Willing Suspension Of Disbelief Poetic Faith In Film:

Willing Suspension of Disbelief Anthony J. Ferri, 2007-01-01 Samuel Taylor Coleridge's 1817 term a willing suspension of disbelief has survived and been used by film critics and others to describe what happens when a movie viewer watches a movie. While film scholars and professionals have alluded to the term in a parenthetical or tertiary manner, this manuscript makes a definitive account for the concept and provides a contemporary analysis of the film viewing process from a variety of critical and empirical perspectives.

Abbas Kiarostami and Film-Philosophy Mathew Abbott, 2016-10-27 A deflationary anti-theoretical film philosophy through the cinema of Abbas Kiarostami. Mathew Abbott presents a powerful new film philosophy through the cinema of Iranian director Abbas Kiarostami. Mathew Abbott argues that Kiarostami's films carry out cinematic thinking; they do not just illustrate pre-existing philosophical ideas but do real philosophical work. Crossing the divide between analytic and continental philosophy, he draws on Ludwig Wittgenstein, Stanley Cavell, John McDowell, Alice Cray, Noë, Al Carroll, Giorgio Agamben, and Martin Heidegger, bringing out the thinking at work in Kiarostami's most recent films: Taste of Cherry, The Wind Will Carry Us, ABC Africa, Ten Five, Shirin, Certified Copy, and Like Someone in Love.

Fiction and Imagination in Early Cinema Mario Slušan, 2019-11-28 Shortlisted for the BAFTSS Best Monograph Award 2021. When watching the latest instalment of Batman, it is perfectly normal to say that we see Batman fighting Bane or that we see Bruce Wayne making love to Miranda Tate. We would not say that we see Christian Bale dressed up as Batman going through the motions of punching Tom Hardy dressed up as Bane. Nor do we say that we see Christian Bale pretending to be Bruce Wayne making love with Marion Cotillard who is playacting the role Miranda Tate. But if we look at the history of cinema and consider contemporary reviews from the early days of the medium, we see that people thought precisely in this way about early film. They spoke of film as no more than documentary recordings of actors performing on set. In an innovative combination of philosophical aesthetics and new cinema history, Mario Slušan investigates how our default imaginative engagement with film changed over the first two decades of cinema. It addresses not only the importance of imagination for the understanding of early cinema but also contributes to our understanding of what it means for a representational medium to produce fictions. Specifically, Slušan argues that cinema provides a better model for understanding fiction than literature.

Psychoanalytic Perspectives on the Films of Ingmar Bergman Vanessa Sinclair, 2022-12-01 Psychoanalytic Perspectives on the Films of Ingmar Bergman presents a contemporary Freudian/Lacanian assessment of this classic director. This collection is the first to bring together this unique psychological perspective on Bergman's work. While Bergman and his films have been written about throughout the decades, until now there has not been a collection anthologizing Freudian/Lacanian perspectives on his work. Vanessa Sinclair brings together an international community of scholars and practicing psychoanalysts, some of whom are also filmmakers, to reflect on Bergman's films, life, and work in philosophical, historical, and cultural contexts. They assess individual films in depth, compare multiple films, and focus on Bergman's life and work in a

How Toddlers Learn the Secret Language of Movies Cary Bazalgette, 2022-05-18 This book takes a radically new approach to the well worn topic of children s relationship with the media avoiding the risks and benefits paradigm while examining very young children s interactions with film and television Bazalgette proposes a refocus on the learning processes that children must go through in order to understand what they are watching on televisions phones or iPads To demonstrate this she offers unique insight from research done with her twin grandchildren starting from just before they were two years old with analysis drawn from the field of embodied cognition to help identify minute behaviours and expressions as signals of emotions and thought processes The book makes the case that all inquiry into early childhood movie viewing should be based on the premise that learning usually self driven is taking place throughout

On the Verge of Tears Michele Byers, David Lavery, 2010-04-16 The idea for this book began with David Lavery s 2007 column for flowtv org The Crying Game Why Television Brings Us to Tears asked us to consider that age old mystery tears The respondents to David s initial survey Michele Byers among them didn t agree on anything Some cried more over film some television some books some felt their tears to be a release others to be a manipulation They did agree however as did the readers who responded to the column that crying over stories and even things is something that is a shared and familiar cultural practice This book was born from that moment of recognition On the Verge of Tears is not the first book to think about crying Tom Lutz s Crying The Natural nor is its approach psychological sociological as is Nelson s It does not limit itself to very contemporary popular culture as does Jenkins book or material culture as does Schwenger s study What On the Verge of Tears offers are personal cultural and political ruminations on the tears we shed in our daily engagements with the world and its artifacts The essays found within are often deeply personal but also have broad implications for everyday life The authors included here contemplate how and why art music film literature theatre theory and material artifacts make us weep They consider the risks of tears in public and private spaces the way tears implicate us in tragedy comedy and horror On the Verge of Tears does not offer a unified theory of crying but instead invites us to imagine tears as a multi vocal language we can all in some manner understand

Penelope Fitzgerald and the Consolation of Fiction Christopher Knight, 2016-09-13 Christopher J Knight s Penelope Fitzgerald and the Consolation of Fiction is a study of the British author Penelope Fitzgerald 1916 2000 attending to her nine novels especially as viewed through the lens both of late style she published her first novel The Golden Child at age sixty and in her words of consolation that is for doubts and fears as well as for naked human loss As in Shakespeare's late religiously inflected romances the two concerns coincide and Fitzgerald's ostensible comedies are marked by a clear experience of the tragic and the palpable sense of a world that verges on the edge of indifference to human loss Yet Fitzgerald her late age pessimism notwithstanding seeks with the aid of her own religious understandings in each of her novels to wrestle meaning consolation and even comedy from circumstances not noticeably propitious Or as she herself memorably spoke of her own deepest convictions I can only say that however close I've come by this time to nothingness I have remained true to my deepest convictions I mean to the courage of those who are born to be defeated the weaknesses of the strong and the tragedy of misunderstandings and missed opportunities which I have done my best to treat as a comedy for otherwise how can we manage to bear it The recipient of Britain's Booker Prize and America's National Book Critics Circle Award Penelope Fitzgerald's reputation as a novelist and author more generally has grown since her death significantly to the point that she is now widely judged one of Britain's finest writers comparable in worth to the likes of Jane Austen George Eliot and Virginia Woolf
