Transformation Human Rights Fact Finding:

The Transformation of Human Rights Fact-Finding Philip Alston, Sarah Knuckey, 2015-11-23 Fact finding is at the heart of human rights advocacy and is often at the center of international controversies about alleged government abuses. In recent years, human rights fact finding has greatly proliferated and become more sophisticated and complex while also being subjected to stronger scrutiny from governments. Nevertheless, despite the prominence of fact finding, it remains strikingly under studied and under theorized. Too little has been done to bring forth the assumptions, methodologies, and techniques of this rapidly developing field or to open human rights fact finding to critical and constructive scrutiny. The Transformation of Human Rights Fact Finding offers a multidisciplinary approach to the study of fact finding with rigorous and critical analysis of the field of practice while providing a range of accounts of what actually happens. It deepens the study and practice of human rights investigations and fosters fact finding as a discretely studied topic while mapping crucial transformations in the field. The contributions to this book are the result of a major international conference organized by New York University Law School's Center for Human Rights and Global Justice. Engaging the expertise and experience of the editors and contributing authors, it offers a broad approach encompassing contemporary issues and analysis across the human rights spectrum in law, international relations, and critical theory. This book addresses the major areas of human rights fact finding such as victim and witness issues, fact finding for advocacy, enforcement, and litigation, the role of interdisciplinary expertise, and methodologies, crowd sourcing, social media, and big data, and international guidelines for fact finding.

NGOs, Knowledge Production and Global Humanist Advocacy Alistair Markland, 2020-03-02 NGOs, Knowledge Production and Global Humanist Advocacy is an empirically and theoretically rich account of how international non-governmental organisations produce knowledge of and formulate understandings about the world around them. The author applies critical and sociological perspectives to analyse the social and political limits of knowledge generated in support of global advocacy efforts aimed at enhancing human rights and preventing violent conflicts. It is found that despite their transnational networks and claims to humanist universality, the proximity of global advocates to Western power structures and elite social spaces delimits their worldviews and curtails the potential for radical departures from mainstream political thinking. This book will be of interest to scholars and students of international relations, human rights, the sociology of knowledge, peace and conflict studies, and critical security studies.

Digital Witness Sam Dubberley, Alexa Koenig, Daragh Murray, 2019-12-19 From videos of rights violations to satellite images of environmental degradation to eyewitness accounts disseminated on social media, human rights practitioners have access to more data today than ever before. To say that mobile technologies, social media, and increased connectivity are having a significant impact on human rights practice would be an understatement. Modern technology and the enhanced access it provides to information about abuse has the potential to revolutionise human rights reporting and documentation as well as the pursuit of legal accountability. However, these new methods for information gathering and dissemination have also created significant challenges for investigators and researchers. For example, videos and photographs depicting alleged human rights violations or war crimes are often captured on the mobile phones of victims or political sympathisers. The capture and dissemination of content often happens haphazardly and for a variety of motivations including raising awareness of the plight of those who have been most affected or for advocacy purposes with the goal of mobilising international public opinion. For this content to be of use to investigators it must be discovered, verified and authenticated. Discovery, verification and authentication have therefore become critical skills for human rights organisations and human rights lawyers. This book is the first to cover the history, ethics, methods and best practice associated with open source research. It is intended to equip the next generation of lawyers, journalists, sociologists, data scientists, other human rights activists and researchers with the cutting edge skills needed to work in an increasingly digitized and information saturated environment.

Research Methods in International Law Deplano, Rossana, Tsagourias, Nicholas, 2021-07-31. This timely Handbook contains a wide ranging overview of the diverse research methods used within international law. Providing an insightful examination of how international legal knowledge is analysed and adopted, this Handbook offers the reader a deeper understanding on the role and place of research methods in international legal theory, reasoning and practice.

The Roles and Functions of Atrocity-Related United Nations Commissions of Inquiry in the International Legal Order Catherine Harwood, 2020-01-13. In The Roles and Functions of Atrocity Related United Nations Commissions of Inquiry in the International Legal Order, Catherine Harwood explores the turn to international law in atrocity related United Nations commissions of inquiry and their navigation of considerations of principle, the legal and pragmatism, the political to discern their identity in the international legal order. The book traces the inquiry process from establishment and interpretation of the mandate to legal analysis, production of findings and recommendations. The research finds that the turn to international law fundamentally shapes the roles and functions of UN atrocity inquiries. Inquiries continuously navigate between realms of law and politics with the equilibrium shifting in different moments and contexts.
