The number one benefit of information technology is that it empowers people to do what they want to do. It lets people be creative. It lets people be productive. It lets people learn things they didn't think they could learn before, and so in a sense it is all about potential".

- Steve Ballmer

Technology has been an apple of mankind's eye since the invention of the wheel. Technology in its simplest form was originally meant to make our lives easier by supporting us in various daily and routine functions. However, the expansion of civilization caused technology to not just be the backbone of society but also a pastime for purposes of entertainment, work and occupation.

Who knew that in a short span of years, the world would become a digital entity? Cloud, Data Transfer, Portable Hard Drives, Memory Cards, these developments have revolutionized the way data is stored, used and transferred. Everyday conversation is now interspersed with questions of Kilobyte capacity and the ease of storing files of considerable size. This is even more significant when it comes to businesses and entrepreneurial enterprises. Not only can such businesses or enterprises take advantage of modern technology to enhance their business and profit, but they can also benefit from the vast options provided because of the versatility of data Storage.

Businesses today are using Dashboards, Segmentation Analysis, Heat Map Analysis, Site Search Analytics, etc. to increase their productivity and revenues to gain a competitive edge and thus surpass the other participants of the industry/market.

Big Data is also one such service. Big Data i.e. the huge amount of data which has been created or collected as virtually when every choice, transaction or movement we conduct becomes digitalized, is drastically transforming the business and its operations. Businesses can make the best use of this data to gain valuable insights about the behaviors of customers and thus, serving them the right mix of products. It has been seen that the organizations which uses the insights generated by Big Data for conducting their processes generate higher revenue and thus surpass most of their competitors and peers. However, the job doesn't end with the collection of data but it starts with it. The Company should know the right tools, techniques, algorithms and metrics to make use of it. Thus, it should have a strategy on "How to use Big Data".

Mark Van Rijmenam has written the book "Think Bigger: Developing a Successful Big Data Strategy for Your Business" to address this issue. Author, Mark Van Rijmenam, is an entrepreneur who values innovation and thus, guide and inspire others by making a difference in usual practices. He has founded Datafloq.com. Datafloq is all about Big Data which connects all the stakeholders of the global market of Big Data. He is also a strategist of Big Data and thus provides guidelines and tenets to organizations for developing strategies on Big Data. His forte includes Social Media, Strategy, Mobile and Online Marketing and Big Data. He is well versed with all the recent changes that may have an impact on the business performance. He is the co-founder of Data Donderdag. Data Donderdag is an event which is organised bi-monthly in The Netherlands to make business decisions and thus focuses on the framework for understanding and improving survey data quality. The book also addresses issues with data quality in official statistics and in social opinion and market research as these fields continue to evolve leading to larger and messier data sets. This perspective challenges survey organizations to find ways to collect and process data more efficiently without sacrificing quality. The volume consists of the most up to date research and reporting from over 70 contributors representing the best academics and researchers from a range of fields. The chapters are broken out into five main sections: The Concept of TSE and the TSE Paradigm, Implications for Survey Design, Data Collection and Data Processing, Applications, Evaluation and Improvement, and Estimation and Analysis. Each chapter introduces and examines multiple error sources such as sampling error, measurement error, and nonresponse error which often offer the greatest risks to data quality while also encouraging readers not to lose sight of the less commonly studied error sources such as coverage error, processing error, and specification error. The book also notes the relationships between errors and the ways in which efforts to reduce one type can increase another resulting in an estimate with larger total error. This book features various error sources and the complex relationships between them in 25 high quality chapters on the most up to date research in the field of TSE. Provides comprehensive reviews of the literature on error sources as well as data collection approaches and estimation methods to reduce their effects. Presents examples of recent international events that demonstrate the effects of data error, the importance of survey data quality, and the real world issues that arise from these errors. Spans the four pillars of the total survey error paradigm: design, data collection, evaluation, and analysis, to address key data quality issues in official statistics and survey research. Total Survey Error in Practice is a reference for survey researchers and data scientists in research areas that include social science, public opinion, public policy, and business. It can also be used as a textbook or supplementary material for a graduate level course in survey research methods.
