Water Rights And Social Justice In The Mekong Region:

Water Rights and Social Justice in the Mekong Region Kate Lazarus, 2011 First Published in 2011 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis an informa company Water Rights and Social Justice in the Mekong Region Kate Lazarus, Bernadette P. Resurreccion, Nga Dao, Nathan Badenoch, 2012-06-25 The Mekong Region has come to represent many of the important water governance challenges faced more broadly by the mainland Southeast Asian region This book focuses on the complex nature of water rights and social justice in the Mekong region The chapters delve into the diverse social political and cultural dynamics that shape the various realities and scales of water governance in the region in an effort to bring to the forefront some of the local nuances required in the formulation of a larger vision of justice in water governance It is hoped that this contextualized analysis will deepen our understanding of the potential of and constraints on water rights in the region particularly in relation to the need to realize social justice The authors show how vitally important it is that water governance is democratized to allow a more equitable sharing of water resources and counteract the pressures of economic growth that may pose risks to social welfare and environmental sustainability M-power Book Series on Water Governance in the Mekong Region: Water rights and social justice in the Mekong Region , 2007 The Right to Water Farhana Sultana, Alex Loftus, 2013-10-18 The right to clean water has been adopted by the United Nations as a basic human right Yet how such universal calls for a right to water are understood negotiated experienced and struggled over remain key challenges The Right to Water elucidates how universal calls for rights articulate with local historical geographical contexts governance politics and social struggles thereby highlighting the challenges and the possibilities that exist Bringing together a unique range of academics policy makers and activists the book analyzes how struggles for the right to water have attempted to translate moral arguments over access to safe water into workable claims This book is an intervention at a crucial moment into the shape and future direction of struggles for the right to water in a range of political geographic and socio economics contexts seeking to be pro active in defining what this struggle could mean and how it might be taken forward in a far broader transformative politics The Right to Water engages with a range of approaches that focus on philosophical legal and governance perspectives before seeking to apply these more abstract arguments to an array of concrete struggles and case studies In so doing the book builds on empirical examples from Africa Asia Oceania Latin America the Middle East North America and the European Union Interactive Approaches to Water Governance in Asia Kenji Otsuka, 2019-01-12 This book applies interactive perspectives which have historically mainly been discussed in the context of Western European countries to case studies on water governance in Asia It examines how these perspectives can be used to reveal complex and dynamic interactions in water governance in Asia and how interactions between policies and practices as well as those between formal institutes and emerging informal institutes come to pass In two introductory chapters and seven case studies in Asia two from China and each one from Japan Thailand the Philippines Indonesia and India the book reveals the interactive forms currently emerging in Asia under hierarchical but often fragmented administrative systems In addition it explores emerging hybrid forms of interactive governance which bring together governmental and non governmental actors and discusses how the expected role of government and roles of non governmental actors could be changed to solve problems in a more cooperative manner In this context researchers from outside the locality could play an important role helping facilitate such forms of interactive governance The book offers extensive information on the essential features of interactive forms and on the role of such transdisciplinary approaches making it a valuable resource not only for scholars and university students but also for policymakers and grass roots practitioners directly involved in the interactive process of water governance Water Conflicts Mark Zeitoun, Naho Mirumachi, Jeroen Warner, 2020 The book breaks from the existing mold by deploying lively concepts and theory that shine a line on the dynamic interactions between states that are obliged to share a water resource whether or not they want to

Knowing the Salween River: Resource Politics of a Contested Transboundary River Carl Middleton, Vanessa Lamb, 2019-08-12 This open access book focuses on the Salween River shared by China Myanmar and Thailand that is increasingly at the heart of pressing regional development debates The basin supports the livelihoods of over 10 million people and within it there is great socio economic cultural and political diversity The basin is witnessing intensifying dynamics of resource extraction alongside large dam construction conservation and development intervention that is unfolding within a complex terrain of local national and transnational governance With a focus on the contested politics of water and associated resources in the Salween basin this book offers a collection of empirical case studies that highlights local knowledge and perspectives Given the paucity of grounded social science studies in this contested basin this book provides conceptual insights at the intersection of resource governance development and politics of knowledge relevant to researchers policy makers and practitioners at a time when rapid change is underway Fills a significant knowledge gap on a major river in Southeast Asia with empirical and conceptual contributions Inter disciplinary perspective and by a range of writers including academics policy makers and civil society researchers the majority from within Southeast Asia New policy insights on a river at the cross roads of a major political and development transition Routledge Handbook of the Environment in Southeast Asia Philip Hirsch, 2016-09-13 The environment is one of the defining issues of our times and it is closely linked to questions and dilemmas surrounding economic development Southeast Asia is one of the world's most economically and demographically dynamic regions and it is also one in which a host of environmental issues raise themselves The Routledge Handbook of the Environment in Southeast Asia is a collection of 30 chapters dealing with the most significant scholarly debates in this rapidly growing field of study Structured in four main parts it gives a comprehensive regional overview of and insight into the environment in Southeast Asia Wide ranging and balanced this handbook promotes scholarly understanding of how environmental issues are dealt with from diverse theoretical perspectives

