services to older people and who aspire to make empowerment for older people a reality

Understanding Older Homeless People Maureen Crane,1999 Although ageing people are a significant segment of the homeless population they have largely been ignored by service providers and policy makers This remarkable book sets out to remedy this situation and offers new search on the causes of homelessness Partial life histories have been collected from older homeless people and their pathways into homelessness traced Although the book is about older homeless people many of them have been homeless since they were teenagers or since early adulthood It therefore examines the reasons for homelessness at all stages of the life course The book discusses the circumstances problems and needs of older homeless people looks at how services are responding and makes recommendations for service development Case studies are used throughout to assist explanations This book has much to offer a wide audience including service providers policymakers healthcare workers housing and social services workers gerontologists and sociologists Because it is easy to read it is accessible to lay readers It will be of interest to a British audience and an international audience particularly in countries such as America and Australia where innovations in services for homeless older people are rapidly developing

A Bibliography of Single Homelessness Research Susanne Klinker,Suzanne Fitzpatrick,2000 A vast amount of research has been conducted on the subject of single homelessness over the past decade However this material is often inaccessible to a wider audience appearing in scholarly journals or as local studies that are not generally available or advertised A bibliography of single homelessness research is based on an in depth review of single homelessness research in Britain throughout the 1990s The bibliography is clearly presented in a highly accessible format with listings by subject category and keywords for each entry This bibliography can be used independently but is most effective in conjunction with the more in depth research summaries in A review of single homelessness research It can also be read alongside the overview report Single homelessness These three reports are all vital reading for researchers policy makers and practitioners in the field of single homelessness and anyone interested in issues related to homelessness generally contexts homelessness among older people is on the rise In spite of growing media attention and new academic research on the issue older people often remain unrecognized as a subpopulation in public policy programs and homeless strategies As such they occupy a paradoxical position of being hypervisible while remaining overlooked Late Life Homelessness is the first Canadian book to address this often neglected issue Basing her analysis on a four year ethnographic study of late life homelessness in Montreal Canada Amanda Grenier uses a critical gerontological perspective to explore life at the intersection of aging and homelessness She draws attention to disadvantage over time and how the condition of being unhoused disrupts a person s ability to age in place resulting in experiences of unequal aging Weaving together findings from policy documents stakeholder insights and observations and interviews with older people this book demonstrates how structures organizational practices and relationships related to homelessness and aging come to shape late life Situated in the context of an aging population rising inequality and declining social commitments Late Life Homelessness stresses the moral imperative of responding justly to the needs of older people as a means of mitigating the unequal aging of unhoused elders Whitaker's Books in Print ,1998 Practical Lessons National Symposium on Homelessness Research,United States.
