Make, Think, Imagine John Browne, 2019-08-28 Today's unprecedented pace of change leaves many people wondering what new technologies are doing to our lives Has social media robbed us of our privacy and fed us with false information Are the decisions about our health security and finances made by computer programs inexplicable and biased Will these algorithms become so complex that we can no longer control them Are robots going to take our jobs Can we provide housing for our ever growing urban populations And has our demand for energy driven the Earth's climate to the edge of catastrophe John Browne argues that we need not and must not put the brakes on technological advance Civilization is founded on engineering innovation all progress stems from the human urge to make things and to shape the world around us resulting in greater freedom health and wealth for all Drawing on history his own experiences and conversations with many of today's great innovators he uncovers the basis for all progress and its consequences both good and bad He argues compellingly that the same spark that triggers each innovation can be used to counter its negative consequences Make Think Imagine provides an eloquent blueprint for how we can keep moving towards a brighter future understandings can shift notions of knowledge Humanize Thomas Heatherwick, 2023-11-07 From one of the world's most innovative designers comes a fiercely passionate manifesto on why so many places have become miserable and boring and how we can make them better for everyone featuring hundreds of photographs and illustrations that will change how you see the world around you We are living through a global catastrophe Buildings affect how we feel moment by moment day by day They have the power to lift us up and make us feel awestruck playful safe and inspired just as they can make us feel alienated and sad But many of the places where we live work learn and heal have become monotonous and disposable We're surrounded by cheap boring buildings that make people stressed sick and unhappy In short much of our world has been crafted in a way that is hostile to human experience Now drawing on his experience of the last thirty years in making bold beautiful objects and buildings Thomas Heatherwick offers both an informed critique of the inhumanity in most of today's contemporary building design and a rousing call for action Looking through Heatherwick's eyes we see familiar landmarks and cityscapes around the world from London Paris Barcelona Singapore New York Vancouver and beyond both old and new famous and obscure to learn how places can either sap the life out of us or nourish our senses and our psyche The time has come he says to put emotion back at the heart of the design process and the reasons to do so could not be more urgent Design is not superficial it has an impact upon economics climate change our mental and physical wellbeing even the peace and cohesion of our societies As citizens and users we need a world full of architectural diversity that delights and unites us And as makers and designers we can help create a world where cities reconnect with their essential mission to provide human spaces where people mix meet inspire each other and live out their full potential Elegantly crafted by Heatherwick's own studio and fully illustrated with hundreds of black and white photos Humanize is an urgent call to arms for making our world a better place for everyone to live and provides the vision and tools for us to make it a reality Learning from Failure in the Design Process Lisa Huang, 2020-04-03 Learning from Failure in the Design Process shows you that design work builds on lessons learned from failures to help you relax your fear of making mistakes so that you're not paralyzed when faced with a task outside of your comfort zone Working hands on with building materials such as concrete sheet metal and fabric you will understand behaviors processes methods of assembly and ways to evaluate your failures to achieve positive results Through material and assembly strategies of stretching casting carving and stacking this book uncovers the issues problems and failures confronted in student material experiments and examines built projects that addressed these issues with innovative and intelligent strategies Highlighting numerous professional practice case studies with over 250 color images this book will be ideal for students interested in materials and methods and students of architecture in design studios

Architecture In the Anthropocene Elizabeth Hatz, 2020-01-15 As a second attempt after Architecture Beyond The Anthropocene already available online this book is presenting a new set of reflections in a time at a pivot point 62 young architects to be are facing their own future and roles in a world experiencing massive changes on all levels climatic economic political cultural social The confusions the wonderings the hopes and maybe above all the questions amass To navigate in this unknown and volatile territory a series of speculating lectures on architectures varying foundations and possible creative paths were offered along with a list of books presented at the end of this book Fabricating Plasticity in Aluminum

Heather Roberge, 2025-03-05 This book argues for the value of the material prototype as a critical site of design innovation through a series of design and architectural case studies Illustrated by physical objects such as chairs columns and building facades these full scale material investigations reflect their designers' deep knowledge of material manufacturing and geometry The projects do not simply express how they are made rather their designers leverage the capacities of metal forming to exert distinctive influence on the object's expression and performance embracing manufacturing processes as instruments of material innovation Organized in two parts part one presents the material framework informing work by Arad Newson Heatherwick Future Systems Foster OMA Rex Hadid and others Seven metal forming techniques including Press

Forming Press Brake Forming Spinning Panel Beating Casting Extruding and Superplastic Forming are presented alongside work implemented with these processes Part two presents original design research Thermoformed aluminum facade systems ask critical questions of The Part Tessellation The Mold Tooling The Seam and the Finish Post Processing illustrating the potential of design inquiry when techniques of material production alter techniques of design Aluminum is redefined inheriting a plasticity which alters the intrinsic qualities of its raw production For students and professionals in the fields of industrial design and architecture this book presents an optimistic role for material in the design process The

Architectural Model Matthew Mindrup, 2019-10-08 An investigation of different uses for the architectural model through history as sign souvenir funerary object didactic tool medium for design and architect's muse For more than five hundred years architects have employed three dimensional models as tools to test refine and illustrate their ideas But as Matthew Mindrup shows the uses of physical architectural models extend beyond mere representation An architectural model can also simulate instruct inspire and generate architectural designs It can be among other things sign souvenir toy funerary object didactic tool medium or muse In this book Mindrup surveys the history of architectural models by investigating their uses both theoretical and practical Tracing the architectural model's development from antiquity to the present Mindrup also offers an interpretive framework for understanding each of its applications in the context of time and place He first examines models meant to portray extant fantastic or proposed structures describing their use in ancient funerary or dedicatory practices in which models are endowed with magical power as a medium for architectural reverie and inspiration and as prototypes for twentieth century experimental designs Mindrup then considers models that exemplify certain architectural uses exploring the influence of Leon Battista Alberti's dictum that models be simple lest they distract from the architect's ideas analyzing the model as a generative tool and investigating allegorical analogical and anagogical interpretations of models Mindrup's histories show how the model can be a surrogate for the architectural structure itself or for the experience of its formal tactile and sensory complexity and beyond that that the manipulation play experimentation and dreaming enabled by models allow us to imagine architecture in new ways
