WATER ACCOUNTING FOR WATER GOVERNANCE AND SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations,2018-06-27 There is growing interest in water accounting why it is needed what benefits it brings and equally important how it can be put into practice Water accounting is not a new idea yet it is an alarmingly simple one It is about quantifying water resources and uses of water much like financial accounts provide information on income and expenditure Interest in water accounting is based on the premise that We cannot plan and manage what we do not measure a statement that few would disagree with However given the current focus on water as a precious and limiting resource the risks of extreme floods and droughts and water s central role in the 2030 Agenda it is difficult to understand why so little attention is given to water accounting and to making sure we have enough water Indeed estimates suggest that by 2050 if we continue with our current approach to water management global water demand will exceed supply by over 40% which would put at risk 45% of global GDP 52% of the world s population and 40% of grain production WWDR 2016 This concern is supported by the World Economic Forum that consistently ranks water crises as a top global risk WEF 2015 Reports from South Africa January 2018 suggesting that Cape Town may be the world s first major city to face the prospect of running out of water following severe drought is a timely wake up call for everyone to focus on accounting for water
