Water Resilience For Human Prosperity:

Water Resilience for Human Prosperity Johan Rockström, Malin Falkenmark, Carl Folke, Mats Lannerstad, Jennie Barron, Elin Enfors, Line Gordon, Jens Heinke, Holger Hoff, Claudia Pahl-Wostl, 2014-03-27 The world's human population now constitutes the largest driving force of changes to the biosphere. Emerging water challenges require new ideas for governance and management of water resources in the context of rapid global change. This book presents a new approach to water resources addressing global sustainability and focusing on socio-ecological resilience to changes. Topics covered include the risks of unexpected change, human impacts and dependence on global water, the prospects for feeding the world's population by 2050 and a pathway for the future. The book's innovative and integrated approach links green and blue freshwater with terrestrial and aquatic ecosystem functions and use. It also links changes arising from land use alteration with the impacts of those changes on social-ecological systems and ecosystem services. This is an important state-of-the-art resource for academic researchers and water resource professionals and a key reference for graduate students studying water resource governance and management.

Water Resilience Julia Baird, Ryan Plummer, 2020-09-21 This book synthesizes current knowledge and understanding of management and governance in the context of water resilience, advances theory through synthesis of research and experiences from a variety of disciplinary perspectives. The book highlights the implications of theory and experience for innovation in practice and policy and it explores frontiers and future research. The book further addresses the need for a consolidated interdisciplinary approach to the theoretical advances and practical implications of water resilience for academics, resource managers, aid organizations, policy makers and citizens.

Principles for Building Resilience Reinette Biggs, Maja Schlüter, Michael L. Schoon, 2015-04-02 As both the societies and the world in which we live face increasingly rapid and turbulent changes, the concept of resilience has become an active and important research area. Reflecting the very latest research, this book provides a critical review of the ways in which resilience of social-ecological systems and the ecosystem services they provide can be enhanced. With contributions from leaders in the field, the chapters are structured around seven key principles for building resilience: maintain diversity and redundancy, manage connectivity, manage slow variables and feedbacks, foster complex adaptive systems, thinking encourages learning, broaden participation and promote polycentric governance. The authors assess the evidence in support of these principles, discussing their practical application and outlining further research needs. Intended for researchers, practitioners and graduate students, this is an ideal resource for anyone working in resilience science and for those in the broader fields of sustainability science, environmental management and governance.

Urban Water Governance in Postcolonial Zimbabwe Abraham R. Matamanda, Tazviona R. Gambe, Johannes I. Bhanye, Tafadzwa C. Maramura, Oratilwe Annastacia Khoza, 2025-09-04 This book focuses on urban water supply and governance in the Global South using urban Zimbabwe as a case study to provide insights and perspectives into the realities of the water governance. Applying a resilience and sustainability perspective we argue that fragmentation of responsibilities between various institutions the difficulty of coordination at various levels and the politics centered on water supply constrain effective water governance in Zimbabwe This has resulted in a downward spiral in urban water services in Zimbabwe s urban centers Additionally the innovative nature of this study is to draw from an often neglected dimension in urban water governance which is the political ecology which brings into perspective the varying interests associated with environmental contests and conflicts that influence water allocation and sharing among urban areas by the public sector Therefore this book dwells on understanding the politics economic and ecology of water governance through an interdisciplinary lens This analysis is critical for this study because Zimbabwe s current state of obsolete water infrastructure has also had a negative impact on the supply of high quality portable water services to the public in urban areas This book will be a critical read for academic and professionals in the fields of urban geographers planners sociologists and water experts It will also be useful for undergraduate and postgraduate students from Geography Urban and regional Planning Political Science Development Studies and Economics

