Celtic Prayers for the Rhythm of Each Day Ray Simpson, 2022-06-19 Every hour is holy every day is sacred We sometimes think prayer belongs only in certain places on certain days This book calls us to set prayer free from these constraints allowing it to flow out through the hours of every workday sanctifying the ordinary rhythm of our modern lives waking up going to work breaking for lunch ending the workday the evening hours going to bed Ray Simpson gives us twenty original prayers written in the Celtic tradition or patterned after ancient Celtic prayers for each of these intervals Like generations of earlier followers of Christ we too can use prayer to bless the rhythm of our daily lives infusing the hours with the awareness of the One who gives us Life These small pauses throughout the day will make us ever more aware that the Kingdom of Heaven is a constant and present reality hidden just beneath the veil of everyday life

God in Our Midst Martin Reith, 1989

A Fragrant Offering John Birch, 2017-01-24 A daily prayer liturgy in the Celtic tradition with prayers for morning midday and evening along with prayers for some of the traditional Celtic festivals Can be used by groups or individuals Themes include The gift of a world a community of faith journeying together from desert places led to a pleasant land the resurrection life and the call to follow Christian prayers for traditional Celtic festivals include liturgies for Samhain Imbolc Beltane Lughnasadh and the Winter Solstice Throughout the liturgies is an opportunity for sharing the reading of both prayer and scripture They can also be used as a personal daily cycle of prayer For the midday prayers I have adapted the ancient practice of lectio divina which is a slow contemplative prayerful reading of a portion of Scripture which can allow the Word to speak directly to our hearts and lives This method of praying is particularly loved of the Benedictine tradition of monasticism St Benedict encourages us to hear Scripture s words with the ear of our hearts and hear that gentle whisper that Elijah heard on the mountain
