Wiegand,2015-09-10 Despite dire predictions in the late twentieth century that public libraries would not survive the turn of the millennium their numbers have only increased Two of three Americans frequent a public library at least once a year and nearly that many are registered borrowers Although library authorities have argued that the public library functions primarily as a civic institution necessary for maintaining democracy generations of library patrons tell a different story In Part of Our Lives Wayne A Wiegand delves into the heart of why Americans love their libraries

The book traces the history of the public library featuring records and testimonies from as early as 1850 Rather than analyzing the words of library founders and managers Wiegand listens to the voices of everyday patrons who cherished libraries Drawing on newspaper articles memoirs and biographies Part of Our Lives paints a clear and engaging picture of Americans who value libraries not only as civic institutions but also as public places that promote and maintain community Whether as a public space a place for accessing information or a home for reading material that helps patrons make sense of the world around them the public library has a rich history of meaning for millions of Americans From colonial times through the recent technological revolution libraries have continuously adapted to better serve the needs of their communities Wiegand demonstrates that although cultural authorities including some librarians have often disparaged reading books considered not serious the commonplace reading materials users obtained from public libraries have had a transformative effect for many including people such as Ronald Reagan Bill Moyers Edgwin Danticat Philip Roth Toni Morrison Sonia Sotomayor and Oprah Winfrey A bold challenge to conventional thinking about the American public library Part of Our Lives is an insightful look into one of America's most beloved cultural institutions Thinking Through Genre Heather Lattimer, 2003 Supports English teachers who seek to engage their students in genre studies in the reading and writing workshop The book profiles six different units of study memoir feature article editorial short story fairy tale and response to literature Each study is set in an individual fifth through tenth grade classroom and is described from its theoretical foundations through the planning for the specific needs of the students to the teaching and finally evaluation More Hot Links Cora M. Wright, 2002-08-27 This companion to the popular Hot Links by the same author provides informative annotations for an additional 300 fiction and nonfiction books contemporary and classic that support and enhance the middle school curriculum The selected titles represent top quality literature that ties into all areas of the curriculum The books were chosen for the quality of writing interest level appropriateness of illustrations and current availability Additionally the book includes a chapter highlighting the best of newly published literature and a chapter featuring titles that are presented in a unique and creative manner A Literature Links section in the back of the book offers an easy to read chart that tells you exactly in which curricular areas a book can be used Grades 5-9 African-American Poets Harold Bloom, 2010 This volume examines contemporary African American poets from the well known writers of the late 20th century to the newly established and emerging voices of today Integrating Literature in the Content Areas Sharon Kane, 2017-05-12 This practical accessible resource will help future and practicing teachers integrate literature into their middle school or high school classrooms while also addressing content area standards and improving the literacy skills of their students Two introductory chapters are followed by five chapters that each cover a different genre Chapter 3 Informational Books Chapter 4 Fiction Chapter 5 Biography Autobiography and Memoir Chapter 6 Poetry and Chapter 7 How to and Hands on Books Each genre chapter consists of four parts Part 1 Discusses the genre and how content area teachers can use books within that