The Biopolitics of Water Sofie Hellberg, 2018-03-28 Biopolitics refers to a form of politics concerned with administering and regulating the conditions of life at an aggregated level of populations This book provides a biopolitical perspective on water governance and its effects It draws on the work of Foucault to explore how notions of scarcity are used in strategies of governance and how such governance differentiates between different populations Furthermore the author investigates what such biopolitical regulation means for people s lifestyles and the way they understand themselves and their moral responsibilities as humans individuals and citizens The book begins by investigating the global water agenda with a particular emphasis on its focus on water for basic needs and provides different examples of hydromentalities around the world It also presents rich empirical details of one local case in South Africa By carefully exploring the water stories of water users the book provides new perspectives on the relationship between water and power Additionally it offers an innovative methodological framework through which we can study the workings of governance more generally and water governance specifically It thereby contributes to the scholarship on water governance in relation to how water governance and technologies are part of producing subjectivities notions of life and lifestyles and more specifically how the global water agenda can work so as to produce or further entrench distinctions between different lives and lifestyles Ultimately such differences between individuals and populations that are produced as an effect of water governance are assessed in relation to social sustainability

Unasylva 251 Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2019-12-05 Water drinkable usable water is likely to be one of the most limiting resources in the future given the growing global population the high water demand of most agricultural production systems and the confounding effects of climate change We need to manage water wisely efficiently cost effectively and equitably if we are to avoid the calamity of a lack of usable water supply Forested watersheds provide an estimated 75 percent of the world s accessible freshwater resources on which more than half the Earth's people depend for domestic agricultural industrial and environmental purposes Forests therefore are vital natural infrastructure and their management can provide nature based solutions for a range of water related societal challenges This edition of Unasylva explores that potential

Research Handbook on Climate Change and Agricultural Law Mary Jane Angelo, Anél Du Plessis, 2017-03-31 Research Handbook on Climate Change and Agricultural Law Hydrosocial Territories and Water Equity Rutgerd Boelens, Ben Crow, Jaime Hoogesteger, Flora E. Lu, Erik Swyngedouw, Jeroen Vos, 2017-06-01

Bringing together a multidisciplinary set of scholars and diverse case studies from across the globe this book explores the management governance and understandings around water a key element in the assemblage of hydrosocial territories Hydrosocial territories are spatial configurations of people institutions water flows hydraulic technology and the biophysical environment that revolve around the control of water Territorial politics finds expression in encounters of diverse actors with divergent spatial and political geographical interests as a result water in justice and in equity are embedded in these socio ecological contexts The territory building projections and strategies compete superimpose and align to strengthen specific water control claims of various interests As a result actors continuously recompose the territory's hydraulic grid cultural reference frames and political economic relationships Using a political ecology focus the different contributions to this book explore territorial struggles demonstrating that these contestations are not merely skirmishes over natural resources but battles over meaning norms knowledge identity authority and discourses The articles in this book were originally published in the journal Water International

The ^AOxford Handbook of Food, Water and Society Tony Allan, Brendan Bromwich, Martin Keulertz, Anthony Colman, 2019-09-27 Society's greatest use of water is in food production which makes farmers central to global environmental management Current food value chains however do not enable farmers to both feed a growing population and steward natural resources Through a carefully curated collection of articles written by water and food system scientists and professionals including farmers this Oxford Handbook considers the interconnected issues of real water in the environment and virtual water in food value chains and investigates society's influence on both This perspective highlights considerable challenges for food security and environmental stewardship in the context of ongoing global change The book discusses these issues by region and by selected commodities emphasizing innovation needed for the food system to meet future challenges

Eslamian, 2023-11-15 This book is part of a six volume series on Disaster Risk Reduction and Resilience The series aims to fill in gaps in theory and practice in the Sendai Framework and provides additional resources methodologies and communication strategies to enhance the plan for action and targets proposed by the Sendai Framework The series will appeal to a broad range of researchers academics students policy makers and practitioners in engineering environmental science and geography geoscience emergency management finance community adaptation atmospheric science and information technology This volume discusses the implementation of socio hydrological resilience measures to curb the impacts on vulnerable communities of hydrologic disasters such as coastal floods drought water scarcity and thunderstorms The book provides a framework for sustainable hydrology community interactions to inform local communities about the best practices to achieve hydrological resilience and to implement resilient water infrastructure Hydrological influences on the resilience of a region are comprehensively surveyed and a green economy strategy is described and recommended for achieving climatic and hydrological sustainability University Initiatives in Climate Change Mitigation and Adaptation Walter Leal

