Vectors Of Memory Legacies Of Trauma In Postwar Europe:

Vectors of Memory Nancy Wood, 1999-09 The topic of memory has moved to prominence in recent years This is partly due to a spate of anniversaries and commemorations of events such as the Holocaust and the Second World War whose significance for the present is affirmed even as their meanings continue to be debated Dynamics of Memory and Identity in Contemporary Europe Eric Langenbacher, Bill Niven, Ruth Wittlinger, 2013-03-01 The collapse of the Iron Curtain the renationalization of eastern Europe and the simultaneous eastward expansion of the European Union have all impacted the way the past is remembered in today's eastern Europe At the same time in recent years the Europeanization of Holocaust memory and a growing sense of the need to stage a more self-critical memory has significantly changed the way in which western Europe commemorates and memorializes the past The increasing dissatisfaction among scholars with the blanket undifferentiated use of the term collective memory is evolving in new directions This volume brings the tension into focus while addressing the state of memory theory itself A European Memory? Małgorzata Pakier, Bo Stråth, 2012 An examination of the role of history and memory is vital in order to better understand why the grand design of a United Europe with a common foreign policy and market yet enough diversity to allow for cultural and social differences was overwhelmingly turned down by its citizens The authors argue that this rejection of the European constitution was to a certain extent a challenge to the current historical grounding used for further integration and further demonstrates the lack of understanding by European bureaucrats of the historical complexity and divisiveness of Europe's past A critical European history is therefore urgently needed to confront and re-imagine Europe not as a harmonious continent but as the outcome of violent and bloody conflicts both within Europe as well as with its Others As the authors show these dark shadows of Europe's past must be integrated and the fact that memories of Europe are contested must be accepted if any new attempts at a United Europe are to be successful The Memory of Colonialism in Britain and France Itay Lotem, 2021-03-12 This book explores national attitudes to remembering colonialism in Britain and France By comparing these two former colonial powers the author tells two distinct stories about coming to terms with the legacies of colonialism the role of silence and the breaking thereof Examining memory through the stories of people who incited public conversation on colonialism activists politicians journalists and professional historians this book argues that these actors mobilised the colonial past to make sense of national identity race and belonging in the present In focusing on memory as an ongoing politicised public debate the book examines the afterlife of colonial history as an element of political and social discourse that depends on actors' goals and priorities A thought-provoking and powerful read that explores the divisive legacies of colonialism through oral history this book will appeal to those researching imperialism collective memory and cultural identity The Memory of Catastrophe Peter Gray, Kendrick Oliver, 2004-09-04 Memories of catastrophes both those which occur naturally and those which are consequences of human actions loom large in the modern consciousness The volume opens with an investigation of the concepts of catastrophe and collective memory and the relationships between them Arguing that a pervasive catastrophic memory may be as disabling as it is instructive Gray and Oliver stress the necessity of rendering the phenomenon subject to secular critical inquiry The value of such an approach is then demonstrated in a series of case studies

Allies in Memory Sam Edwards, 2015-03-02 Amidst the ruins of postwar Europe and just as the Cold War dawned many new memorials were dedicated to those Americans who had fought and fallen for freedom Some of these monuments plaques stained glass windows and other commemorative signposts were established by agents of the US government partly in the service of transatlantic diplomacy some were built by American veterans groups mourning lost comrades and some were provided by grateful and grieving European communities As the war receded Europe also became the site for other forms of American commemoration from the sombre and solemn battlefield pilgrimages of veterans to the political theatre of Presidents to the production and consumption of commemorative souvenirs With a specific focus on processes and practices in two distinct regions of Europe Normandy and East Anglia Sam Edwards tells a story of postwar Euro American cultural contact and of the acts of transatlantic commemoration that this bequeathed

Vectors of Memory Nancy Wood, 1999-09 The topic of memory has shot to prominence in the 1990s This text uses the concept of vectors of memory to designate the conduits of that memorial activity and examines a range of vectors that have focused public attention

Europe's Deadly Century Neil Forbes, Robin Page, Guillermo Pérez, 2009 In the course of Europe's twentieth century freedoms were won at the cost of terrible sacrifice The physical remains of war conflict and ideological struggle lie everywhere around us The question of what to do with this common past in which we all share an interest lies at the centre of this important book From a variety of professional backgrounds the contributors consider a wide range of conflict heritage sites in the context of international and national histories and regional and local historical narratives Questions of who owns the past the ambiguities over how people identify with the local community or nation state and whether or how to make moral judgements are central The book illustrates the challenges of documenting and describing what are often extensive contested and sometimes enigmatic and ambiguous buildings and monuments The priorities of conservation and how we ensure that documents artefacts sites and buildings can be given adequate and appropriate protection and care are also addressed This book will be of interest to a wide range of professional practitioners academics and policy makers as well as the general reader and will open the way to a deeper understanding of the significance of Europe's conflict heritage

Rhetorical Vectors of Memory in National and International Holocaust Trials Marouf Arif Hasian (Jr.), 2006 During the past several decades the twentieth century Holocaust has become a defining event in many histories Hasian reviews how national and international courts have used Holocaust trials as forums for debates about individuated justice historical record keeping and pedagogical memory work

