Bear in mind, however, that for perhaps 60 percent of the test items the calculator will afford you no advantage and moreover may actually work against you. No pocket organizers, hand held minicomputers, paper tape, or noisy calculators may be used. In addition, no calculator requiring an external power source will be allowed. Finally, no sharing of calculators will be permitted; you must bring your own. Make sure you are thoroughly familiar with the operation of your calculator before the test. Your performance on the test could suffer if you spend too much time searching for the correct function on your calculator.

FORMAT OF THE SAT II CHEMISTRY

The SAT II Chemistry is a one-hour exam consisting of 85 multiple-choice questions. The first part of the exam consists of classification questions. This question type presents a list of statements or questions that you must match up with a group of choices lettered A through E. Each choice may be used once, more than once, or not at all. The exam then shifts to relationship analysis questions, which you will answer in a specially numbered section of your answer sheet. You will have to determine if each of two statements is true or false and if the second statement is a correct explanation of the first. The last section is composed strictly of multiple-choice questions with choices lettered A through E.
