Toothache and Gum disease naturally treated with Homeopathy and Schuessler salts Robert Kopf, 2018-05-23 Toothache is caused when the nerve to a tooth is irritated or inflamed. It often radiates to the cheek, jaw, jaw joint, and ears. The pain is sharp and throbbing, sometimes accompanied by swelling around the tooth, fever, and headache. Causes of toothache include tooth decay, abscessed tooth, tooth fracture, a damaged filling, an infection of the tooth's nerve, a cavity mostly created by bacteria, cracks in the enamel, exposed dental necks, inflammation of the jaw and sinuses, heat and cold stimuli, grinding teeth, and infected gums. Gum disease is an irritation and inflammation of the tissues and bones that surround and support the teeth. The two types of gum disease are called gingivitis and periodontitis. Gingivitis affects the gums, the tissue that surrounds the teeth, and causes red, swollen, and tender gums that bleed easily. Periodontitis is a severe gum disease that spreads below the gums to damage the tissues and bone that support the teeth. Periodontitis causes the gums to shrink back from the teeth, leaving pockets between the teeth and gums where germs, bacteria, can grow and damage the bone that supports the teeth. Teeth that look longer may become loose and fall out. In this homeopathic and naturopathic adviser, I will give you recommendations how to treat toothache and gum disease naturally with Homeopathy and Schuessler salts, also named cell salts, tissue salts. I will present you the most proven homeopathic remedies and Schuessler salts, including the appropriate potency and dosage. Naturopathy works holistically. It does not treat single symptoms only. It treats the whole body, mind, and soul. I wish you much success, joy in life, and especially your health.
