Lendon, 1997 Jon Lendon offers a new interpretation of how the Roman empire worked in the first four centuries AD A despotism rooted in force and fear enjoyed widespread support among the ruling classes of the provinces on the basis of an aristocratic culture of honour shared by rulers and ruled The competitive

Roman and Greek aristocrats of the empire conceived of their relative standing in terms of public esteem or honour and conceived of their cities towards which they felt a warm patriotism as entities locked in a parallel struggle for primacy in honour over rivals Emperors and provincial governors exploited these rivalries to gain the indispensable co operation of local magnates by granting honours to individuals and their cities Since rulers strove for honour as well their subjects manipulated them with honours in their turn Honour whose workings are also traced in the Roman army served as a way of talking and thinking about Roman government it was both a species of power and a way connived in by rulers and ruled of concealing the terrible realities of imperial rule London in the Roman World Dominic Perring,2022 This original study draws on the results of latest archaeological discoveries to describe London s Roman origins It offers a wealth of new information from one of the world s richest and most intensively studied archaeological sites Armed Batavians Johan Nicolay,2025-10-01 This study explores the use and significance of Roman weaponry and horse gear from non military contexts in the eastern Rhine delta the territory of the Batavians Using a life cycle model for Roman soldiers the author interprets the large quantity of 1st century finds as personal memorabilia brought home by ex soldiers as a reminder of their 25 years of service symbolising their newly acquired veteran status Underpinning the research is an extensive inventory of militaria from urban centres rural settlements cult places rivers and graves presented in 96 plates The study not only presents a considerable body of unpublished data but also offers an intriguing perspective on daily life in the northern frontier of the Roman Empire with its closely interwoven military and civilian values Amsterdam Archaeological Studies is a series devoted to the study of past human societies from the prehistory up into modern times primarily based on the study of archaeological remains The series will include excavation reports of modern fieldwork studies of categories of material culture and synthesising studies with broader images of past societies thereby contributing to the theoretical and methodological debates in archaeology

Ethnography broadly understood is a key element in the toolkit of every empire as important as armies tax collectors or ambassadors. It helps rulers articulate cultural differences with outsiders and sometimes bridge them and it lets the inhabitants of an empire especially those who guide its course understand themselves and their place in the midst of the enemies allies and friends who surround them. Whenever provinces are drawn peace treaties and alliances framed diplomats sent on mission decisions taken to go to war or simply life lived in the midst of unfamiliar voices some kind of ethnographic vision must come into play. This ethnographic infrastructure as ancient historian Michael Maas calls it supports the empire's view of itself regarding the nations of the world and it shapes and reflects actual interactions with them. Ethnography is not simply a reflection of changes. It also enables change by providing terms and concepts that give voice to the articulation of new circumstances. In this book Maas argues that to understand how the Roman Empire transformed in the crucial period of Late Antiquity the empire's ethnographic underpinnings especially as they were affected by Christianity must be examined. As Maas demonstrates Romans knew they lived in a world of great cultural diversity movement and instability. They believed that their empire imposed order upon it. Images of barbarians filled public spaces throughout the empire as reminders of Roman control. Writers likewise filled their pages with descriptions of foreigners in a wide variety of genres. These ethnographies according to Maas served three general functions. First they described foreign peoples placing them in established and accessible systems of knowledge. Second they judged them on a register of distance from Roman norms with most like us the best possible evaluation. Third ethnography indicated explicitly or implicitly what the possibilities of participation within the imperial community might be. In other words the gift of ethnography possessed for the conquerors a mechanism of imperial transformation. The Classical Review, 1999 Proceedings, 2008 Ancient Society, 2012