It offers a detailed empirical understanding of the myriad environmental problems and challenges faced in Southeast Asia. This is the first publication of its kind in this field, a helpful companion for a global audience and for scholars of Southeast Asian studies from a variety of disciplines. China's Global Quest for Resources Fengshi Wu, Hongzhou Zhang, 2016-11-18

The world's key resources of energy, food, and water, which are closely connected and interdependent on each other, are coming under increasing pressure as a result of increasing population, development, and climate change. In the case of China, following its recent economic surge, energy, food, and water are already nearing the point of shortage. This book considers how China is working to avoid shortages of energy, food, and water and the effect this is having internationally. Subjects covered include domestic policy debates on China's resource strategies, challenges for managing transboundary waters related to China's responses from various regions and countries to China's 'Go Out' strategy, and China's increasing energy links with Russia and declining agricultural trade with the United States. The book concludes by discussing in comparative perspective China's outward resource acquisition activities and the consequent policy implications. The Mekong: A Socio-legal Approach to River Basin Development Ben Boer, Philip Hirsch, Fleur Johns, Ben Saul, Natalia Scurrah, 2015-12-22

An international river basin is an ecological system, an economic thoroughfare, a geographical area, a font of life and livelihoods, a geopolitical network, and often a cultural icon. It is also a socio-legal phenomenon. This book is the first detailed study of an international river basin from a socio-legal perspective. The Mekong River Basin, which sustains approximately 70 million people across Cambodia, China, Laos, Myanmar, Thailand, and Vietnam, provides a prime example of the socio-legal complexities of governing a transboundary river and its tributaries. The book applies its socio-legal analysis to bring a fresh approach to understanding conflicts surrounding water governance in the Mekong River Basin. The authors describe the wide range of uses being made of legal doctrine and legal argument in ongoing disputes surrounding hydropower development in the Basin, putting to rest lingering caricatures of a single ASEAN way of navigating conflict. They call into question some of the common assumptions concerning the relationship between law and development. The book also sheds light on important questions concerning the global hybridization or crossover of public and private power and its ramifications for water governance. With current debates and looming conflicts over water governance globally and over shared rivers in particular, these issues could not be more pressing. Small Countries, Big Diplomacy Alounkeo Kittikhoun, Anoulak Kittikhoun, 2021-10-14

This book shows how small countries use big diplomacy to advance national interests and global agendas, from issues of peace and security, the South China Sea, and nuclearization in Korea, and human rights, decolonization, to development, landlocked and least developed countries, and environment, hydropower development. Using the case of Laos, it explores how a small landlocked developing state maneuvered among the big players and championed causes of international concern at three of the world's important global institutions: the United Nations (UN), the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN), and the Mekong River Commission (MRC). Recounting the geographical and historical origins behind Laos diplomacy, this book traces the journey of the country surrounded by its five larger neighbors China Thailand Vietnam Myanmar and Cambodia and influenced by superpower rivalries from the Cold War to the post Cold War eras The book is written from an integrated perspective of a French educated Lao diplomat with over 40 years of experience in various senior roles in the Lao government leading major groups and committees at the UN and ASEAN and the theoretical knowledge and experience of an American trained Lao political scientist and international civil servant who has worked for the Lao government and the international secretariats of the UN and MRC These different perspectives bridge not only the theory practice divide but also the government insider outsider schism The book concludes with seven rules for small state diplomacy that should prove useful for diplomats statespersons policymakers and international civil servants alike It will also be of interest to scholars and experts in the fields of international relations and foreign policies of Laos the Mekong and Asia in general Environmental Security in Transnational Contexts Harlan Koff, Carmen Maganda, 2019-10-23 Much of the discussion surrounding the definition of the Sustainable Development Goals SDGs and the post 2015 global development agenda has contextualized sustainable development within the framework of transformation specifically prioritizing concepts such as equity security justice and rights While these debates correctly discussed power imbalances and relational obstacles to human development they have remained abstract because they focused only on the international level In this regard discussions have not adequately examined mechanisms that facilitate or block the emergence of sustainable development as a political priority nor do they address specific policy proposals to link environmental justice to human development strategies This book contends that human and environmental security should be framed in terms of transnational discussions rather than being limited to general international debates in order to examine both governance challenges and potential policy mechanisms that can effectively address environmental security issues that cross national boundaries The chapters in this volume undertake an empirical examination of the relationships between human and environmental security cross border exchanges and regional integration They address the relationships between international norms transnational human and environmental security issues and the regionalization of governance in different parts of the world as the book includes comparative analyses as well as case studies from Europe Asia and the Americas The chapters originally published as a special issue in Globalizations

