Native Americas, 2000 Touching America's History Meredith Mason Brown, 2014-01-01 Objects that make the past

feel real from a stone axe head to a piece of John Brown's scaffold includes photos. History isn't just about abstractisms; it's the story of real events that happened to real people. In Touching America's History, Meredith Mason Brown uses a collection of such objects drawing from his own family's heirlooms to summon up major developments in America's history. The objects range in date from a Pequot stone axe head probably made before the Pequot War in 1637 to the western novel Dwight Eisenhower was reading while waiting for the weather to clear so the Normandy Invasion could begin to a piece of a toilet bowl found in the bombed-out wreckage of Hitler's home in 1945. Among the other historically evocative items are a Kentucky rifle carried by Col. John Floyd killed by Indians in 1783, a letter from George Washington explaining why he will not be able to attend the Constitutional Convention, shavings from the scaffold on which John Brown was hanged, a pistol belonging to Gen. William Preston in whose arms Gen. Albert Sidney Johnston bled to death after being shot at the Battle of Shiloh, and the records of a court martial for the killing by an American officer of a Filipino captive during the Philippine War. Together these objects call to mind nothing less than the birth, growth, and shaping of what is now America. Clearly written, buttressed by maps and portraits, Brown's book regales while showing the objectivity and nuance of a historian. Library Journal. A whole new way of doing history, a novel form of story telling. Joseph J. Judy Mattivi Morley, 2006. She draws on extensive interviews, city council proceedings, and historic plats and photographs to construct a detailed picture of how these districts originally looked and were used, how they were renovated, and to what ends they were marketed. Almost All Aliens. Paul Spickard, Francisco Beltrán, Laura Hooton, 2022-09-15. Almost All Aliens offers a unique reinterpretation of immigration in the history of the United States. Setting aside the European migrant-centered melting pot model of immigrant assimilation, Paul Spickard, Francisco Beltrán, and Laura Hooton put forward a fresh and provocative reconceptualization that embraces the multicultural, racialized, and colonially inflected reality of immigration that has always existed in the United States. Their astute study illustrates the complex relationship between ethnic identity and race, slavery, and colonial expansion. Examining the lives of those who crossed the Atlantic as well as those who crossed the Pacific, the Caribbean, and the North American Borderlands, Almost All Aliens provides a distinct, inclusive, and critical analysis of immigration, race, and identity in the United States from 1600 until the present. The second edition updates Almost All Aliens through the first two decades of the twenty-first century, recounting and analyzing the massive changes in immigration policy, the reception of immigrants, and immigrant experiences that whipsawed back and forth throughout the era. It includes a new final chapter that brings the story up to the present day. This book will appeal to students and researchers alike studying the history of immigration, race, and colonialism in the United States as well as those interested in American identity, especially in the context of the early twenty-first century. Musical
