A Wesleyan Model for Ministry Assessment

NATURE, DESIGN, AND GENERAL RULES
OF THE
UNITED SOCIETIES

IN LONDON, BRISTOL, KINGSWOOD, NEWCASTLE-
UPON-TYNE, &c.

1. In the latter end of the year 1739, eight or ten persons came to me in London, who appeared to be deeply convinced of sin, and earnestly groaning for redemption. They desired (as did two or three more the next day) that I would spend some time with them in prayer, and advise them how to flee from the wrath to come; which they saw continually hanging over their heads. That we might have more time for this great work, I appointed a day when they might all come together, which from thenceforward they did every week, namely, on Thursday, in the evening. To these, and as many more as desired to join with them, (for their number increased daily,) I gave those advices, from time to time, which I judged most needful for them; and we always concluded our meeting with prayer suited to their several necessities.

2. This was the rise of the United Society, first in London, and then in other places. Such a society is no other than "a company of men having the form and seeking the power of godliness, united in order to pray together, to receive the word of exhortation, and to watch over one another in love, that they may help each other to work out their salvation," so that it may the more easily be discerned, whether they are true or false. These societies were first called classes, according to the number of members, and were at first about twelve
