The 1990s saw women beginning to fill a wider range of roles in the military, with many countries relaxing their bans on women serving in combat roles. As a result, women are able to fly combat aircraft, serve in artillery units, staff missile emplacements, serve as combat medics, and fill various other roles that involve potential combat exposure. Additionally, many more women are assigned to combat-support roles located on the front line. Yet most research on women involved in military life still concerns itself with the wives of enlisted men, women in civilian posts within the military, women that were sexually assaulted in the military, or women in non-combat-related military service. It is thus patently obvious that women combatants and veterans who fulfill assignments in conflict zones deserve closer attention.

Hearings United States. Congress. House. Committee on Military Affairs, 1943 Freedom on the Frontlines Lina AbiRafeh, 2022-02-10 Afghan women were at the forefront of global agendas in late 2001 fueled by a mix of media coverage humanitarian intervention and military operations Calls for liberating Afghan women were widespread Women s roles in Afghanistan have long been politically divisive marked by struggles between modernization and tradition Women politics and the state have always been intertwined in Afghanistan and conflicts have been fueled by attempts to challenge or change women s status It may appear that we have come full circle twenty years later in late 2021 when Afghanistan fell to the Taliban once more Women s rights in Afghanistan have been stripped away and any gains however tenuous now appear lost Today the country navigates both a humanitarian and a human rights crisis This book measures the rhetoric of liberation and the physical and ideological occupations of Afghanistan over the twenty year period from 2001 through 2021 through the voices perspectives and experiences of those who are implicated in this reality Afghan women Battle Lines Joel Baetz, 2018-05-25 For Canadians the First World War was a dynamic period of literary activity Almost every poet wrote about the war critics made bold predictions about the legacy of the period s poetry and booksellers were told it was their duty to stock shelves with war poetry Readers bought thousands of volumes of poetry Twenty years later by the time Canada went to war again no one remembered any of it Battle Lines traces the rise and disappearance of Canadian First World War poetry and offers a striking and comprehensive account of its varied and vexing poetic gestures As eagerly as Canadians took to the streets to express their support for the war poets turned to their notebooks and shared their interpretations of the global conflict repeating and reshaping popular notions of among others national obligation gendered responsibility aesthetic power and deathly presence The book focuses on the poetic interpretations of the Canadian soldier He emerges as a contentious poetic subject a figure of battle romance and an emblem of modernist fragmentation and fractiousness Centring the work of five exemplary Canadian war poets Helena Coleman John McCrae Robert Service Frank Prewett and W W E Ross the book reveals their latent faith in collective action as well as conflicting recognition of modernist subjectivities Battle Lines identifies the Great War as a long overlooked period of poetic ferment experimentation reluctance and challenge

On the Frontlines Fionnuala Ni Aolain, Dina Francesca Haynes, Naomi Cahn, 2011-11-16 Gender oppression has been a feature of war and conflict throughout human history yet until fairly recently little attention was devoted to addressing the consequences of violence and discrimination experienced by women in post conflict states Thankfully that is changing Today in a variety of post conflict settings the former Yugoslavia Afghanistan Colombia Northern Ireland international advocates for women's rights have focused bringing issues of sexual violence discrimination and exclusion into peace making processes In On the Frontlines Fionnuala Ni Aolain Dina Francesca Haynes and Naomi Cahn consider such policies in a range of cases and assess the extent to which they have had success in improving women's lives They argue that there has been too little success and that this is in part a product of a focus on schematic policies like straightforward political incorporation rather than a broader and deeper attempt to alter the cultures and societies that are at the root of much of the violence and exclusions experienced by women They contend that this broader approach would not just benefit women however Gender mainstreaming and increased gender equality has a direct correlation with state stability and functions to preclude further conflict If we are to have any success in stabilizing failing states gender needs to move to fore of our efforts With this in mind they examine the efforts of transnational organizations states and civil society in multiple jurisdictions to place gender at the forefront of all post conflict processes They offer concrete analysis and practical solutions to ensuring gender centrality in all aspects of peace making and peace enforcement improving women's lives. They argue that there has been too little success and that this is in part a product of a focus on schematic policies like straightforward political incorporation rather than a broader and deeper attempt to alter the cultures and societies that are at the root of much of the violence and exclusions experienced by women. They contend that this broader approach would not just benefit women; however, gender mainstreaming and increased gender equality has a direct correlation with state stability and functions to preclude further conflict. If we are to have any success in stabilizing failing states, gender needs to move to the fore of our efforts. With this in mind, they examine the efforts of transnational organizations, states, and civil society in multiple jurisdictions to place gender at the forefront of all post-conflict processes. They offer concrete analysis and practical solutions to ensuring gender centrality in all aspects of peace making and peace enforcement.

Feminist Political Ecology Dianne Rocheleau, Barbara Thomas-Slayter, Esther Wangari, 2013-04-15 Feminist Political Ecology explores the gendered relations of ecologies, economies, and politics in communities as diverse as the rubber tappers in the rainforests of Brazil to activist groups fighting racism in New York City. Women are often at the centre of these struggles, struggles which concern local knowledge, everyday practice, rights to resources, sustainable development, environmental quality, and social justice. The book bridges the gap between the academic and rural orientation of political ecology and the largely activist and urban focus of environmental justice movements.

New Directions in War and Culture Studies Martin Hurcombe, 2025-02-05 This edited volume explores the new directions emerging in the field of war and culture through six essays that examine conflicts and their cultural legacy from the First World War to the ongoing conflict in Ukraine. The first two essays focus on the French experience of the World Wars through first a study of trench poetry and then the sexual experiences of POWs in Germany. The next two essays focus on gendered and especially women's experiences of conflict through first a study of women's war labour in the British army and then analysis of women photojournalists' role in promoting the adoption of Vietnamese babies in the USA. This volume concludes with two essays focusing on twenty-first century conflict. The first explores representations of veteranhood in contemporary Romanian fiction and the second the phenomenon of fanvids in relation to the ongoing conflict in Ukraine. Originally published as a special issue of the Journal for War Culture Studies, the book indicates new directions of travel for this sub-discipline and reflects the Journal's commitment over the past two decades to bring the Arts and Humanities and the Social Sciences into dialogue with each other.
