

Surfing

Surfers ride the crest of a progressive wave because they are moving faster than the water. If they were stationary, they would be swept away. Waves in the ocean move energy across the surface, but the average water level and the positions of the surfers do not change.

This graph shows the direction of transverse motion of the water is perpendicular to the direction of propagation.

Sound Waves

There are four types of wave motion: longitudinal, transverse, surface, and electromagnetic.

Longitudinal Waves

Compression waves move energy along with the medium (slong). Example: sound waves. The up-and-down motion of the air.

Longitudinal

Transverse Waves

Diffusion of a wave pulse. Example: sound. The transverse motion of the water particles is perpendicular to the direction of wave travel. What happens in the water? The water moves up and down, but the wave travels to the right.

Transverse

Reflection

Wave Motion

Diffusion is a wave, because it moves. Example: sound waves. The up-and-down motion of the air.

We will see that a wave pulse is a wave. Many waves are reflected. We can think of a wave as a pulse. The wave pulse is a wave, and the wave is a pulse. Figure 12.1 shows a wave pulse in a string.

Waves have a direction of travel. A wave pulse is a wave, and the wave is a pulse. Figure 12.1 shows a wave pulse in a string.
