Macdonald,2013-07-18 Memorylands is an original and fascinating investigation of the nature of heritage memory and understandings of the past in Europe today It looks at how Europe has become a memoryland littered with material reminders of the past such as museums heritage sites and memorials and at how this memory phenomenon is related to the changing nature of identities especially European national and cosmopolitan In doing so it provides new insights into how memory and the past are being performed and reconfigured in Europe and with what effects Drawing especially though not exclusively on cases concepts and arguments from social and cultural anthropology Memorylands argues for a deeper and more nuanced understanding of the cultural assumptions involved in relating to the past It theorizes the various ways in which materializations of identity work and relates these to different forms of identification within Europe The book also addresses questions of methodology including discussion of historical ethnographic interdisciplinary and innovative methods Through a wide range of case studies from across Europe Sharon Macdonald argues that Europe is home to a much greater range of ways of making the past present than is usually realized and a greater range of forms of historical consciousness At the same time however she seeks to highlight what she calls the European memory complex a repertoire of prevalent patterns in forms of recollection and past presencing The examples in Memorylands are drawn from both the margins and metropolitan centres from the relatively small scale and local the national and the avant garde The book looks at pasts that are potentially identity disrupting or difficult as well as those that affirm identities or offer possibilities for transcending national identities or articulating more cosmopolitan futures Topics covered include authenticity temporalities embodiment commodification nostalgia and Ostalgie the musealization of everyday and folk life Holocaust commemoration and tourism narratives of war the heritage of Islam transnationalism and the future of the past Memorylands is engagingly written and accessible to general readers as well as offering a new synthesis for advanced researchers in memory and heritage studies It is essential reading for those interested in identities memory material culture Europe tourism and heritage

Interactive Morphology Martin Maiden,2018-09-05 First published in 1991 The existence of morphonology had been the subject of intense debate in twentieth century linguistic theory Attempts to identify putatively morphonological phenomena had often foundered on the widespread assumption of a rigid dichotomy between synchronic morphological structures and the phonetic processes which historically shared them With the difficulties of establishing any role for morphonology clearly identified the author introduces a comparative and historical survey of the morphologization of metaphony in Italian dialects On the basis of this the existence is argued of authentic synchronic morphonological interaction between morphological structures and phonetic processes such that inflectional paradigms serve to specify phonetic details of implementation of incipient sound changes The circumstances under which such interaction may be expected to occur are discussed This book is an important contribution to our understanding of both morphology and phonology taking seriously the implications of abandoning a rigid distinction between synchronic morphology and diachronic phonology It successfully integrates linguistic theory with the analysis of philological data and indicates the direction for future research on morphonology This detailed study of Italian dialects also constitutes a valuable addition to the study of Romance dialectology
