

While considerable research tells us that psychotherapists learn from their clients, we know little about what therapists learn from their clients. We interviewed over 60 psychotherapists to see what they have learned from their clients, both personally and professionally. Psychologists discuss learning life lessons about relationships, ethical decision making, coping, courage, wisdom, psychopathology, personality, cultural differences and lifespan development, all thanks to their work and personal lives. The self-reflective, richly elaborated therapist narratives may be inspiring to professionals and anyone interested in psychotherapy. The psychologists interviewed reported learning much from clients with whom they work, and expressed respect for their wisdom and courage.

What Psychotherapists Learn from Their Clients Sherry L. Hatcher PhD ABPP, 2014-11-07 What Psychotherapists Learn from Their Clients Sherry L Hatcher PhD ABPP Editor How I wish I d had the benefit of What Psychotherapists Learn from Their Clients several decades ago This book illuminates a seldom discussed but crucial area of the treatment relationship The popular notion held by patients and clinicians alike is that the therapist is there to treat the patient S he is the expert the seer holding all the answers the keys to the basement and the combination to the vault where all the secrets are kept Embedded in this way of thinking is also something of a pretense that because the psychotherapist is present in the role of clinician s he is not involved in the process and certainly not affected by the client other than in a countertransferential manner Perhaps the traditional focus in our training that therapy is not a social relationship that boundaries are an essential and ethical part of practice and that we must learn and adhere to role appropriate behavior results in our learning to avoid an awareness of our patients influence on us and of what we learn from them not just about them Largely hidden from this perspective is the fact that one of the operative terms in the idea of the treatment relationship is relationship The therapist is 50 percent of the dyad fully one half of the enterprise And among psychotherapists it is a widely known secret that being in the privileged position of learning about the private struggles secret torments and desires and fundamental heartbreaks of other human beings affects us deeply and throughout our lives Margaret Cramer PhD ABPP Bipolar for

Psychotherapists and Their Clients C. Raymond Lake, 2023-10-05 This unique book is needed because it aims to improve the care of Bipolar clients while strengthening the clinical practices of non MD psychotherapists What is different is the proposal that psychotherapists manage the overall care of Bipolar clients The increased number of publications about Bipolar over the past decades has enhanced the recognition of Bipolar As many as 16 million individuals in the US may have a Bipolar episode at some point Psychiatrists have traditionally managed Bipolar clients but there are not enough psychiatrists and they generally spend only 10 to 15 minutes every one to six months with their clients often not enough time to recognize oncoming Bipolar episodes Therapeutic strategy has changed from treating acute episodes to postponing next episodes Psychotherapists see their clients for 50 minutes every week and are in a better position to recognize developing episodes Psychotherapists do not prescribe and medicines are usually needed along with psychotherapy for best results This book encourages psychotherapists to vet and collaborate with prescribers in caring for the therapists Bipolar clients Lacking in the psychotherapists armamentarium for treating Bipolar clients is education regarding diagnostic signs symptoms and treatment including the most productive medications This book provides therapists and clients the needed information and encourages academic departments and other psychotherapy programs to institute training about Bipolar Disorders
