Devor, 1997 Reports and analyzes results of interviews with 45 self identified female to male transsexuals Devor sociology U of Victoria focuses on the processes by means of which people come to identify themselves as members of a seemingly incongruous social group and then remake their lives so that they function as apparently native born members of the group She concludes that most issues confronted by transsexuals are neither theoretically nor practically distinct from those faced by other members of society Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR Sex and Society Marshall Cavendish Corporation, 2010-09 Moving beyond a partial view of only biology and psychology this work also examines the wide sociological dimensions of sex

Trans and Sexuality Christina Richards, 2017-08-10 Grounded in cutting edge qualitative research Trans and Sexuality explores the sexuality of people who do not identify with the gender that they were assigned at birth Arguing that whilst splitting members of the trans community into distinct groups might seem like a reasonable theoretical procedure the pervasive assumption that group membership impacts on the sexuality of trans people has unduly biased opinions in this highly contested yet dramatically under researched area Moreover whilst existing literature has taken a purely positivistic standpoint or relies on methodology that could be seen as exploitative towards trans people Richards is careful to place the real life experiences of trans research participants at the heart of the work Showing that sexuality extends beyond the bedroom this forward thinking book touches on topics such as identity sexuality and the intersections between the two Richards takes a cross disciplinary approach and considers the sexuality of trans people within the contexts of psychiatric and psychological settings including Gender Identity Clinics as well as in the broader contexts of cultural and community settings The implications of the research at hand are also explored with respect to counselling psychology and existentialist
