

ROLE OF YOUTH IN NATION BUILDING AND PROGRESS

“No one is born a good citizen; no nation is born a democracy. Rather, both are the processes that continue to evolve over a lifetime. Young people must be included from birth. A society that cuts off from its youth severs its lifeline.”-KOFI ANNAN.

At present, most of the world is full of opulent resources to benefit mankind with all the possible ways, yet it not only severs from its lifeline but is also on the verge of disasters, as day by day its youth is getting drawn into mire of listlessness and it has to be provoked anyhow, either inspiring it by past's successful youth or today's recent youth.

Youth of a nation, the only way of progress of nation, prosperity, harmony and peace in this modern era, are leading a life, which they are not meant to lead; nothing is done by them in today's exasperating situations. Inevitably the circumstances to come, which will cause the devastation of nation; not only morally, ethically but also economically and will end everything. Therefore, this is the responsibility of today's youth to overpower these circumstances as these conditions are always trouble causing in any nation of the world at any time; yet if Youth will be there, no menace will be there to nation. It is the youth who will be 'charisma' for the nation in future to prevent from all appalling conditions which could lead to virulence among the people.

In past, around the world many young spirits accomplished their aim, not only for themselves but for the humanity. At that time, this was the youth which brought peace and harmony in world; among these great spirits were Mahatma Gandhi, Martin Luther King, Jr, Nelson Mandela.

Mahatma Gandhi who was an Indian, led nationwide campaigns to ease poverty, expand the women's rights in society, and end the injustices of cast system and to bring harmony among the people of subcontinent. He accomplished his aim when India got independence. His lessons for youth gave an encouragement to the Youth of a nation, in such a way that it works hard just to achieve what is good for humanity and is told by previous human right champions. Gandhi in his lifetime, made us realize the importance of youth. By his quote related to youth, we can get why he put importance on the aspect of nation's progress by youth. He said:

“If we are to reach peace in this world we shall have to begin with children”

Youth for Nation Charles R. Kim, 2017-06-30 This in depth exploration of culture media and protest follows South Korea's transition from the Korean War to the start of the political struggles and socioeconomic transformations of the Park Chung Hee era Although the post Korean War years are commonly remembered as a time of crisis and disarray Charles Kim contends that they also created a formative and productive juncture in which South Koreans reworked pre 1945 constructions of national identity to meet the political and cultural needs of postcolonial nation building He explores how state ideologues and mainstream intellectuals expanded their efforts by elevating the nation's youth as the core protagonist of a newly independent Korea By designating students and young men and women as the hope and exemplars of the new nation state the discursive stage was set for the remarkable outburst of the April Revolution in 1960 Kim's interpretation of this seminal event underscores student participants recasting of anticolonial resistance memories into South Korea's postcolonial politics This pivotal innovation enabled protestors to circumvent the state's official anticommunism and in doing so brought about the formation of a culture of protest that lay at the heart of the country's democracy movement from the 1960s to the 1980s The positioning of women as subordinates in the nation building enterprise is also shown to be a direct translation of postwar and Cold War exigencies into the sphere of culture this cultural conservatism went on to shape the terrain of gender relations in subsequent decades A meticulously researched cultural history Youth for Nation illuminates the historical significance of the postwar period through a rigorous analysis of magazines films textbooks archival documents and personal testimonies In addition to scholars and students of twentieth century Korea the book will be welcomed by those interested in Cold War cultures social movements and democratization in East Asia

Nation Building in South Korea Gregg Brazinsky, 2009-09-17 Nation building has been a ubiquitous component of American foreign policy during the last century The United States has attempted to create and sustain nation states that advance its interests and embody its ideals in places ranging from the Philippines to Vietnam to Iraq At no time did Washington engage in nation building more intensively than during the Cold War The United States deemed capturing the loyalties of the vast regions of the globe emerging from colonialism as crucial to the struggle against Communism To achieve this end it launched vast efforts to carve diverse parts of Asia Africa and Latin America into reliable Free World allies U S officials believed that by providing the right kinds of resources they could stimulate economic development and democratization in regions where neither of these phenomena had made significant inroads This book examines one of the most extensive costly and arguably successful of these efforts South Korea Throughout these chapters I have sought to demonstrate the agency of South Koreans in determining the ultimate impact of the United States on their society To the extent that the U S influence could be called hegemonic American hegemony was a dialectical process that Koreans played a significant role in shaping To emphasize this point I have approached the process of nation building from both sides through the use of American and Korean sources This analysis makes it clear that the evolution of the South Korea we know today did not entirely reflect the will of Americans or Koreans It was achieved only through constant negotiation between the two
