The essays collected here deal with modernist writers who on the whole felt reluctant about their modernist status because they believed that it was just as important to look backward as it was to look forward. Indeed for most of them looking backward was more important because it was only through the past that one could understand one's proper place in the present and in the future. Modernism in other words means for these writers not a radical break with the past but a continuing search for what still connects them and us vitally with it. Peter Firchow, Professor of English at the University of Minnesota, is the author of several books on modern and modernist literary subjects including books on Huxley, Conrad, and Auden. The publication of some of his hitherto uncollected essays in this volume is intended to honor
