Translanguaging for Emergent Bilinguals Danling Fu, Xenia Hadjioannou, Xiaodi Zhou, 2019-02-22 Translanguaging for Emergent Bilinguals is a thorough examination of the development, evolution and current realities of educating emergent bilinguals in U.S. classrooms. Through engaging vignettes, readers follow the experiences of emergent bilinguals in a variety of monolingual settings, tracing the challenges encountered by both the students and the schools that serve them. The authors argue that the future of emergent bilingual education lies in an inclusive translanguaging pedagogy. By embracing home languages and cultures, this approach nurtures the development of multiple literacies, enabling individuals to thrive academically, socially, linguistically and intellectually. The text begins by showing how the authors evolved from monolingual language educators to translanguaging educators and ends with concrete takeaways for successfully using this approach in different education settings. This book offers an uplifting alternative view of the lives and education of language-minoritized students. The authors present here a practice-based approach to translanguaging for all types of teachers of emergent bilinguals. Foreword by Ofelia García, The Graduate Center, City University of New York. A fascinating volume offering practical as well as theoretical insights into translanguaging pedagogy. Li Wei, UCL Institute of Education, University College London. Contributes significantly to our understanding of the nature of translanguaging and its potential to transform the education of emergent bilingual students. James Cummins, University of Toronto

Translanguaging with Multilingual Students Ofelia García, Tatyana Kleyn, 2016-06-10 Looking closely at what happens when translanguaging is actively taken up to teach emergent bilingual students across different contexts, this book focuses on how it is already happening in classrooms as well as how it can be implemented as a pedagogical orientation. It extends theoretical understandings of the concept and highlights its promises and challenges. Using a Transformative Action Research design, six empirically grounded ethnographic case studies describe how translanguaging is used in lesson designs and in the spontaneous moves made by teachers and students during specific teaching moments. The cases shed light on two questions: How, when and why is translanguaging taken up or resisted by students and teachers? What does its use mean for them? Although grounded in a U.S. context and specifically in classrooms in New York State, Translanguaging with Multilingual Students links findings and theories to different global contexts to offer important lessons for educators worldwide
