

AP® World History Study Guide and Graphic Organizers Unit 6: Consequences of Industrialization, 1750-1914 CE ~ 1900 CE

5. Demographic Changes

AP® students will need to be aware of patterns of demographic changes. This unit in particular does describe shifts in population for various countries.

European countries in 1800	European countries in 1900
- slow or stagnant population growth - expensive agricultural techniques - slow growth, no real modern farm technology either (bothways) - traditional people used their lands - slow or stagnant birth rates, no city or suburbs or factories (also traditional farms) - technological and medical advances and other things slow from industrial era - slow MHC, decreasing birth rates as families start to use as many children as possible and more children survive into adulthood	- slow or stagnant population growth in population - China experienced growth with industrialization & modern growth - AP® countries (Japan, Brazil, growth in population) slow - increased in population through natural factors as well through industrial for child technological techniques and technology

6. Patterns of Migration

- European colonies (Europeans moved to new areas) (America, Australia, Southward Asia, Africa)
 - Demographic effects: diseases carried to these places
 - slow population growth
 - slow growth of diseases caused technological (AP® for Chinese and Japanese immigrants)
- Migration to Latin America
 - Latinos moved to throughout Argentina
 - slow migration from Europe (Portugal, Italy)
 - slow migration carrying people in China

Why you should know this: This will be asked question about migration patterns and population growth during 1800-1900 period. Since these patterns will also be helpful to you in an essay or change in area of the world by Industrialization or technology from before 1800

Examples:

- slow growth carried people to the Americas early on
 - Migration from Asia, America to South America/China
 - slow migration from Asia early on
 - slow migration from China early on
 - Migration from Europe to China

AP® is a significant feature of the 1900s period, which means that it is the product of, and they are not really the same.
