Classifying Psychopathology Harold Kincaid,Jacqueline A. Sullivan,2023-10-31 Scholars question the extent to which current psychiatric classification systems are inadequate for diagnosis treatment and research of mental disorders and offer suggestions for improvement In this volume leading philosophers of psychiatry examine psychiatric classification systems including the Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders DSM asking whether current systems are sufficient for effective diagnosis treatment and research Doing so they take up the question of whether mental disorders are natural kinds grounded in something in the outside world Psychiatric categories based on natural kinds should group phenomena in such a way that they are subject to the same type of causal explanations and respond similarly to the same type of causal interventions When these categories do not evince such groupings there is reason to revise existing classifications The contributors all question current psychiatric classifications systems and the assumptions on which they are based They differ however as to why and to what extent the categories are inadequate and how to address the problem Topics discussed include taxometric methods for identifying natural kinds the error and bias inherent in DSM categories and the complexities involved in classifying such specific mental disorders as oppositional defiance disorder and pathological gambling Contributors George Graham Nick Haslam Allan Horwitz Harold Kincaid Dominic Murphy Jeffrey Poland Nancy Nyquist Potter Don Ross Dan Stein Jacqueline Sullivan Serife Tekin Peter Zachar Handbook of Sexual Assault and Sexual Assault Prevention William T. Kendler,Josef Parnas,2017-03-24 The revisions of both DSM IV and ICD 10 have again focused the interest of the field of psychiatry and clinical psychology on the issue of nosology This interest has been further heightened by a series of controversies associated with the development of DSM 5 including the fate of proposed revisions of the personality disorders bereavement and the autism spectrum Major debate arose within the DSM process about the criteria for changing criteria leading to the creation of first the Scientific Review Committee and then a series of other oversight committees which weighed in on the final debates on the most controversial proposed additions to DSM 5 providing important influences on the final decisions Contained within these debates were a range of conceptual and philosophical issues Some of these such as the definition of mental disorder or the problems of psychiatric epidemics have been with the field for a long time Others the concept of epistemic iteration as a framework for the introduction of nosologic change are quite new This book reviews issues within psychiatric nosology from clinical historical and particularly philosophical perspectives The book brings together a range of distinguished authors including major psychiatric researchers clinicians historians and especially nosologists including several leaders of the DSM 5 effort and the DSM Steering Committee It also includes contributions from psychologists with a special interest in psychiatric nosology and philosophers with a wide range of orientations The book is organized into four major sections The first explores the nature of psychiatric illness and the way in which it is defined including clinical and psychometric perspectives The second section examines problems in the reification of psychiatric diagnostic criteria the problem of psychiatric epidemics and the nature and definition of individual symptoms The third section explores the concept of epistemic iteration as a possible governing conceptual framework for the revision efforts for official psychiatric nosologies such as DSM and ICD and the problems of validation of psychiatric diagnoses The book ends by exploring how we might move from the descriptive to the etiologic in psychiatric diagnoses the nature of progress in psychiatric research and the possible benefits of moving to a living document or continuous improvement model for psychiatric nosologic systems The result is a book that captures the dynamic cross disciplinary interactions that characterize the best work in the philosophy of psychiatry
