translated children's texts as well as instances of cultural mediation by translators and editors. Abridgement, adaptation and alteration by translators have often been viewed in a negative light, yet a closer examination of historical translators' prefaces reveals a far more varied picture than that of faceless conduits or wilful censors. From William Caxton's dedication of his translated History of Jason to young Prince Edward in 1477 to the intent he may begin to learn to read English to Edgar Taylor's justification of the first translation into English of Grimm's tales as a means of promoting children's imaginations in an age of reason, translators have recorded in prefaces and other writings their didactic, religious, aesthetic, financial and even political purposes for translating children's texts.

The Routledge Handbook of Translation and Young Audiences

Michał Borodo, Jorge Díaz-Cintas, 2025-01-31. The Routledge Handbook of Translation and Young Audiences offers a comprehensive overview of translation in the context of young audiences. The handbook synthesises research on translation of children's and young adult literature, audiovisual translation, the translation of comics and picture books, empirical research methods and translation performed by fan communities in the digital world. Adopting a forward-looking approach, it is organised around these five key themes which taken together propose a new way of looking at interrelated phenomena which have never been brought together before to map this emerging area of study. Featuring 35 contributions from leading and emerging scholars, the volume showcases a range of perspectives which focus on translation and cultural practices around children and young adults, not only as readers, viewers and consumers but also as prosumers and collaborative creators of content. Providing a multi-layered perspective on the study of translation and young audiences, this handbook will be a valuable resource for students and scholars in translation studies, particularly those interested in audiovisual translation, media translation, multimodal texts and children's literature.

Children's Literature in Translation Jan Van Coillie, Jack

McMartin, 2020-10-30. For many of us, our earliest and most meaningful experiences with literature occur through the medium of a translated children's book. This volume focuses on the complex interplay that happens between text and context when works of children's literature are translated: what contexts of production and reception account for how translated children's books come to be made and read as they are? How are translated children's books adapted to suit the context of a new culture? Spanning the disciplines of Children's Literature Studies and Translation Studies, this book brings together established and emerging voices to provide an overview of the analytical, empirical and geographic richness of current research in this field and to identify and reflect on common insights, analytical perspectives and trajectories for future interdisciplinary research. This volume will appeal to an interdisciplinary audience of scholars and students in Translation Studies and Children's Literature Studies and related disciplines. It has a broad geographic and cultural scope, with contributions dealing with translated children's literature in the United Kingdom, the United States, Ireland, Spain, France, Brazil, Poland, Slovenia, Hungary, China, the former Yugoslavia, Sweden, Germany and Belgium.

Translating Picturebooks

Riitta Oittinen, Anne Ketola, Melissa Garavini, 2017-10-10. Translating Picturebooks examines the role of illustration in the translation process of picturebooks and how the word image interplay inherent in the medium can have an impact both on translation practice and the reading process itself The book draws on a wide range of picturebooks published and translated in a number of languages to demonstrate the myriad ways in which information and meaning is conveyed in the translation of multimodal material and in turn the impact of these interactions on the readers experiences of these books The volume also analyzes strategies translators employ in translating picturebooks including issues surrounding culturally specific references and visual and verbal gaps and features a chapter with excerpts from translators diaries written during the process Highlighting the complex dynamics at work in the translation process of picturebooks and their implications for research on translation studies and multimodal material this book is an indispensable resource for students and researchers in translation studies multimodality and children s literature Edinburgh Companion to Children's Literature Clementine

Beauvais,2018-02-16 Introduces you to the promises and problems of Charles Taylor s thought in major contemporary debates Imagining Sameness and Difference in Children's Literature Emer O'Sullivan,Andrea Immel,2017-08-31

This book investigates how cultural sameness and difference has been presented in a variety of forms and genres of children s literature from Denmark Germany France Russia Britain and the United States ranging from English caricatures of the 1780s to dynamic representations of contemporary cosmopolitan childhood The chapters address different models of presenting foreigners using examples from children s educational prints dramatic performances travel narratives comics and picture books Contributors illuminate the ways in which the texts negotiate the tensions between the Enlightenment ideal of internationalism and discrete national or ethnic identities cultivated since the Romantic era providing examples of ethnocentric cultural perspectives and of cultural relativism as well as instances where discussions of child reader agency indicate how they might participate eventually in a tolerant transnational community African Perspectives on Literary

