Evaluation and Translation Carol Maier,2014-04-23 The definition of value or quality with respect to work in translation has historically been a particularly vexed issue Today however the growing demand for translations in such fields as technology and business and the increased scrutiny of translators work by scholars in many disciplines is giving rise to a need for more nuanced more specialized and more explicit methods of determining value Some refer to this determination as evaluation others use the term assessment Either way the question is one of measurement and judgement which are always unavoidably subjective and frequently rest on criteria that are not overtly expressed This means that devising more complex evaluative practices involves not only quantitative techniques but also an exploration of the attitudes preferences or individual values on which criteria are established Intended as an interrogation and a critique that can serve to prompt a more thorough and open consideration of evaluative criteria this special issue of The Translator offers examinations of diverse evaluative practices and contains both empirical and hermeneutic work Topics addressed include the evaluation of student translations using more up to date and positive methods such as those employed in corpus studies the translation of non standard language translation into the second language terminology the application of theoretical criteria to practice a social textual perspective and the reviewing of literary translations in the press In addition reviews by a number of literary translators discuss specific translations both into and out of English

Research Methodologies in Translation Studies
 Gabriela Saldanha, Sharon O'Brien, 2014-04-08 As an interdisciplinary area of research translation studies attracts students and scholars with a wide range of backgrounds who then need to face the challenge of accounting for a complex object of enquiry that does not adapt itself well to traditional methods in other fields of investigation This book addresses the needs of such scholars whether they are students doing research at postgraduate level or more experienced researchers who want to familiarize themselves with methods outside their current field of expertise The book promotes a discerning and critical approach to scholarly investigation by providing the reader not only with the know how but also with insights into how new questions can be fruitfully explored through the coherent integration of different methods of research Understanding core principles of reliability validity and ethics is essential for any researcher no matter what methodology they adopt and a whole chapter is therefore devoted to these issues Research Methodologies in Translation Studies is divided into four different chapters according to whether the research focuses on the translation product the process of translation the participants involved or the context in which translation takes place An introductory chapter discusses issues of reliability credibility validity and ethics The impact of our research depends not only on its quality but also on successful dissemination and the final chapter therefore deals with what is also generally the final stage of the research process producing a research report
