Transformative Religious Experience A Phenomenological Understanding Of Religious Conversion:

Transformative Religious Experience Joshua Iyadurai, 2015-04-30 What makes a priest of one religion become a preacher of another religion How could a person embrace a religion suddenly that he or she had up to then opposed Why would young women risk their reputation and endanger their lives for the sake of newfound faith How could an alcoholic detest a sip of wine all of a sudden What drives an atheist to become an ardent worshiper of God How could an intelligent person relate to God as to an adult human being Transformative Religious Experience answers these questions with fascinating narratives of conversion These narratives together show how the transforming effects of conversion permeate the daily lives of converts in a multireligious context Joshua Iyadurai analyzes psychologically the mystical turning point in the conversion process and finds that the divine human encounter entails a cognitive restructuring a new set of beliefs values and desires replaces previously held religious beliefs values and desires By drawing insights from the fields of psychology sociology anthropology and theology Iyadurai develops an interdisciplinary step model from a phenomenological perspective to explain the conversion process that incorporates the religious practices and social psychological factors while giving a central place to religious experience a Familiar Land James A. Blumenstock, 2020-04-28 Throughout history many Christians have existed on the margins of society deviants and strangers in lands they call home To survive they have had to construct alternate identities that not only make sense of their religious experiences and beliefs but also equip them to successfully negotiate their social worlds In Thailand a nation where social identities are thoroughly intertwined with Buddhist religious adherence Christians must come to terms with such a marginalized existence By leaving Buddhism and adopting what is considered a foreign faith Christian converts become deviants to normal Thai identity and belonging In response they have discovered creative solutions for traversing this complex terrain of marginalization This book presents a deep exploration of the phenomenon of marginalization as experienced by Thai Christian converts In it readers will follow participants through the heights of transformative religious experience the lows of severe social displacement the tensions of managing two disparate lifeworlds and two conflicting selves and the comfort and joy of finding a new place to call home In the end the reader will gain deep insight into what it is like to successfully navigate a minority religious identity on the margins of society The Logic of Evangelism Michael J. version of this book available at www.taylorfrancis.com/books/9781472453983 has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivative 4.0 license Experiences of hearing the voice of God or angels demons or other spiritual beings have generally been understood either as religious experiences or else as a feature of mental illness Some critics of traditional religious faith have dismissed the visions and voices attributed to biblical characters and saints as evidence of mental disorder However it is now known that many ordinary people with no other evidence of mental disorder also hear voices and that these voices not infrequently include spiritual or religious content Psychological and interdisciplinary research has shed a revealing light on these experiences in recent years so that we now know much more about the phenomenon of hearing voices than ever before The present work considers biblical historical and scientific accounts of spiritual and mystical experiences of voice hearing in the Christian tradition in order to explore how some voices may be understood theologically as revelatory It is proposed that in the incarnation Christian faith finds both an understanding of what it is to be fully human a theological anthropology and God's perfect self disclosure revelation Within such an understanding revelatory voices represent a key point of interpersonal encounter between human beings and God

Harmon, 2023-02-28 In a Western culture of increasing skepticism towards conservative Christianity what motivates intellectually driven atheists to believe in the reality of God and become passionate followers of Christ Review of social science literature confirms a predominant functional approach to religious conversion effectively reducing a complex substantive phenomenon to a partial functional explanation In response the chief focus of this book is to take a broader look at religious conversion to determine the precursors and pathways from atheistic disbelief to belief in God and Christianity within an educated population Findings are drawn from PhD based research evaluating a broad range of functional and substantive variables influencing religious conversion Data was collected through both survey and interview of fifty educated skeptical atheists in the contemporary West who once held belief God and Christianity as implausible unattractive and irrelevant Yet they became utterly convinced that the Christian faith was true and good worth personal life commitment These former atheists not only experienced a change of their worldview but also a dramatic transformation of their whole world In depth narrative analysis revealed the integrated transformative nature of religious conversion in areas of sense making identity experience meaning and purpose community language and spirituality Overall this book advances the case for using an inclusive transformational perspective

The God That the Poor Seek Rupen Das, 2022-01-31 The assumption that conversion looks the same regardless of culture or religious context is challenged by a growing number of missiologists both in the Majority World and in the West. In this book Rupen Das explores the particularities of conversion for some of the world's poorest populations. Sharing the stories of Syrian refugees and Indian slum dwellers Das positions their voices within a missiological framework of contextualization seeking to understand what attracts the marginalized to the gospel of Christ. This book is filled with practical insights for those ministering to the world's poor in contexts of missions development or local outreach. It also offers a powerful glimpse into the identity of the crucified God who knows human pain and does not turn his back on human suffering.
