Hood, 2011-01-01 Cloth was one of the most important commodities in the early modern world and colonial North Americans had to develop creative strategies to acquire it Although early European settlers came from societies in which hand textile production was central to the economy local conditions in North America interacted with traditional craft structures to create new patterns of production and consumption The Weaver's Craft examines the development of cloth manufacture in early Pennsylvania from its roots in seventeenth century Europe to the beginning of industrialization Adrienne D Hood's focus on Pennsylvania and the long sweep of history yields a new understanding of the complexities of early American fabric production and the regional variations that led to distinct experiences of industrialization Drawing on an extensive array of primary sources combined with a quantitative approach the author argues that in contrast to New England rural Pennsylvania women spun the yarn that a small group of trained male artisans wove into cloth on a commercial basis throughout the eighteenth century Their production was considerably augmented by consumers purchasing cheap cloth from Europe and Asia making them active participants in a global marketplace Hood's painstaking research and numerous illustrations of textile equipment swatch books and consumer goods will be of interest to both scholars and craftspeople Labor and Laborers of the Loom Gail Fowler Mohanty, 2012-11-12 Labor and Laborers of the Loom Mechanization and Handloom Weavers 1780 1840 develops several themes important to understanding the social cultural and economic implications of industrialization The examination of these issues within a population of extra factory workers distinguishes this study The volume centers on the rapid growth of handloom weaving in response to the introduction of water powered spinning This change is viewed from the perspectives of mechanics technological limitations characteristics of weaving skills income and cost In the works of Duncan Bythell and Norman Murray the displacement of British and Scottish hand weavers loomed large and the silence of American handloom weavers in similar circumstances was deafening This study reflects the differences between the three culture by centering not on displacement but on survival Persistence is closely tied to the gradual nature of technological change The contrasts between independent commercial artisans and outwork weavers are striking Displacement occurs but only among artisans devoting their time to independent workshop weaving Alternatively outwork weavers adapted to changing markets and survived The design and development of spinning and weaving device is stressed as are the roles of economic conditions management organization size of firms political implications and social factors contribute to the impact of technological change on outwork and craft weavers The Alden Amos Big Book of Handspinning Alden Amos,2001-05 Wheel designer and maintainer of textile traditions Alden Amos the recipient and evaluator of traditional wisdom lets no point go unexamined This is truly a BIG book offering decades of experience in making and handling yarn He ll change your spinning for the better whether you agree with him or not The Catalog of Catalogs Edward L. Palder,1993 The Motion-picture Industry in the United Kingdom ... James Summerville (jr.),1932 Waterstone's Guide to Books Waterstone & Co,1988 World of a Slave Kym S. Rice,Martha B.
