Writing And Community Engagement A Critical Sourcebook:

Writing and Community Engagement Thomas Deans, Barbara Roswell, Adrian J. Wurr, 2010-05-13 Writing and Community Engagement A Critical Sourcebook collects key research on the theory and practice of community based writing. Selections from community projects are also included to help connect scholarly and pedagogical work. Chapters address writing in communities, ethics, community engagement, service learning, the rhetoric of civic writing, and practical pedagogy.

Community Engagement Best Practices Across the Disciplines Heather K. Evans, 2017-11-15 This book is a reference to administrators and educators at institutions of higher learning who are thinking about taking serious steps to link their educational mission to helping their surrounding communities. Various best practices across the disciplines in higher education about integrating community engagement in traditional coursework are presented. This book provides a multi-disciplinary and multi-method approach to incorporating the effects of community engagement service learning in the curriculum. Multiple departments from Art to Statistics as well as various types of classes: undergraduate, graduate, online, face to face are represented here. If you are not sure how to integrate community engagement in classes at your university, this book is for you. A Rhetoric for Writing Program Administrators 2e Rita Malenczyk, 2016-09-01 A Rhetoric for Writing Program Administrators 2nd Edition presents the major issues and questions in the field of writing program administration. The collection provides aspiring new and seasoned WPAs with the theoretical lenses, terminologies, historical contexts, and research they need to understand the nature, history, and complexities of their intellectual and administrative work.

Unsustainable Jessica Restaino, Laurie J. C. Cella, 2013 Unsustainable: Reimagining Community Literacy, Public Writing, Service Learning, and the University edited by Jessica Restaino and Laurie Cella explores short-lived university community writing projects in an effort to rethink the long-held gold standard of long-term sustainability in community writing work. Contributors examine their own efforts in order to provide alternate models for understanding, assessing, and enacting university community writing projects that for a range of reasons fall outside of traditional practice. This collection considers what has become an increasingly unified call for praxis where scholar-practitioners explore a specific project that fell short of theorized best practice sustainability in order to determine not only the nature of what remains, how and why we might find value in a community-based writing project that lacks long-term sustainability for example, but also how or why we might rethink, redefine, and reevaluate best practice ideals in the first place. In so doing, the contributors are at once responding to what has been an increasing acknowledgment in the field that for a variety of reasons, many community-based writing projects do not go as initially planned and also applying in praxis a framework for thinking about and studying such projects. Unsustainable represents the kind of scholarly work that some of the most recognizable names in the field have been calling for over the past five years. This book affirms that unpredictability is an indispensable factor in the field and argues that such unpredictability presents in fact demands a theoretical approach that takes these practical experiences as its base.