Translating and Transmediating Children's Literature Anna Kérchy, Björn Sundmark, 2020-09-30 From Struwwelpeter to Peter Rabbit from Alice to Bilbo this collection of essays shows how the classics of children s literature have been transformed across languages genres and diverse media forms This book argues that translation regularly involves transmediation the telling of a story across media and vice versa and that transmediation is a specific form of translation Beyond the classic examples the book also takes the reader on a worldwide tour and examines among other things the role of Soviet science fiction in North Korea the ethical uses of Lego Star Wars in a Brazilian context and the history of Latin translation in children s literature Bringing together scholars from more than a dozen countries and language backgrounds these cross disciplinary essays focus on regularly overlooked transmediation practices and terminology such as book cover art trans sensory storytelling cart enfreakment foreignizing domestication and intra cultural transformation

Encyclopedia of Literary Translation Into English: A-L O. Classe, 2000 Routledge Encyclopedia of Translation Studies Mona Baker, Gabriela Saldanha, 2019-09-20 The Routledge Encyclopedia of Translation Studies remains the most authoritative reference work for students and scholars interested in engaging with the phenomenon of translation in all its modes and in relation to a wide range of theoretical and methodological traditions This new edition provides a considerably expanded and updated revision of what appeared as Part I in the first and second editions. Featuring 132 as opposed to the 75 entries in Part I of the second edition, it offers authoritative critical overviews of additional topics such as authorship, canonization, conquest, cosmopolitanism, crowdsourced translation, dubbing, fan audiovisual translation, genetic criticism, healthcare, interpreting, hybridity, intersectionality, legal interpreting, media interpreting, memory, multimodality, nonprofessional interpreting, note taking, orientalism, paratexts, thick translation, war, and world literature. Each entry ends with a set of annotated references for further reading. Entries no longer appearing in this edition, including historical overviews that previously appeared as Part II, are now available online via the Routledge Translation Studies Portal. Designed to support critical reflection, teaching, and research within as well as beyond the field of translation studies, this is an invaluable resource for students and scholars of translation, interpreting, literary theory, and social theory among other disciplines.

The Routledge Handbook of Translation and Censorship Denise Merkle, Brian James Baer, 2024-12-18
The Routledge Handbook of Translation and Censorship is the first handbook to provide a comprehensive overview of the topic, offering broad geographic and historical coverage and extending the political contexts to incorporate colonial and postcolonial viewpoints as well as pluralistic societies. It examines key cultural texts of all kinds as well as audio-visual translation, comics, drama, and videogames. With over 30 chapters, the Handbook highlights commonalities and differences across the various contexts, encouraging comparative approaches to the topic of translation and censorship. Edited and authored by leading figures in the field of Translation Studies, the chapters provide a critical mapping of the current research and suggest future directions. With an introductory chapter by the editors on theorizing censorship, the Handbook is an essential reference and resource for advanced students, scholars, and researchers in translation studies, comparative literature, and related fields.

Negotiating Translation and Transcreation of Children's Literature Joanna Dybiec-Gajer, Riitta Oittinen, Małgorzata Kodura, 2020-05-04
This book offers fresh critical insights to the field of children's literature translation studies by applying the concept of transcreation established in the creative industries of the globalized world to bring to the fore the transformative, transgressional, and creative aspects of rewriting for children and young audiences. This socially situated and culturally dependent practice involves ongoing complex negotiations between creativity and normativity, balancing text-related problems and genre conventions with readers' expectations, constraints imposed by established canonical translations, and publishers' demands. Focussing on the translator's strategies and decision-making process, the book investigates phenomena where transcreation is especially at play in children's literature, such as dual address, ambiguity, nonsense, humour, play on words, and other creative language use. These also involve genre-specific requirements, for example rhyme and rhythm in poetry. The book draws on a wide range of mostly Anglophone texts for children and their translations into languages of limited diffusion to demonstrate the numerous ways in which information, meaning, and emotions are transferred to new linguistic and cultural contexts. While focussing mostly on interlingual transfer the volume analyses a variety of translation types from established canonical renditions by celebrity translators to non professional translations and intralingual rewritings It also examines iconotextual dynamics of text and image The book employs a number of innovative methodologies from cognitive linguistics and ethnolinguistics to semiotics and autoethnographic approaches going beyond text analysis to include empirical research on children s reactions to translation strategies Highlighting the complex dynamics at work in the process of transcreating for children this volume is essential reading for students and researchers in translation studies children s fiction and adaptation studies