1996 Massimo Mastrogregori, 2014-02-21. Annually published since 1930 the International bibliography of Historical Sciences IBOHS is an international bibliography of the most important historical monographs and periodical articles published throughout the world which deal with history from the earliest to the most recent times. The works are arranged systematically according to period region or historical discipline and within this classification alphabetically. The bibliography contains a geographical index and indexes of persons and authors. Der Kaiser und Konstantinopel Rene Pfeilschifter, 2013-12-12. Zwischen 395 und 624 residierte der Kaiser des Ostens ununterbrochen in Konstantinopel. Er reiste nicht mehr durchs Reich er führte keine Armee in den Krieg er verließ die Stadt nicht weiter als eine Tagesreise. Konstantinopel war ohne das Kaisertum undenkbar aber ebenso war der Herrscher auf die Stadt angewiesen. Ein römischer Kaiser konnte nämlich anders als ein Erbmonarch der Neuzeit Macht und Leben an einen Usurpator verlieren seine Stellung blieb stets prekär. Daher mußte er immer wieder um die Unterstützung der Einwohner Konstantinopels werben sie um jeden Preis behaupten und manchmal doch erfahren daß er sie verlor. Gesah das war sein Sturz unvermeidlich. So war der Kaiser eingebettet in ein komplexes Netz sozialer Beziehungen. Er benötigte die Akzeptanz von Armee Volk Geistlichkeit und Eliten.

Ihren Bedürfnissen kam er nach indem er ihre Anliegen in der Sache befriedigte oder den Status der verschiedenen gesellschaftlichen Gruppen durch angemessenes rituelles gestisches und verbales Handeln anerkannte Das Buch analysiert diese Prozesse gesellschaftlicher Interaktion es zeigt wie der Kaiser Kaiser blieb So entsteht ein neues Bild des soziopolitischen Systems Konstantinopels und des spätantiken Reiches insgesamt Lucan Matthew Leigh,1997 The Pharsalia Lucan's epic on the civil war between Caesar and Pompey is a document of fundamental importance for students of the history and literature of Rome in the early imperial period Whether one is a historian of the Republican opposition to Nero or a literary critic teasing out the ideological implications of intertextuality it is impossible to ignore this poem Taking as his guiding theme the unusual prominence of spectacle and spectators in the Pharsalia the tendency of either the narrator to represent complicity with or apathy towards the action of various characters as that of one who watches and does not engage or of individual characters to celebrate the actions which they undertake by turning them into theatrical displays for others to watch Dr Leigh demonstrates the importance of this phenomenon for narrative and intertextual concerns as well as for history and socio political matters He shows how Lucan can take devices characteristic of Virgilian narrative and transform them to launch an attack on the Augustan ideology of the Aeneid and produce a savagely Republican anti Aeneid which represents the civil wars as the death of Rome By studying the tension between the narrator's impassioned interventions and his characters' often manic zeal to transform civil war into performance this work discovers a Lucan who is as funny as he is serious as reflective as he is committed Social Dynamics in the Northwest Frontiers of the Late Roman Empire Nico Roymans,Stijn Heeren,Wim Clercq,2025-10-01 This volume explores the final phase of the West Roman Empire particularly the changing interactions between the imperial authority and external barbarian groups in the northwest frontiers of the empire during the fourth and fifth centuries The contributions present valuable overviews of recent archaeological research combined with innovative theoretical discussions Key topics include the movement of precious metals trajectories of imperial power the archaeology of migration and material culture in relation to debates about ethnicity

The British National Bibliography Arthur James Wells,2001 Ethnische Identität im Entstehungsprozess des spanischen Westgotenreiches Manuel Koch,2011-11-30 Für die Migrationsphase der barbarischen Völker wurde gezeigt dass ihre ethnische Identität als situationsabhängige Identifikation beschrieben werden muss Diese Erkenntnis ist für die Untersuchung der barbarischen Nachfolgereiche bisher jedoch weitgehend folgenlos geblieben So stellt auch im Falle des spanischen Westgotenreiches die klare Differenzierung zwischen eingewanderten Goten und sogenannten Hispano Romanen nach wie vor eine wesentliche Voraussetzung für das Verständnis der historischen Prozesse im Übergang von der römischen Provinz zum regnum dar Diese Untersuchung wertet die überlieferten Schriftquellen hinsichtlich der Fragen aus inwieweit sie diese Unterscheidung stützen können und welches Verständnis der gotischen Identität sie erkennen lassen Es hat sich dabei gezeigt dass das Ethnonym Gothus mit einer politisch sozialen Identität verbunden und in Bezug auf das regnum nicht in Abgrenzung zu Romanus verwandt wird sondern dessen gesamte Bevölkerung einschließt. Es wird ferner deutlich dass die gotische Identität vor allem auf der Durchsetzung überregionaler politischer Strukturen fußte in welche sich die einheimischen Eliten teilweise gezwungenermaßen integrierten und deren Identität sie adaptierten.