Filho, Rafael Leal-Arcas, 2018-06-18 This book focuses on the role of higher education institutions in addressing climate change mitigation and adaptation challenges contributing to the development of this fast growing field Further it includes the results of empirical research and offers ideas regarding on going and future research initiatives The contributions also showcase the research and projects on issues pertaining to climate change at universities from across the globe document and promote ideas and experiences acquired in the execution of research projects especially successful initiatives and best practices and introduce methodological approaches and projects that offer a better understanding of climate change across society and economic sectors The book is structured around two parts lessons learned from climate change research education studies and projects Each part focuses on mitigation and adaptation respectively with many responses of the two modalities overlapping This book is a valuable resource for researchers and practitioners in the fields of environment human geography business and economics as well as academics and students as it presents education communication and awareness raising projects on matters related to climate change at universities in both industrialised and developing countries often in cooperation with government bodies NGOs and other stakeholders Disaster Risk Reduction in Indonesia Douglas Paton, Saut Sagala, 2018 Indonesia's history of disasters and particularly the Indian Ocean Tsunami of 2004 triggered numerous changes not only to Indonesian disaster management and its associated legislative frameworks but also to its community based initiatives The citizens face many challenges from diverse complex and evolving hazards emanating from geological terrestrial hydro meteorological hazards and climate change This book discusses several ways in which strategies utilizing environmental livelihood social and cultural resources can be used to develop effective disaster risk reduction designed to sustain social cultural and economic life in Indonesia A key focus is understanding the capabilities processes and relationships of everyday life and developing them to ensure that disaster reduction strategies can be incorporated into mainstream community life in urban rural and island settings The following topics are featured disaster reduction and developing an Indonesian perspective the adaptation by farmers in dealing with climate change promoting adaptive capacity of coastal communities to climate change community resilience to the Mount Merapi volcanic disaster community vulnerability to health and water hazards in Semarang the mobility and livelihood of small islands the national climate change perspective into flood management practice food security carbon management and climate risk reduction water management strategy for resilience cultural heritage to increase community resilience local wisdom and community resilience cultural drivers of disaster risk reduction behavior and the case of Pulau Simeulue rethinking resilience culture and disasters community disaster recovery after the 2010 Mount Merapi eruption seizing opportunities for change towards sustainability during disaster recovery and the case of Aceh Indonesia and the overall disaster reduction in Indonesia and moving forward The purpose of this text is to highlight the importance of strategies that encompass the local regional and national levels of analysis which seeks to ensure all stakeholders play important roles in the development and implementation of disaster risk reduction strategies This book will serve as an outstanding resource for practitioners and academics to adopt an integrative approach to develop the functional beliefs knowledge relationships and actions that Indonesia and its citizens need to thrive and prosper in increasingly hazardous times The Water, Energy, and Food Security Nexus in the Arab Region Kamel Amer, Zafar Adeel, Benno Böer, Walid Saleh, 2016-12-01 This book investigates the need for a more open and interdisciplinary dialogue on the nexus of food water and energy security in the Arab region It argues that achieving sustainable economic development is irretrievably tied to the security of the water energy food nexus which is in turn essential for bringing about sustained peace Further it discusses various approaches to achieving these lofty objectives and offers the following take away messages The Arab region is currently under considerable water stress and the situation will continue to get worse with a number of global changes most notably those related to climate and regional water distribution Viable solutions are available in the Arab region and can be implemented through innovative policies judicious use of new technologies and stimulating public opinion Integration across water energy and food sectors is obviously needed but achieving it in practice is extremely challenging There are some gaps in the scientific understanding but at the same time there is a wealth of data and synthesized information that can guide decision making

