Ontology and the Ambitions of Metaphysics Thomas Hofweber,2016-08-18 Many significant problems in metaphysics are tied to ontological questions but ontology and its relation to larger questions in metaphysics give rise to a series of puzzles that suggest that we don't fully understand what ontology is supposed to do nor what ambitions metaphysics can have for finding out about what reality is like Thomas Hofweber aims to solve these puzzles about ontology and consequently to make progress on four central metaphysical problems the philosophy of arithmetic the metaphysics of ordinary objects the problem of universals and the question of whether the reality is independent of us Crucial parts of the proposed solution involve considerations about quantification and its relationship to ontology the place of reference in natural languages the possibility of ineffable facts the extent of empirical evidence in metaphysics and whether metaphysics can be properly esoteric Overall Hofweber defends a rationalist account of arithmetic an empiricist picture in the philosophy of ordinary objects a restricted form of nominalism and realism about reality understood as all there is but idealism about reality understood as all that is the case He defends metaphysics as having some questions of fact that are distinctly its own with a limited form of autonomy from other parts of inquiry but rejects several metaphysical projects and approaches as being based on a mistake

Introspection and Consciousness Declan Smithies,Daniel Stoljar,2012-06-12 The topic of introspection stands at the interface between questions in epistemology about the nature of self knowledge and questions in the philosophy of mind about the nature of consciousness What is the nature of introspection such that it provides us with a distinctive way of knowing about our own conscious mental states And what is the nature of consciousness such that we can know about our own conscious mental states by introspection How should we understand the relationship between consciousness and introspective self knowledge Should we explain consciousness in terms of introspective self knowledge or vice versa Until recently questions in epistemology and the philosophy of mind were pursued largely in isolation from one another This volume aims to integrate these two lines of research by bringing together fourteen new essays and one reprinted essay on the relationship between introspection self knowledge and consciousness

Macbeth William Shakespeare,1873 Self Richard Sorabji,2008-09-26 Drawing on classical antiquity and Western and Eastern philosophy Richard Sorabji tackles in Self the question of whether there is such a thing as the individual self or only a stream of consciousness According to Sorabji the self is not an undetectable soul or ego but an embodied individual whose existence is plain to see Unlike a mere stream of consciousness it is something that owns not only a consciousness but also a body Sorabji traces historically the retreat from a positive idea of self and draws out the implications of these ideas of self on the concepts of life and death asking Should we fear death How should our individuality affect the way we live Through an astute reading of a huge array of traditions he helps us come to terms with our uneasiness about the subject of self in an account that will be at the forefront of philosophical debates for years to come There has never been a book remotely like this one in its profusion of ancient references on ideas about human identity and selfhood Readers unfamiliar with the subject also need to know that Sorabji breaks new ground in giving special attention to philosophers such as Epictetus and other Stoics Plotinus and later Neoplatonists and the ancient commentators on Aristotle on the last of whom he is the world s leading authority Anthony A Long Times Literary Supplement