History, Memory and Mass Atrocity Dan Stone, 2006 The book's main theme is the interpretation of the Holocaust and genocide in historiography philosophy and the contemporary culture of commemoration Running through the essays is an attempt to understand the Holocaust's relationship to modernity the need to find ways of understanding genocide through apparently non rational forms of explanation especially derived from anthropology and the desirability of relating the Holocaust to other instances of genocide The book investigates the ways in which individual thinkers Malinowski Arendt Bataille Perec Ricoeur can help us conceptualise the Holocaust and also deals with many of the major themes of Holocaust and Genocide Studies in recent years problems of handling testimony problems of erecting monuments and museums the representability of the Holocaust through texts photographs monuments and museums the possibility of understanding why individuals take part in genocide and the relationship of the Holocaust to colonial genocide Contains previously inaccessible essays The book is arranged into four sections interpretations of the origins and nature of the Holocaust studies of individual thinkers responses to the Holocaust questions of representation and commemoration and understanding genocide

Colonial Memory and Postcolonial Europe Andrea L. Smith, 2006 Intersects with very active areas of research in history and anthropology and links these domains of inquiry spanning Europe and North Africa in a creative and innovative fashion Douglas Holmes Binghamton University Maltese settlers in colonial Algeria had never lived in France but as French citizens were abruptly repatriated there after Algerian independence in 1962 In France today these pieds noirs are often associated with Mediterranean qualities the persisting tensions surrounding the French Algerian War and far right anti immigrant politics Through their social clubs they have forged an identity in which Malta not Algeria is the unifying ancestral homeland Andrea L. Smith uses history and ethnography to argue that scholars have failed to account for the effect of colonialism on Europe itself She explores nostalgia and collective memory the settlers liminal position in the colony as subalterns and colonists and selective forgetting in which Malta replaces Algeria the true homeland which is now inaccessible fraught with guilt and contradiction The study provides insight into race ethnicity and nationalism in Europe as well as cultural context for understanding political trends in contemporary France Historical Memory of the Spanish Revolution of October 1934 Brian D. Bunk, 2000 Echoes of the Holocaust Klas-Göran Karlsson, Ulf Zander, 2003 In what ways has the Holocaust been used to push for the satisfaction of various needs and objectives in Europe The authors take this question as their point of departure in order to reflect upon the role of history in general and the effects of the Holocaust in particular The study how when and why the collective memory of the Holocaust has been expressed and activated for cultural economic political and social reasons Memories of the Nazi genocide in the German Polish borderlands the Holocaust in Russian history school books and the debates on the American television series Holocaust are among the topics covered by the articles in this anthology War, Nation, Memory Keith A. Crawford, Stuart J. Foster, 2007-11-12 This book examines how World War II is portrayed in school history textbooks from various nations It highlights the differing narratives used to instill national pride and collective memory analyzing how textbooks serve as tools for socialization and propaganda shaped by ideological and sociopolitical forces Current Contents Institute for Scientific Information (Philadelphia), 2002

The Lasting War Monica Riera, Gavin Schaffer, 2008-04 The Second World War brought suffering and trauma to the people of Europe on an unprecedented scale While Europeans were not strangers to the harsh realities of international conflict World War II galvanized a new range of destructive forces that shook the continent to its intellectual psychological and material foundations This volume addresses World War II as a common European trauma by focusing on key trans national developments and comparing the different wars as experienced by three similar civilian populations In Pursuit of German Memory Wulf Kansteiner, 2006 The collective memories of Nazism that developed in postwar Germany have helped define a new paradigm of memory politics From Europe to South Africa and from Latin America to Iraq scholars have studied the German case to learn how to overcome internal division and regain international recognition In Pursuit of German Memory History Television and Politics after Auschwitz examines three arenas of German memory politics professional historiography national politics and national public television that have played key roles in the reinvention of the Nazi past in the last sixty years Wulf Kansteiner shows that the interpretations of the past proposed by historians politicians and television producers reflect political and generational divisions and an extraordinary concern for Germany's image abroad At the same time each of these theaters of memory has developed its own dynamics and formats of historical reflection Kansteiner's analysis of the German scene reveals a complex social geography of collective memory In Pursuit of German Memory underscores the fact that German memories of Nazism like many other collective memories combine two seemingly contradictory qualities They are highly mediated and part of a global exchange of images and story fragments but at the same time they can be reproduced only locally in narrowly circumscribed networks of communication Recent Themes in Historical Thinking Donald A. Yerxa, 2008 This title offers a detailed look at new trends in methods of historical inquiry Through articles and interviews the prominent historians featured in this collection comment on such wide ranging topics of historical inquiry as the impact of postmodernism on the field the relationship between professional and popular history the importance of historical consciousness and the limitations of the field in its current state A special feature of this volume is a lively forum on counterfactuals the might have beens of history The volume in general and the forum in particular illustrates the value of ongoing conversation between historians in advancing historical investigation and enriching debate and discussion within and beyond the academic setting The contributors are Jeremy Black David Cannadine Robert Cowley Richard J Evans Edward Ingram Richard Ned Lebow Joseph S Lucas John Lukacs C Behan McCullagh William H McNeill Allan Megill Gavriel Rosenfeld Peter Seixas Beverley Southgate Willie Thompson and Sam Wineburg CURRENT CONTENTS January 7, 2002 Volume 24 Number 1, 2002 Ghosts of Passion Brian D. Bunk, 2007-03-28 Deals with central problem in modern Spanish history why did civil war break out in 1936 arguing that cultural representations of earlier revolution helped trigger the war through focus on social tensions around religion and gender
