Wonder Image And Cosmos In Medieval Islam:

Wonder, Image, and Cosmos in Medieval Islam Persis Berlekamp, 2011 This original book untangles fundamental confusions about historical relationships among Islam representational images and philosophy Closely examining some of the most meaningful and best preserved premodern illustrated manuscripts of Islamic cosmographies Persis Berlekamp refutes the assertion often made by other historians of medieval Islamic art that while representational images did exist they did not serve religious purposes The author focuses on widely disseminated Islamic images of the wonders of creation Show more This original book untangles fundamental confusions about historical relationships among Islam representational images and philosophy Closely examining some of the most meaningful and best preserved premodern illustrated manuscripts of Islamic cosmographies Persis Berlekamp refutes the assertion often made by other historians of medieval Islamic art that while representational images did exist they did not serve religious purposes The author focuses on widely disseminated Islamic images of the wonders of creation ranging from angels to human snatching birds and argues that these illustrated manuscripts aimed to induce wonder at God s creation as was their stated purpose She tracks the various ways that images advanced that purpose in the genre s formative milieu the century and a half following the Mongol conquest of the Islamic East in 1258 Delving into social history and into philosophical ideas relevant to manuscript and image production Berlekamp shows that philosophy occupied an established if controversial position within Islam She thereby radically reframes representational images within the history of Islam

Imagination and Fantasy in the Middle Ages and Early Modern Time Albrecht Classen, 2020-08-24 The notions of other peoples cultures and natural conditions have always been determined by the epistemology of imagination and fantasy providing much freedom and creativity and yet have also created much fear anxiety and horror In this regard the pre modern world demonstrates striking parallels with our own insofar as the projections of alterity might be different by degrees but they are fundamentally the same by content Dreams illusions projections concepts hopes utopias dystopias desires and emotional attachments are as specific and impactful as the physical environment This volume thus sheds important light on the various lenses used by people in the Middle Ages and the early modern age as to how they came to terms with their perceptions images and notions Previous scholarship focused heavily on the history of mentality and history of emotions whereas here the history of pre modern imagination and fantasy assumes center position Imaginary things are taken seriously because medieval and early modern writers and artists clearly reveal their great significance in their works and their daily lives This approach facilitates a new deep structure analysis of pre modern culture

The Iconic Imagination Douglas Hedley,2016-02-25 Is it merely an accident of English etymology that imagination is cognate with image Despite the iconoclasm shared to a greater or lesser extent by all Abrahamic faiths theism tends to assert a link between beauty goodness and truth all of which are viewed as Divine attributes Douglas Hedley argues that religious ideas can be presented in a sensory form especially in aesthetic works Drawing explicitly on a Platonic metaphysics of the image as a bearer of transcendence The Iconic Imagination shows the singular capacity and power of images to represent the transcendent in the traditions of Christianity Judaism Hinduism and Islam In opposition to cold abstraction and narrow asceticism Hedley shows that the image furnishes a vision of the eternal through the visible and temporal

King, 1975 Reflections on Observational Astronomy in the Medieval Islamic Period S. Mohammad Mozaffari, 2024-12-09 This volume presents comprehensive investigations into various facets of observational astronomy during the medieval Islamic period spanning from the ninth to the seventeenth centuries. The articles compiled here, originally published between 2012 and 2018, have undergone significant revisions to enhance their accuracy and explore a broad spectrum of topics organized into five main sections.

Reflections on Observational Astronomy in the Medieval Islamic Period begins with solar astronomy, providing a detailed evaluation of Islamic astronomers' determinations of fundamental solar parameters. In the realm of lunar astronomy, it examines the gradual endorsement and rationalization of annular solar eclipses along with an exclusive historical account of predicting and observing such an event in 1283 CE. The section on planetary astronomy scrutinizes empirical discoveries that distinguish between the precession of equinoxes and the motion of apogees, as well as significant enhancements to Ptolemy's parameters for planetary latitudes. Stellar astronomy is explored through a non-Ptolemaic star table that encompasses observations from ninth-century Baghdad to thirteenth-century Maragha. The final section examines observational instruments, focusing on those constructed during the second period of activities at the Maragha observatory. A critical analysis of astronomical observations conducted at the Maragha and Istanbul observatories is a key focus of this work. This book will be invaluable to those interested in the historical progression of exact sciences, the scope, distinctive aspects, and caliber of experimental activities in medieval times, and the interplay between theory and observation throughout history. It is intended for historians, scientists, including astronomers and physicists, and particularly historians of astronomy.

Magic and Divination in Early Islam Emilie Savage-Smith, 2004. Magic and divination in early Islam encompassed a wide range of practices, including belief in jinn, warding off the evil eye, the production of amulets, and other magical equipment, conjuring, wonder, working dream interpretation, predicting the weather, casting lots, astrology, and physiognomy. The ten studies here are concerned with the pre-Islamic antecedents of such practices and with the theory of magic in healing, the nature and use of amulets, and their decipherment, the arts of astrometeorology and geomancy, the refutation of astrology, and the role of the astrologer in society. Some of the studies are highly illustrated; some long out of print; some revised or composed for this volume, and one translated into English for the first time. These fundamental investigations, together with the introductory bibliographic essay, are intended as a guide to the concepts, terminology, and basic scholarly literature of an important but often overlooked aspect of classical Islamic culture.
