The Twilight of the Middle Class Andrew Hoberek, 2009-01-10 In The Twilight of the Middle Class Andrew Hoberek challenges the commonly held notion that post World War II American fiction eschewed the economic for the psychological or the spiritual Reading works by Ayn Rand Ralph Ellison Saul Bellow Phillip Roth Flannery O Connor Thomas Pynchon Don DeLillo and others he shows how both the form and content of postwar fiction responded to the transformation of the American middle class from small property owners to white collar employees In the process he produces compelling new accounts of identity politics and postmodernism that will be of interest to anyone who reads or teaches contemporary fiction Hoberek argues that despite the financial gains and job security enjoyed by the postwar middle class the transition to white collar employment paved the way for its current precarious state in a country marked by increasingly deep class divisions Postwar fiction provided the middle class with various imaginative substitutes for its former property owning independence substitutes that since then have not only allowed but abetted this class s downward mobility To read this fiction in the light of the middle class experience is thus not only to restore the severed connections between literary and economic history in the second half of the twentieth century but to explore the roots of the contemporary crisis of the middle class
