Trees to Know in Oregon and Washington EDWARD C. JENSEN, 2020-02-28 For 70 years people have turned to one book to learn about Northwest trees. Trees to Know in Oregon and Washington expands its scope to cover more territory and include more trees. The book was first published in 1950. Charles R. Ross, an Oregon State University Extension forester, wanted to introduce readers to the towering giants in their backyards. Since then, Edward C. Jensen has stewarded the publication through several more editions. This edition features several rare species native to southwest Oregon. It also updates scientific names and adds a new section on how Northwest forests are likely to be affected by changing climates. Since its initial publication, Trees to Know has become a mainstay for students, gardeners, small woodland owners, and visitors to the Pacific Northwest. Along with all the details on native conifers, broadleaves, and more than 50 ornamental trees, readers will find more than 400 full-color photos and 70 maps depicting habitat range and forest type. Easy-to-follow identification keys, handy guides to help distinguish one variety from another, the story of Northwest forests past, present, and future.

Wildlife-habitat Relationships in Oregon and Washington David H. Johnson, Thomas A. O'Neil, 2001 This volume provides information about the terrestrial, freshwater, and marine habitats of Oregon and Washington and the wildlife that depend upon them. It also supports broader and more consistent conservation planning, management, and research. The 27 chapters identify 593 wildlife species, define some 300 wildlife terms, profile wildlife communities, review introduced and extirpated species, and species at risk, and discuss management approaches. The volume includes color and black-and-white photographs, maps, diagrams, and illustrations, and the accompanying CD-ROM contains additional wildlife data, 60,000 records, maps, and seven matrixes that link wildlife species with their respective habitat types. Johnson is a wildlife biologist, engineer, and habitat scientist, and O'Neill is director of the Northwest Habitat Institute; they worked together on this publication project as its managing directors.
