Thinking Through Material Culture An Interdisciplinary Perspective:

Thinking Through Material Culture Carl Knappett, 2010-11-24 Material culture surrounds us and yet is habitually overlooked So integral is it to our everyday lives that we take it for granted This attitude has also afflicted the academic analysis of material culture although this is now beginning to change with material culture recently emerging as a topic in its own right within the social sciences Carl Knappett seeks to contribute to this emergent field by adopting a wide ranging interdisciplinary approach that is rooted in archaeology and integrates anthropology sociology art history semiotics psychology and cognitive science His thesis is that humans both act and think through material culture ways of knowing and ways of doing are ingrained within even the most mundane of objects This requires that we adopt a relational perspective on material artifacts and human agents as a means of characterizing their complex interdependencies In order to illustrate the networks of meaning that result Knappett discusses examples ranging from prehistoric Aegean ceramics to Zande hunting nets and contemporary art Thinking Through Material Culture argues that although material culture forms the bedrock of archaeology the discipline has barely begun to address how fundamental artifacts are to human cognition and perception This idea of codependency among mind action and matter opens the way for a novel and dynamic approach to all of material culture both past and present

The Oxford Handbook of History and Material Culture Ivan Gaskell, Sarah Anne Carter, 2020-04-07 Most historians rely principally on written sources Yet there are other traces of the past available to historians the material things that people have chosen made and used This book examines how material culture can enhance historians understanding of the past both worldwide and across time The successful use of material culture in history depends on treating material things of many kinds not as illustrations but as primary evidence Each kind of material thing and there are many requires the application of interpretive skills appropriate to it These skills overlap with those acquired by scholars in disciplines that may abut history but are often relatively unfamiliar to historians including anthropology archaeology and art history Creative historians can adapt and apply the same skills they honed while studying more traditional text based documents even as they borrow methods from these fields They can think through familiar historical problems in new ways They can also deploy material culture to discover the pasts of constituencies who have left few or no traces in written records The authors of this volume contribute case studies arranged thematically in six sections that respectively address the relationship of history and material culture to cognition technology the symbolic social distinction and memory They range across time and space from Paleolithic to Punk

Perspectives on materiality in ancient Egypt: Agency, Cultural Reproduction and Change Maynard Erika, Carolina Velloza, Rennan Lemos, 2018-09-11 Growing out of a colloquium organised in S o Paulo in March 2016 here Nine papers approach the potential of materiality in Ancient Egypt based on several case studies covering a wide range of topics such as Egyptian art recent perspectives on sex and gender hierarchies and the materiality of textual sources and images

The Body as Material Culture Joanna R.

Sofaer,2006-02-16 Bodies intrigue us They promise windows into the past that other archaeological finds cannot by bringing us literally face to face with history Yet the body is also highly contested Archaeological bodies are studied through two contrasting perspectives that sit on different sides of a disciplinary divide On one hand lie science based osteoarchaeological approaches On the other lie understandings derived from recent developments in social theory that increasingly view the body as a social construction Through a close examination of disciplinary practice Joanna Sofaer highlights the tensions and possibilities offered by one particular kind of archaeological body the human skeleton with particular regard to the study of gender and age Using a range of examples she argues for reassessment of the role of the skeletal body in archaeological practice and develops a theoretical framework for bioarchaeology based on the materiality and historicity of human remains

Material Culture and Technology in Everyday Life Phillip Vannini,2009 Focusing on the technoculture of everyday life this book attempts to zero in on the simplicity and the habitual character of the interaction between humans and material objects which is often assumed or taken for granted Because objects are always meaningful in the pragmatic use to which they are directed the material world of everyday life can be seen as a technoculture of its own one made of behaviors as simple and yet as significant as using a lawnmower or decorating one's body In discussing the unique methodological components of the ethnography of the technoculture of everyday life this book begins a dialogue on how we can examine from the participants perspective the interconnections between social agents their technological material practices their material objects or technics and their social and material environment

Conceptual Joining Lukas Allner,Christoph Kaltenbrunner,Daniela Kröhnert,Philipp Reinsberg,Institute of Architecture at the University of Applied Arts Vienna,Institute of Art Sciences and Art Education at the University of Applied Arts Vienna,2021-11-22 This book explores experimental approaches to the design and construction of wooden structures in architecture while presenting the results of an artistic research project Through the use of digital tools the anatomy of wood becomes a design determining principle for spatial structures The architects and artists also explore the potential of traditional craftsmanship and derive from this a material oriented practice Structures are not designed here for a specific use but rather open up various usage possibilities due to their unique spatial and geometric properties The documentation provides insight into an open ended research process Guest contributions reflect on the underlying concepts and thus the future relevance of wood as a building material

First Nations, Museums, Narrations Alison K. Brown,2014-04-15 When the Franklin Motor Expedition set out across the Canadian Prairies to collect First Nations artifacts brutal assimilation policies threatened to decimate these cultures and extensive programs of ethnographic salvage were in place Despite having only three members the expedition amassed the largest single collection of Prairie heritage items currently housed in a British museum Through the voices of descendants of the collectors and members of the affected First Nations this book looks at the relationships between indigenous peoples and the museums that display their cultural artifacts raising timely and essential questions about the role of collections in the twenty first century Lived Religion in the Ancient Mediterranean World Valentino Gasparini, Maik Patzelt, Rubina Raja, Anna-Katharina Rieger, Jörg Rüpke, Emiliano Urciuoli, 2020-04-06 The Lived Ancient Religion project has radically changed perspectives on ancient religions and their supposedly personal or public character This volume applies and further develops these methodological tools new perspectives and new questions The religious transformations of the Roman Imperial period appear in new light and more nuances by comparative confrontation and the integration of many disciplines The contributions are written by specialists from a variety of disciplinary contexts Jewish Studies Theology Classics Early Christian Studies dealing with the history of religion of the Mediterranean West Asian and European area from the late Hellenistic period to the early Middle Ages and shaped by their intensive exchange From the point of view of their respective fields of research the contributors engage with discourses on agency embodiment appropriation and experience They present innovative research in four fields also of theoretical debate which are Experiencing the Religious Switching the Code A Thing Called Body and Commemorating the Moment Archaeological Theory in the New Millennium Oliver J. T. Harris, Craig Cipolla, 2017-06-26 Archaeological Theory in the New Millennium provides an account of the changing world of archaeological theory and a challenge to more traditional narratives of archaeological thought It charts the emergence of the new emphasis on relations as well as engaging with other current theoretical trends and the thinkers archaeologists regularly employ Bringing together different strands of global archaeological theory and placing them in dialogue the book explores the similarities and differences between different contemporary trends in theory while also highlighting potential strengths and weaknesses of different approaches Written in a way to maximise its accessibility in direct contrast to many of the sources on which it draws Archaeological Theory in the New Millennium is an essential guide to cutting edge theory for students and for professionals wishing to reacquaint themselves with this field The Present and Future of Symbolic Interactionism.