Cultural Encounters in Translated Children's Literature Helen Frank, 2014-04-08 Cultural Encounters in Translated Children s Literature offers a detailed and innovative model of analysis for examining the complexities of translating children s literature and sheds light on the interpretive choices at work in moving texts from one culture to another The core of the study addresses the issue of how images of a nation locale or country are constructed in translated children s literature with the translation of Australian children s fiction into French serving as a case study Issues examined include the selection of books for translation the relationship between children s books and the national and international publishing industry the packaging of translations and the importance of titles blurbs and covers the linguistic and stylistic features specific to translating for children intertextual references the function of the translation in the target culture didactic and pedagogical aims euphemistic language and explicitation and literariness in translated texts The findings of the case study suggest that the most common constructs of Australia in French translations reveal a preponderance of traditional Eurocentric signifiers that identify Australia with the outback the antipodes the exotic the wild the unknown the void the end of the world the young and innocent nation and the Far West Contemporary signifiers that construct Australia as urban multicultural Aboriginal worldly and inharmonious are seriously under represented The study also shows that French translations are conventional conservative and didactic showing preference for an exotic rather than local specificity with systematic manipulation of Australian referents betraying a perception of Australia as antipodean rural exoticism The significance of the study lies in underscoring the manner in which a given culture is constructed in another cultural milieu especially through translated children s literature

Translation, the Canon and its Discontents Miguel Ramalheite Gomes, 2017-08-21 This collection addresses the complex process by which translation and other forms of rewriting have contributed to canon formation revision destabilization and dismantlement Through the play between version and subversion which is inherent to any form of rewriting these essays focusing on translations since the sixteenth century down to the present day stress the role of translation and adaptation as potentially transformative mediations capable of shaping and undermining identities Such manipulation is deeply ambivalent since it can be used as a means of disseminating the ideology of oppressive regimes at the expense of the source text but it can also serve to garner attention to marginalised texts This tense interplay between political social and aesthetic purposes almost inevitably generates discontents which may turn out to be the outcome of translation in general However discontent is a relational concept depending on where one stands in the field of competing positions that is the canon Writing a Translation Commentary Penélope Johnson,2023-12-05 This essential textbook is a step by step guide to how to write a self reflective translation commentary a key requirement of most courses on translation Starting with source text analysis it guides students in how to set out a translation strategy and goes through the most common challenging issues encountered thus enabling students to set out their translation priorities in an informed manner Throughout each chapter there are boxes summarising key concepts and suggestions of tasks and activities as well as recommendations for further reading The book is supplemented by online resources for students and teachers on the translation studies portal There are nine PowerPoints based on the chapters of the book that could be used for teaching or self study There are also downloadable versions of sample assessment rubrics tables for example selection and checklists Based on real life examples of students work in different language combinations drawing on the author s years of experience of teaching commentary writing this book focuses on several types of language mediation that go beyond the written word such as interpreting audiovisual translation localisation and transcreation This is a vital textbook for students writing commentaries on translation and interpreting courses a useful resource for supervisors providing students with guidance on how to write a balanced articulate and convincing commentary and a handy reference for professional translators and interpreters needing to explain their translation decisions to clients Children's Literature as Communication Roger D. Sell,2002-10-10 In this book members of the ChiLPA Project explore the children s literature of several different cultures ranging from ancient India nineteenth century Russia and the Soviet Union to twentieth century Britain America Australia Sweden and Finland The research covers not only the form and content of books for children but also their potential social functions especially within education These two perspectives are brought together within a theory of children s literature as one among other forms of communication an approach that sees the role of literary scholars critics and teachers as one of mediation Part I deals with the way children s writers and picturebook makers draw on a culture s available resources of orality literacy intertextuality and image Part II examines their negotiation of major issues such as the child adult distinction gender politics and the Holocaust Part III discusses children s books as used within language education programmes with particular attention to young readers pragmatic processing of differences between the context of writing and their own context of reading
