The End of Comparative Philosophy and the Task of Comparative Thinking Steven Burik, 2010-07-02 How do differences in language influence comparative philosophy Although the Orientalism famously described by Edward Said is rare today Steven Burik maintains that comparative philosophy often subtly privileges one tradition over another since certain conceptual schemes are so embedded in Western languages that it is difficult not to revert to them Arguing for a new approach that acknowledges how theory and practice cannot be separated in comparative philosophical endeavors Burik provides nonmetaphysical deconstructionist readings of Heidegger and Derrida and uses these to give a new reading of classical Daoism The ideas of language advanced therein can aid the project of comparative philosophy specifically and philosophies generally in trying to overcome ways of thinking that have dominated Western philosophy for twenty five hundred years and still frustrate intercultural encounters

"I don't translate, I create!" Vanessa Drexler, 2016-01-05 I don't translate I create This is the slogan of a translation agency called Sternkopf Communications

located in Fl ha Germany The translators at this translation agency are specialized in the field of marketing and perceive creativeness their daily bread But what does this actually mean I don t translate I create Undoubtedly the translation of a text from one language into another is not an easy and straightforward process On the contrary the translator needs to invest much time and one or the other headache before a target text TT finally sounds natural fluent coherent and logical for the target audience Different possible translation solutions will have to be considered language as well as culture related equivalents often are not easily at hand etc Would it not be pleasant if machine translation MT was there to help with this process Yet despite the enormous importance of creativity in translating computer aided translation CAT tools are being used frequently by professional translators not to replace but to support the translator in their daily business CAT tools enable their users to translate in a more consistent way since they search source texts for words phrases or sentences that have already been translated before and stored in the TM so that the translator does not need to translate this text unit again from scratch Considering that this process brings about what could be called semi mechanical TTs the use of CAT tools seems to stand in stark contrast to the importance of creativity mentioned above Thus the question arises whether CAT tools influence the creative energy of translators and if this is the case whether translators regard this influence as rather positive or negative In this context it is also important to consider which fields of expertise generally demand a high degree of uniformity consistency in translations and which subject fields generally allow for a high degree of creative freedom Accordingly this paper pursues two related purposes The first is to compare five CAT tools in their degree of usability The second purpose is to identify translators perspectives on uniformity and creativity in translations with the goal to shedding light on the question whether CAT tools generally tend to positively or negatively influence the translation process on a rather linguistic than technological basis

Translation and Gender Luise Von Flotow, 2016-04-08 The last thirty years of intellectual and artistic creativity in the 20th century have been marked by gender issues Translation practice translation theory and translation criticism have also been powerfully affected by the focus on gender As a result of feminist praxis and criticism and the simultaneous emphasis on culture in translation studies translation has become an important site for the exploration of the cultural impact of gender and the gender specific influence of culture With the dismantling of universal meaning and the struggle for women s visibility in feminist work and with the interest in translation as a visible factor in cultural exchange the linking of gender and translation has created fertile ground for explorations of influence in writing rewriting and reading Translation and Gender places recent work in translation against the background of the women s movement and its critique of patriarchal language It explains translation practices derived from experimental feminist writing the development of openly interventionist translation strategies the initiative to retranslate fundamental texts such as the Bible translating as a way of recuperating writings lost in patriarchy and translation history as a means of focusing on women translators of the past

Nation, Language, and the Ethics of Translation Sandra Bermann, Michael

Wood, 2005-07-05 In recent years scholarship on translation has moved well beyond the technicalities of converting one language into another and beyond conventional translation theory. With new technologies blurring distinctions between the original and its reproductions and with globalization redefining national and cultural boundaries, translation is now emerging as a reformulated subject of lively interdisciplinary debate. Nation, Language and the Ethics of Translation enters the heart of this debate. It covers an exceptional range of topics from simultaneous translation to legal theory, from the language of exile to the language of new nations, from the press to the cinema, and cultures and languages from contemporary Bengal to ancient Japan, from translations of Homer to the work of Don DeLillo. All twenty-two essays by leading voices including Gayatri Spivak and the late Edward Said are provocative and persuasive. The book's four sections—Translation as Medium and across Media, The Ethics of Translation, Translation and Difference, and Beyond the Nation—together provide a comprehensive view of current thinking on nationality and translation, one that will be widely consulted for years to come. The contributors are Jonathan E. Abel, Emily Apter, Sandra Bermann, Vilashini Cooppan, Stanley Corngold, David Damrosch, Robert Eaglestone, Stathis Gourgouris, Pierre Legrand, Jacques Lezra, Françoise Lionnet, Sylvia Molloy, Yopie Prins, Edward Said, Azade Seyhan, Gayatri Chakravorty Spivak, Henry Staten, Lawrence Venuti, Lynn Visson, Gauri Viswanathan, Samuel Weber, and Michael Wood.