Rivers, Cities and People Maartje van Eerd, Banashree Banerjee, 2025-05-06 This book looks at recent initiatives for river restoration and riverfront development intended to contribute to making Asian cities resilient inclusive and less polluted It uses an interdisciplinary perspective to assert that insufficient consideration of social issues in the planning and management of urban riverscapes leads to social exclusion Utilising diverse entry points and theoretical orientations every chapter of the volume contributes to the exploration of the way urban river restoration is entwined with questions around urban citizenship violation of international housing rights poverty and vulnerability livelihoods and the use of common property resources It explores the social aspects of well known cases and examples of river restoration projects from Asian megacities such as Lahore Dhaka Chennai Ahmedabad Bangkok Manila and secondary cities in India While touching on the technical ecological and recreational aspects of urban river restoration and riverfront development the book focuses on social issues related to displacement contestations around land and water the right to adequate housing and the interconnected rights to livelihoods health and food security Enriched with empirical evidence and theoretical underpinnings this book will be useful for students teachers and researchers of urban studies urban geography urban planning urban ecology sociology community development and policy and governance It will also provide valuable case material for practitioners in those disciplines Routledge Handbook of Environment and Society in Asia Paul G. Harris, Graeme Lang, 2014-09-19

Nowhere is the connection between society and the environment more evident and potentially more harmful for the future of the world than in Asia In recent decades rapid development of Asian countries with very large populations has led to an unprecedented increase in environmental problems such as air and water pollution solid and hazardous wastes deforestation depletion of natural resources and extinction of native species This handbook provides a comprehensive survey of the cultural social and policy contexts of environmental change across East Asia The team of international experts critically examine a wide range of environmental problems related to energy climate change air land water fisheries forests and wildlife The editors conclude that with nearly half of the human population of the planet and several rapidly growing economies most notably China Asian societies will determine much of the future of human impacts on the regional and global environments As climate change related threats to society increase the book strongly argues for increased environmental consciousness and action in Asian societies This handbook is a very valuable companion for students scholars policy makers and researchers working on environmental issues in Asia The Everyday Politics of Resources Nga Dao, 2025-05-15

The Everyday Politics of Resources explores the impact of development processes on the lives livelihoods and landscapes of the people of Northwest Vietnam Over the past two decades the homes and farms of hundreds of thousands of people have been appropriated to make way for dams rubber plantations and mining operations While this development has enriched the state and private enterprises it has also resulted in widespread hardship impoverishment and long term environmental destruction Nga Dao draws on more than twenty years of on the ground research in the region to show how these developments have affected people in vastly uneven ways creating wealth and stability for some while dispossessing others Filled with poignant and sometimes angry narratives by those who have lost their land and traditional livelihoods as well as more triumphant stories from those who have prospered under the capitalist transformation of the region The Everyday Politics of Resources is a timely urgent examination of modernization's benefits and costs The Water-Food-Energy Nexus Jeremy Allouche, Carl Middleton, Dipak Gyawali, 2019-04-09 The world of development thinkers and practitioners is abuzz with a new lexicon the idea of the nexus between water food and energy which is intuitively compelling It promises better integration of multiple sectoral elements a better transition to greener economies and sustainable development However there appears to be little agreement on its precise meaning whether it only complements existing environmental governance approaches or how it can be enhanced in national contexts One current approach to the nexus treats it as a risk and security matter while another treats it within economic rationality addressing externalities across sector A third perspective acknowledges it as a fundamentally political process requiring negotiation amongst different actors with distinct perceptions interests and practices This perspective highlights the fact that technical solutions for improving coherence within the nexus may have unintended and negative impacts in other policy areas such as poverty alleviation and education The Water Food Energy Nexus Power Politics and Justice lays out the managerial technical definitions of the nexus and challenges these conceptions by bringing to the forefront the politics of the nexus around two key dimensions a dynamic understanding of water food energy systems and a normative positioning around nexus debates in particular around social justice The authors argue that a shift in nexus governance is required towards approaches where limits to control are acknowledged and more reflexive plural strategies adopted This book will be of interest to academic researchers policy makers and practitioners in the fields of international development studies environmental politics and science and technology studies as well as international relations

