World Hunger 10 Myths:

World Hunger Frances Moore Lappé, Joseph Collins, 1979 Abstract The concepts of why hunger exists and how the causes are being attacked are presented in the light of a new attitude toward old ideas The world is capable of producing enough food for every human being Overpopulation is not the cause underutilization of land is a far worse problem Hunger is not caused by food scarcity but by unequal distribution and ownership These inequalities can be overcome without jeopardizing freedom justice or the quality of the environment not through increased foreign aid or limiting agricultural exports but by attacking the roots of the problems social attitudes which view the world's hungry not as potential producers but as burdens control of basic resources by a small minority concepts which stereotype the poor as incapable and ineffectual foreign aid

World Hunger Frances Moore Lappé, Joseph Collins, 2015-10-06 The definitive solutions based book for all those questioning why hunger still exists when there is such an abundance of food The Huffington Post Food Tank's 2015 Recommended Fall Reading List From bestselling authors Frances Moore Lappé and Joseph Collins comes the twenty first century's authoritative book on world hunger Lappé and Collins refute the myths that prevent us from addressing the root causes of hunger across the globe World Hunger 10 Myths draws on extensive new research to offer fresh often startling insights about tough questions from climate change and population growth to genetically modified organisms GMOs and the role of US foreign aid and more Brimming with little known but life changing examples of solutions to hunger worldwide this myth busting book argues that sustainable agriculture can feed the world that we can end nutritional deprivation affecting one quarter of the world's people and that most in the Global North have more in common with hungry people than they thought For novices and scholars alike World Hunger 10 Myths will inspire a whole new generation of hunger fighters World Hunger should become not only a book for study but a guide to action Noam Chomsky World hunger Frances M.

Lappé, Joseph Collins, 1978 World Hunger Frances Moore Lappé, Joseph Collins, 1986 The authors advance the position that it is a lack of democracy in the world rather than a shortage of food that causes famines World hunger Frances Moore Lappé, 1982 World Hunger; Ten Myths [by]... [and] Joseph Collins Frances Moore Lappé, Joseph Collins, 1978

World Hunger Frances Moore Lappé, Joseph Collins, Peter Rosset, 1998 Examines the policies and politics that have kept hungry people from feeding themselves around the world in both Third and First World countries Food First: Selected Writings from 40 Years of Movement Building Teresa K Miller, Tanya M Kerssen, 2015-12-15 This book looks back on forty years of writings from the Oakland based Institute for Food and Development Policy better known as Food First on the occasion of its 40th anniversary The book highlights the breadth and depth of the organization's published works addressing issues such as hunger international trade US foreign policy the Green Revolution agroecology climate justice land reform food and farm workers rights and food sovereignty Food and Society William C. Whit, 1995-01-01 The importance of food is undeniable Yet because it is so close and obvious we often fail to pay attention to it In Food and Society A Sociological

Approach author William C Whitt attempts to develop a multi level multidisciplinary approach to the relationship between food and the larger world Organized from the experiences of food consumption through its preparation distribution storage and production this book discusses the role of food in past societies the basics of nutrition contemporary issues including body size food and culture food production world hunger and food innovation World Hunger Frances Moore Lappé, Joseph Collins, 1988 How U S foreign aid may hurt rather than help the hungry or poor in third world countries is discussed Findings show that over crowded countries have resources necessary for people to free themselves from hunger per capita food production can increase while at the same time more people go hungry Myths are presented which prevent us from understanding how we can alleviate world hunger A number of organizations and publications are listed as sources that can help to go beyond the myths of hunger and to discover effective action for change World Hunger Frances Moore Lappé, Joseph Collins, 1982 Land Justice: Re-imagining Land, Food, and the Commons Justine M. Williams, Eric Holt-Giménez, 2017-06-22 In recent decades the various strands of the food movement have made enormous strides in calling attention the many shortcomings and injustices of our food and agricultural system Farmers activists scholars and everyday citizens have also worked creatively to rebuild local food economies advocate for food justice and promote more sustainable agroecological farming practices However the movement for fairer healthier and more autonomous food is continually blocked by one obstacle land access As long as land remains unaffordable and inaccessible to most people we cannot truly transform the food system The term land grabbing is most commonly used to refer to the large scale acquisition of agricultural land in Asian African or Latin American countries by foreign investors However land has and continues to be grabbed in North America as well through discrimination real estate speculation gentrification financialization extractive energy production and tourism This edited volume with chapters from a wide range of activists and scholars explores the history of land theft dispossession and consolidation in the United States It also looks at alternative ways forward toward democratized land justice based on redistributive policies and cooperative ownership models With prefaces from leaders in the food justice and family farming movements the book opens with a look at the legacies of white settler colonialism in the southwestern United States From there it moves into a collectively authored section on Black Agrarianism which details the long history of land dispossession among Black farmers in the southeastern US as well as the creative acts of resistance they have used to acquire land and collectively farm it The next section on gender explores structural and cultural discrimination against women landowners in the Midwest and also role of womanism in land based struggles Next a section on the cross border implications of land enclosures and consolidations includes a consideration of what land justice could mean for farm workers in the US followed by an essay on the challenges facing young and aspiring farmers Finally the book explores the urban dimensions of land justice and their implications for locally autonomous food systems and lessons from previous struggles for democratized land access Ultimately the book makes the case that to move forward to a more equitable just sustainable and sovereign agriculture system the various strands of the food movement must come together for land justice
