Thinking Through The Environment A Reader:

Thinking Through the Environment Mark J. Smith, 2005-09-30 This reader brings together material from ecological thought environmental policy environmental philosophy social and political thought historical sociology and cultural studies The extracts tell the story of the way the natural environment has been understood in the modern world and how this has recently been questioned as contemporary societies are seen as characterised by uncertainty and complexity The literature guides the reader through the conventional grounds for thinking about rights and obligations in relation to future generations non human animals and the biotic communities bringing each into question This then leads into a critical examination of social and political theories and their capacity for drawing on ecological thought Each of the seven sections of readings is introduced by the editor who locates the set of readings within the specific themes and issues at the heart of each section This broad reaching and thought provoking set of readings stresses the diversity of response to environmental problems both within and between anthropocentric and ecocentric approaches and will encourage the reader to examine how they are manifested in the areas of environmental ethics policy analysis and social and political theory

Politics and the Environment

James Connelly, Graham Smith, David Benson, Clare Saunders, 2003-09-02 Politics and the Environment has established itself as the most comprehensive textbook in this area This new edition has been completely revised and updated while retaining the features and theory to practice focus which made the first edition so successful The book is designed to introduce students to the key concepts and issues vital to the understanding of environmental problems and their political solutions The authors investigate the people movements and organizations involved in the shaping of environmental policy and the barriers hindering the development and introduction of successful solutions to environmental problems This new edition has been expanded to include a reorganized structure divided into three thematic sections a wide range of case studies from around the world at the end of each chapter more boxed examples and concepts further detail on ecological modernization an extended further reading list including useful websites

Environments in a Changing World John Huckle, Adrian Martin, 2014-09-19 While there is no shortage of books on the environment there are few introductory texts that outline the social theory that informs human geographical approaches to the interactions between ecology and society Students arriving at university often lack the understanding of history economics politics sociology and philosophy that contemporary human geography requires Environments in a Changing World addresses this deficit providing foundation knowledge in a form that is accessible to first year students and applied to the understanding of both contemporary environmental issues and the challenge of sustainability Students are challenged to develop and defend their own ethical and political positions on sustainability and respond to the need for new forms of ecological citizenship Conceptualizing Environmental Citizenship for 21st Century Education Andreas Ch. Hadjichambis, Pedro Reis, Demetra Paraskeva-Hadjichambi, Jan Činčera, Jelle Boeve-de Pauw, Niklas Gericke, Marie-Christine Knippels, 2020-02-26 This Open Access book is about the development of a common understanding of environmental citizenship It conceptualizes and frames environmental citizenship taking an educational perspective Organized in four complementary parts the book first explains the political economic and societal dimensions of the concept Next it examines environmental citizenship as a psychological concept with a specific focus on knowledge values beliefs and attitudes It then explores environmental citizenship within the context of environmental education and education for sustainability It elaborates responsible environmental behaviour youth activism and education for sustainability through the lens of environmental citizenship Finally it discusses the concept within the context of different educational levels such as primary and secondary education in formal and non formal settings Environmental citizenship is a key factor in sustainability green and cycle economy and low carbon society and an important aspect in addressing global environmental problems It has been an influential concept in many different arenas such as economy policy philosophy and organizational marketing In the field of education the concept could be better exploited and established however Education and especially environmental discourses in science education have a great deal to contribute to the adoption and promotion of environmental citizenship

Translating Systems Thinking into Practice Natassia Goode, Paul M. Salmon, Michael Lenne, Caroline Finch, 2018-09-21 Systems thinking tells us that human error violations and technology failures result from poorly designed and managed work systems To help us understand and prevent injuries and incidents incident reporting systems must be capable of collecting data on contributory factors from across the overall work system in addition to factors relating to the immediate context of the event e g front line workers environment and equipment This book describes how to design a practical usable incident reporting system based on this approach The book contains all the information needed to effectively design and implement a new incident reporting system underpinned by systems thinking It also provides guidance on how to evaluate and improve existing incident reporting systems so they are practical for users collect good quality data and reflect the principles of systems thinking Features Highlights the key principles of systems thinking for designing incident reporting systems Outlines a process for developing and testing incident reporting systems Describes how to evaluate incident reporting systems to ensure they are practical usable and collect good quality data Provides detailed guidance on how to analyze incident data and translate the findings into appropriate incident prevention strategies The Storyworld Accord Erin James, 2015

Storyworlds mental models of context and environment within which characters function is a concept used to describe what happens in narrative Narratologists agree that the concept of storyworlds best captures the ecology of narrative interpretation by allowing a fuller appreciation of the organization of both space and time by recognizing reading as a process that encourages readers to compare the world of a text to other possible worlds and by highlighting the power of narrative to immerse readers in new and unfamiliar environments Focusing on the work of writers from Trinidad and Nigeria such as Sam Selvon and Ben Okri The Storyworld Accord investigates and compares the storyworlds of nonrealist and postmodern postcolonial texts to show how such narratives grapple with the often collapsed concerns of subjectivity representation and environment bringing together these narratological and ecocritical concerns via a mode that Erin James calls econarratology Arguing that postcolonial ecocriticism like ecocritical studies has tended to neglect imaginative representations of the environment in postcolonial literatures James suggests that readings of storyworlds in postcolonial texts helps narrative theorists and ecocritics better consider the ways in which culture ideologies and social and environmental issues are articulated in narrative forms and structures while also helping postcolonial scholars more fully consider the environment alongside issues of political subjectivity and sovereignty
