True Grit Selected Climbs Gritstone:

True Grit Pete O'Donovan, 2015-12-15 A selective topo style guidebook covering over 4000 routes on the finest gritstone crags in England's Peak District The six areas featured are the Eastern Edges Staffordshire Grit Castle Naze and Windgather the Kinder Plateau the Longdendale Valley and the Chew Valley The topos are supplemented by detailed maps and approach information as well as stunning scenic and action photographs GPS co ordinates are provided not only for key parking areas but also to mark the locations of difficult to find crags and buttresses enabling first time visitors equipped to reach their destination with minimum fuss

The Central Buttress of Scafell Graham Wilson, 2014-12-08 Few climbs are awarded the honour of being reduced to their initials CB the Central Buttress of Scafell considered for years to be the hardest climb in the British Isles is one of them Have any of you ever noticed a bayonet shaped crack descending from the skyline about midway between Moss Ghyll and Botterill's Crack on Scawfell No Has it never occurred to you that between these two climbs there is a stretch of nearly two hundred feet of unscaled rock No Ashley P Abraham 1907 Despite this attempt by the president of the Fell Rock Climbing Club to goad the younger generation into action it was another seven years before Siegfried Herford made the first ascent of Central Buttress Ten historic essays reproduced by courtesy of the FRCC and the Yorkshire Ramblers Club chart the stages by which this legendary route was besieged conquered and finally apparently domesticated Or was it In his introduction and commentary Graham Wilson assesses the growth of the myth the challenges of the climb and its status one hundred years on And as a coda a twenty first century account by a young female climber reflects on the achievements of those who went before

Mountain ,1985 The Standard ,1904 Settling the World M. John Harrison, 2020-08-20 Throughout his career M John Harrison's writing has defied categorisation building worlds both unreal and all too real overlapping and interlocking with each other His stories are replete with fissures and portals into parallel dimensions unidentified countries and lost lands But more important than the places they point to are the obsessions that drive the people who so believe in them characters who spend their lives hunting for and haunted by clues and maps that speak to the possibility of somewhere else This selection of stories drawn from over 50 years of writing bears witness to that desire for difference whether following backstreet occultists amateur philosophers down and outs or refugees we see our relationship with the other in microscopic detail and share in Harrison's rejection of the idea that the world or our understanding of it could ever be settled