Analysis of the Global Water Crisis Medani P. Bhandari, 2025-11-19 This pioneering work provides a comprehensive exploration of the world's most pressing water issues It offers a global overview of the water crisis meticulously categorizing regions based on their water availability from areas facing extreme water scarcity to those enjoying relative abundance By examining diverse case studies it presents specific examples from regions struggling with severe droughts high to moderate water stress moderate water security and those blessed with ample freshwater resources The book delves into the underlying causes of the global water crisis including climate change population growth pollution and unsustainable water management practices It highlights the disparities between regions emphasizing how some communities face life threatening shortages while others have access to surplus water By comparing these different scenarios the book sheds light on the complex socio economic environmental and political factors contributing to water inequality At its core this book carries a message of urgency and hope It challenges readers to rethink water as a shared resource and inspires global cooperation to address water scarcity The book advocates for innovative solutions such as sustainable water management advanced technologies for water conservation and policies that promote equitable access to clean water Analysis of the Global Water Crisis is an essential read for policymakers researchers environmentalists and anyone concerned about the future of our planet It offers noble ideas for a sustainable future where water is managed wisely ensuring the survival and prosperity of all living beings The message is clear water is not just a resource but a fundamental right and it is our collective responsibility to protect it for future generations Technical topics discussed in the book include Water availability and distribution Climate change and water resources Water stress and scarcity indicators Groundwater depletion Water pollution and contamination Integrated water resources management IWRM Desalination and water reuse technologies Water energy nexus Transboundary water conflicts and cooperation Policies and governance for water security

Catchment and River Basin Management Laurence Smith, Keith Porter, Kevin Hiscock, Mary Jane Porter, David Benson, 2015-04-17 The central focus of this volume is a critical comparative analysis of the key drivers for water resource management and the provision of clean water governance systems and institutional and legal arrangements The authors present a systematic analysis of case study river systems drawn from Australia Denmark Germany the Netherlands UK and USA to provide an integrated global assessment of the scale and key features of catchment management A key premise explored is that despite the diversity of jurisdictions and catchments there are commonalities to a successful approach The authors show that environmental and public health water quality criteria must be integrated with the economic and social goals of those affected necessitating a twin track and holistic cross sector and discipline approach of stakeholder engagement and sound scientific research A final synthesis presents a set of principles for adaptive catchment management These principles demonstrate how to integrate the best scientific and technical knowledge with policy governance and legal provisions It is shown how decision making and implementation at the appropriate geographic and governmental scales can resolve conflicts and share best sustainable practices

Emerging Practices in Architectural Pedagogy Laura Sanderson, Sally Stone, 2021-07-29 Emerging Practices in Architectural Pedagogy explores the emergent techniques in architectural education that are helping to bridge the gap between the institutional setting and working practice It demonstrates how teaching and learning can and should be directed towards tackling the real world problems that students will encounter within their professional careers Architectural and design practitioners are becoming less specialised they are embracing cross disciplinary connections and practical problem solving Architecture and design schools must align their teaching to reflect this changing world and evolve from a fact based acquisition process to a participatory method of learning This book uses an extended case study format to examine large scale issues Each chapter represents a specific mode of practice which is linked to the wider debate on architectural and design pedagogy this includes collaborative workshops and interventions issues connected to sustainability and climate change responses to rapid urbanisation and the creation of collaborative relationships across disciplines The book has an international perspective with contributions from the United Kingdom United States of America and Singapore and includes a timely discussion on teaching in a remote climate This book will be an invaluable resource for engaged academics and teaching practitioners interested in playing a key role in the future development of the architectural profession

Wind Energy and Wildlife Impacts Regina Bispo, Joana Bernardino, Helena Coelho, José Lino Costa, 2019-03-25 This book provides a state of art overview of the significant advances in understanding the impacts of wind energy on wildlife However many challenges remain regarding planning and policy assessment of direct and indirect effects on wildlife methodological approaches technology development and mitigation strategies and their effectiveness The book comprises a selection of the best contributions presented at the 4th Conference on Wind energy and Wildlife impacts held in Estoril Portugal 2017 The contents promote the international cooperation among researchers developers regulators and stakeholders that have contributed to building knowledge on this topic

Corporations as Custodians of the Public Good? Thérèse Rudebeck, 2019-03-20 This book provides a comprehensive assessment of how local corporate water strategies influence global water governance objectives In various geographies companies spearhead a quest for more sustainable water management within and beyond their own operations This book critically examines such strategies and provides an overarching analysis of the effects that mounting corporate involvement has had on the global water discourse More specifically it explains why companies from the food beverage textile and mining sectors have started to incorporate water management objectives into their business strategies how companies work in partnerships with other stakeholders to realize these objectives and how these actions acquire wider political legitimacy It presents insightful interview material from business leaders and other high level stakeholders Readers will gain the necessary knowledge to develop a critical view and respond appropriately