Alternative Development Cathrine Brun,Piers Blaikie,2016-03-23 This book brings together a collection of essays that discuss alternative development and its relevance for local global processes of marginalization and change in the Global South Alternative development questions who the producers of development knowledges and practices are and aims at decentring development and geographical knowledge from the Anglo American centre and the Global North It involves resistance to dominant political economic processes in order to further the possibilities for non exploitative and just forms of development By discussing how to unravel marginalization and voice change through alternative methods actors and concepts the book provides useful guidance on understanding the relationship between theory and practice The main strength of the book is that it calls for a central role for alternative development in the current development discourse most notably related to justice rights globalization forced migration conflict and climate change The book provides new ways of engaging with alternative development thinking and making development alternatives relevant Routledge Handbook of Gender and Agriculture Carolyn E. Sachs,Leif Jensen,Paige Castellanos,Kathleen Sexsmith,2020-10-28 The Routledge Handbook of Gender and Agriculture covers major theoretical issues as well as critical empirical shifts in gender and agriculture Gender relations in agriculture are shifting in most regions of the world with changes in the structure of agriculture the organization of production international restructuring of value chains climate change the global pandemic and national and multinational policy changes This book provides a cutting edge assessment of the field of gender and agriculture with contributions from both leading scholars and up and coming academics as well as policymakers and practitioners The handbook is organized into four parts part 1 institutions markets and policies part 2 land labor and agrarian transformations part 3 knowledge methods and access to information and part 4 farming people and identities The last chapter is an epilogue from many of the contributors focusing on gender agriculture and shifting food systems during the coronavirus pandemic The chapters address both historical subjects as well as ground breaking work on gender and agriculture which will help to chart the future of the field The handbook has an international focus with contributions examining issues at both the global and local levels with contributors from across the world With contributions from leading academics policymakers and practitioners and with a global outlook the Routledge Handbook of Gender and Agriculture is an essential reference volume for scholars students and practitioners interested in gender and agriculture Chapter 13 of this book is freely available as a downloadable Open Access PDF at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY NC ND 4.0 license

Environmental Regimes in Asian Subregions Simon Marsden, 2017-03-31 Informed by international law international relations and environment management scholarship this interdisciplinary analysis of environmental regimes in Asian subregions proposes a new regime for the Himalayas and Tibetan Plateau based on China's cooperation with its south Asian neighbors

Environmental Resources Use and Challenges in Contemporary Southeast Asia Mario Ivan Lopez, Jafar Suryomenggolo, 2018-05-17 This edited volume introduces dynamic approaches to the study of Southeast Asia's environmental diversity from different disciplinary perspectives at the interface between the natural and social sciences It brings together research on the region's environmental resource use and shared ecological challenges in the context of present day globalization to offer insights for possible future directions The book introduces unique approaches to the study of Southeast Asia's environmental changes and resource management under the influence of intensifying economic change in the region It also examines the slow erosion of Southeast Asia's rich environment and addresses serious issues such as the decrease in biodiversity and tropical forests and the degradation of peat lands At the same time it discusses the social issues that are tied to energy dependent growth and have intensified over the last two decades It also analyzes the new roadmaps being created to protect conserve and manage the environment By investigating the many ecological issues surrounding us the volume brings to light the constant struggles we face while trying to develop a more inclusive and equitable approach to natural resources governance This volume is relevant for students academics and researchers who have an interest in the Southeast Asian environment and the way in which we use and interact with it
